AMERICAN DOLLAR WORLD'S STANDARD OF VALUE

ENGLISH POUND HITS LOW MARK OF HISTORY

Flood of Bills Against Britain and Her Allies Sends It Down and Causee's Demoralization in Wall Street

New York, Aug. 16.—The value of the English pound sterling went steadily and rapidly downward today until it touched 4.64 in American money, the lowest value ever placed upon it since New York became a financial center. Utter demoralization of the foreign exchange markets resulted.

Frances followed suit, falling to 6.00, or the equivalent of 16 2-3 cents. Normally pound sterling is quoted at 4.87 and francs at approximately 20 cents.

Bills Against Allies Cause.
On Saturday the English pound established a new low record in the New York money market by falling to 4.69. Today it opened two cents under Saturday's lowest price, within an hour lost another penny and by 1 o'clock had sold down to 4.64. The sharp fall in exchange rates was ascribed to the demand of American manufacturers for the goods sold by them abroad.

Within the last few days the money market had been flooded with bills against England and her allies. It was reported that last Friday between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000 of such bills were presented to one big banking house alone. Today's demands, which sent the exchange rates to unheard of low levels, were believed to be far in excess of this sum.

American Dollar the Standard.
With the English pound debased as never before, the American dollar was today the standard of the world financial market. In financial circles the rapid lowering of foreign exchange rates was regarded as presaging difficulties ahead. Ways in which England might meet the situation and maintain her credit here were commonly discussed. There seemed to be two alternatives:

The establishment here of a huge loan or credit, conservatively put at $500,000,000, or the acquisition in England of a large amount of American securities to be placed here as collateral for a temporary credit.

Bankers Seek a Remedy.
Bankers with international credit were in conference over the situation today. The reappearance in the financial district of J. P. Morgan for the first time since an attempt was made to assassinate him July 3 gave color to the belief that negotiations to end the present abnormal situation might soon be consummated.

In the face of this belief there was a rally in the market for sterling about 2 p. m. which brought quotations back to within one cent of the opening. France likewise steadied. Other continents also rose in sympathy.

WEST END YOUNGSTERS ENJOY INDIAN WAR ROMP IN BACK YARDS

An Indian encampment in the rear of a West End street home is the scene of daily Indian warfare among the children in the neighborhood, and the camera man happened to catch them in one of their bloodiest battles. The result was that the Indians lay down together, and the whites alike grouping in front of the tepee. Standing, right to left, are: Junior Drayer (who insists that his first name isn't Park, or anything like it, but Junior), and Sidney Carahan. Seated, left to right, are: Grace Keenan, Regine Minsky, John Milton Rosenthal, Jr., Helen Doyle, James Kane and Jack White.

RUSSIA HOLDS GERMAN PURSUIT NOW CHECKED

Slav Military Leaders View Situation With Optimism, While Teutonic Reports Tell Another Story.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

Advances recorded in the German official statement today represent a further closing in by Teutonic troops on the fortress of Brest-Litovsk, the stronghold of the new Russian line of defenses.

Prince Leopold of Bavaria, who yesterday reported a defeat of the Russians near Losyve, 19 miles east of Siedlce, which the Germans took late last week, today occupied Losyve and Miedzyrzec, the latter place about 25 miles in a southwesterly direction from Siedlce. Afterwards the Russians were beaten in a stand east of Losyve and were pursued, the Berlin statement says. These operations were within 40 miles of Brest-Litovsk.

Still closer to fortress are the armies of Field Marshal von Mackensen which on Saturday were reported within 40 miles of the stronghold. Since then they have advanced northward in pursuit of the Russians, marching toward Brest-Litovsk along both banks of the Bug.

Other successes are reported for the Germans between the Narew and the Bug, together with the capture of an advanced position at the fortress of Kovno and the taking in these sectors of nearly seven thousand Russian prisoners.

Despite German successes, Petrograd military observers do not take a pessimistic view of the situation looking for a determined stand by the Russians as their new line is reached.

Operations on the western front were relatively unimportant. An engagement toward the southern end of the line near Ammerzwiller appears to have been indecisive neither the French nor the Germans claiming any notable advantage.

Parliaments of Serbia and Greece meet today and important developments in the Balkan situation are expected. Capitals of the entente allies hope for a speedy agreement among the Balkan powers by which their concerted aid may be given the allied cause, but prediction of quick action to this end are lacking. Obstacles of the trend of diplomatic interchanges recognize many difficulties, in view of the reluctance of Serbia and Greece to grant the territorial claims of Bulgaria.

Military activity is increasing along the Austro-Serbian frontier. Exchanges of artillery fire at Belgrade have been followed by Serbian bombardment of defenses before the village of Dobro on the Danube. Heavy concentration of Teutonic forces on the edge of the Balkan region is reported. A German submarine has sunk the Norwegian steamer Albia, a 1318 ton vessel. The crew escaped.

ART SMITH DAY IS TO BE A BIG EVENT

His Visit Home to Be Occasion for Celebration.

That Art Smith, the Fort Wayne bird-boy, will be given a royal welcome on his return to this city is now assured. His visit to his home town will be the occasion for a big celebration, at which time Art will be the center of attraction.

Smith is in Mason City, Iowa, this week and a letter has been forwarded to that city asking him to answer as soon as possible when he will be home. As soon as this is known these back of the movement for an "Art Smith Day" will make the necessary arrangements.

In the event that such a celebration is held it is probable that Art will give an exhibition fight for his home folks free of charge and perform some of the daring aerial feats which have won for him the reputation of being the most fearless aviator of his day.

From Mason City Art will go to Omaha, Neb., where he will stay for a couple of days, after which he will leave for New York. An effort is being made to have him stop off in Fort Wayne on his way east.

ACTUAL WORK WILL SOON BEGIN ON DAM

There will be a general meeting of the St. Joe River improvement association this week for the purpose of naming committees to begin actual work on promoting the reconstruction of the old Ludisill dam, or to build a dam in that vicinity for the purpose of making a body of water that will provide a public pleasure resort where the people throughout the city can enjoy boating, bathing and fishing during the summer and skating and other sports during the winter.

There are many people today throughout the city that remember the old Ludisill dam and the many pleasant days that were spent there. Family picnics, boating, bathing, fishing, skating and many other kinds of sports were greatly enjoyed in those days by the people throughout the city. The plan is now to provide another public pleasure resort for the benefit of the citizens of Fort Wayne.

ACCUSED MAN HANGS SELF

Silas Ebersole Ends His Life in Cell of the South Bend Jail.

LEAVES NO LIGHT ON GIRL'S MURDER
Former Dunkard Preacher Commits Suicide by Strange Means.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 16.—Silas N. Ebersole, held for the murder of 15-year-old Hazel Macklin, committed suicide by hanging himself in the county jail this morning.

Ebersole, a former Dunkard minister, aged 55, was strangled by a two foot piece of small lead pipe which he had broken off from a disinfectant apparatus in the hall way near his cell. His body was found at 7:30 o'clock this morning by Turnkey Barker and jailers who were that he had been dead for several hours. He left nothing in the way of a confession, according to Coroner T. J. Swantz, but a letter to his wife in regard to matters bearing upon his case. The body was hanging to the bars in the rear of the cell when Turnkey Barker approached the door at the front. The lead pipe, which was probably a half inch in diameter, was twisted about his neck and about the bars of the cell over his head. He trusted himself with towels and blankets so that in his death struggle he would not be able to release himself from the pipe.

The letter found in the cell was supposed to have been directed to Mrs. Ebersole.

STOLEN FORD FOUND BY CHICAGO POLICE

The five passenger Ford Touring car, which was stolen last Monday afternoon, August 9, from the court house square, was found by the Chicago police Monday morning, according to a telegram received at noon today by Chief of Police Charles Lenz.

The auto belonged to A. C. McCoy, a certified public accountant, who has his office at 301 Shoaff building, and was stolen in broad day light between one and three o'clock in the afternoon. No trace of the thieves could be found here.

The police department is to be complimented on their promptness and the quickness in which the stolen auto was recovered. Mr. McCoy greatly appreciated the fact that it is recovered and stated the police department should be commended for its quick recovery. Mr. McCoy will leave for Chicago Monday evening to bring back his Ford.

THREE MACHINES IN CORNER SMASH

Ford, Big Truck and Coupe Damaged and None Hurt.

A Big Four Fruit company truck, a Ford owned and driven by J. R. Matlock, 342 West Taber street, and an electric coupe driven by Miss Irene Malloy, mixed in a triangular muddle at Harrison and Grand streets shortly before 1:30 Monday afternoon, and although all the cars were more or less banged up no one was injured.

The Big Four fruit truck was running at a high speed west on Grand street and Miss Malloy and Matlock were driving on Harrison, both going south. Miss Malloy was on the right side of the street, and when she saw the approaching truck realized that she could not avoid being run down, and so turned on full speed and climbed the curbing and crossed the sidewalk to a zone of safety. Matlock was less fortunate and couldn't get away, his machine being badly smashed.

LINCOLN HIGHWAY IS COMPLETED

Final Lap of Concrete Road Opened Monday—Bridge Still Closed.

The last link of the Lincoln highway between Fort Wayne and New Haven was completed Monday. The bars were taken down on the final stretch of road to be laid, that portion from the bridge into the village of New Haven.

The bridge will not be open for several weeks, however, and although the road proper is now ready for traffic, the highway will not be open its full length until the new bridge is completed.

CRY OF SICK BOY STARTS FIRE PANIC

Wide Aisles and Cool Heads Avert Catastrophe at the Jefferson.

The cry of a sick boy in the audience, who suddenly was overcome by illness, was interpreted as a call of fire at the Jefferson theater at 10:10 o'clock Sunday night and fully a third of the house broke into a run for the exits. In less than ten seconds everyone in the house was standing, and hundreds had crowded into the aisles and started for the rear doors. Employees opened the side doors, but no one seemed to notice them and the crowd stormed to get out of the rear exits. Cool heads in the audience yelled "sit down" and in less than a minute the house was quiet.

The orchestra had just left, but the machine operator, coolly continued to run off the picture and assisted in a great measure in calming the frightened patrons. The aisles were so wide that there was little danger, although hundreds of people were pressing toward the rear.

People all over the house, who realized the danger of panic, stood in the aisles and warned the frightened not to run. No one was hurt and in less than two minutes the house was as quiet as it had been before.

The young fellow who was taken sick was suffering from a high fever and in a moment of delirium he screamed out that he was "going to die." The word "die" was misunderstood and was taken to be a call of "fire."

An overflow meeting will be held in the assembly room of the court house with Prof. Louis Dorn, of the Concordia college faculty, and member of the city park board, in charge. Messrs. O'Donnell and Vollmer will speak at both meetings.

COMPANY E RETURNS AFTER WEEK IN CAMP

Local Militia Wins High in Every Line of Duty at Fort Harrison.

Tired and foot sore members of company E returned Sunday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock in a special car over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line, from Fort Ben-jamin Harrison, where they have been in camp for the past week.

The Fort Wayne company won high honors in every line of duty, every member putting forth his best effort to make a creditable showing. The members were put through much disagreeable duty, all of which was accepted without a murmur. Unfavorable weather prevailed throughout the greater part of the week.

The boys were given a taste of real army life in times of war. Although they were compelled to wade in mud and water, ankle deep, there was not a man in the company on the sick roll. The Fort Wayne company made a great hit with its quartet, composed of Sergeant H. Miller, Corporal J. Miller, Sergeant J. C. Crissman, and Private William J. Miller. The quartet took camp.

TWO ARE SENT TO STATE PENAL FARM

Howard Burkholder and W.
Hershberg Go There for
Petit Larceny.

The charge of petit larceny in the city court Monday morning was considered a serious charge and as a result two young men were sent to the Indiana state penal farm. Walter Hershberg, who stole a dozen pair of silk hose from a well known shoe store on East Berry street, where he had been employed for three days, was given a fine of twenty dollars and costs and sentenced to the farm for thirty days, while Howard Burkholder, who stole a revolver, was given sixty days at the farm in addition to a fine of $10 and costs.

Hershberg, who hails from the windy city of Chicago, came to Fort Wayne a week ago last Saturday to seek for employment. He was promised a position at the shoe store for Thursday morning. Saturday evening, after receiving his pay, he was caught trying to carry three pair of silk hose away with him, and for this offense was discharged. He told his landlady that he had received no pay and when she discovered that he had, she notified the police station. Detective Junk searched his room Monday morning and found eleven more pair of silk hose which he had started away from the shoe store where he was employed. He tried to persuade the court to allow him to go free, because his folks were respectable business people in Chicago and that he had not stolen the goods because he had to do it, but because he had not received enough pay for the work he had done. His story had little influence.

Burkholder was picked up on the street early Sunday morning and could not give a good account of himself. He was placed under arrest and at the police station a big thirty-two revolver was found on his person. Later he confessed that he had stolen the weapon.

Edward Siekel, another representative of Chicago, was let go on a charge of petit larceny. He was charged with stealing a coil from a Ford car which he was driving for a lady who was on her way from Chicago to Washington, D. C. He said he had taken the coil in place of some wages which he alleged was due him. The case against Lemuel S. Derian for disorderly conduct was continued indefinitely.

The great order of which John Barleycorn is chief executive was well represented in the court Monday morning, eight drunks appearing before Judge Kerr. Clarence Stout, Tom Lewis, Herman Eickmeyer, John Garrison, Mike Sersale and John Jackson were allowed to go on promise of good behavior. Edward Hubbert was fined five dollars and costs on a drunk charge, which consumed his fifteen dollar bail. Frank Rose was fined one dollar and costs on the same charge.

Frank Williams and Forest Peck, charged with loitering on the streets and for train climbing, were separated and given thirty minutes a piece to get out of the city. Both stated they were on their way home, one residing in Providence, N. J. and the other in Detroit.

After a severe reprimand in which Judge Kerr told them what horrible things might happen by riding a bicycle without lights, Henry Stegman and Ernest Brookmeyer, who were arrested Saturday evening for this offense, were allowed to go.

PRIEST SETTLES STRIKE.

St. Louis, Aug. 16.—The strike of 1,800 transfer company teamsters and chauffeurs, which began here last Friday, was settled last night. The men were granted a general wage increase of fifty cents a week, a reduction of about one hour in the working day and better working conditions. The settlement was brought about by Father Timothy Dempsey, a Catholic priest. He pleaded with leaders of each side on behalf of the welfare of the community at large and induced them to agree to a meeting.

An overheated bathroom heater ignited the woodwork at the residence of J. W. Bailey, 605 Wildwood avenue, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning, causing a damage amounting to $25. The department answered the call.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES SEEK WORLD'S PEACE

Federation Begins Annual Convention in Toledo
With That Labor.

Toledo, O., Aug. 16.—A review of the recent activities of the American Federation of Catholic societies is contained in the report of Anthony Matre, the national secretary, submitted at today's session of the convention of the federation. A recommendation that the federation adopt a resolution urging the restoration of peace in Europe, and that Catholic organizations, the world over, be asked to participate in a universal request for peace was contained in the report which concluded with the announcement that Pope Benedict had granted to all federation members his apostolic benediction. Affiliated with the federation, the report shows, are thirty national organizations and twenty-five Catholic institutions. Many of these organizations are composed of natives of the countries now at war, both alliances of the belligerents being represented.

The Work for Decency.
A special committee consisting of Rev. Richard Tierney and John Whalen, of New York, and Henry V. Cunningham, the report said, had called upon President Wilson and the secretary of state and submitted to the latter certified documents disclosing many outrages committed in Mexico against the Catholic church, priests and sisterhoods. An extensive review of the federation's crusade against indecent theatrical performances, moving picture shows, pictures and postcards, also was contained in the report. In this connection it was reported that the branch federation in St. Louis had suppressed 51,935 indecent and suggestive postcards. A number of blacklisted plays, several of which had been reproduced in moving picture form, had been suppressed throughout the country by the federation's activities it was said, and the introduction of censorship laws in the legislature of various states was urged.
The most flourishing branch of the federation, the report said, was that existing in the archdiocese of Boston under the leadership of Cardinal O'Connell. The federation represents 1,000,000 Catholics. Activities of the federa-

LEFT OUT ONE TRAIN.

One of the most important trains on the G. R. & I., No. 8, which arrives here from the north at 7:15, failed to be represented on the time card as printed by the city papers Saturday. To people who spend Sunday at Rome City and want to come home in the evening, this is the only train on the schedule.

LEAVE FORTUNE TO DOMESTIC.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 16.—It is learned that the will of the late Robert E. Gilkey, a farmer who lived near Allamo and who was killed in an automobile accident recently, left his estate to Miss Rebecca Brown, a servant girl. The property is valued at $25,000. Miss Brown is twenty years old and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brown, of Waynetown, Ind. The family is one of humble circumstances. Miss Brown was a domestic in the Gilkey home at one time.

RULED BY THE INDICATOR.

Sharon, Pa., Aug. 16.—Passenger trains on the Mahoning division of the Erie railroad have been equipped with a device which records the speed over the entire distance traveled. If at the end of the run, the device shows that the speed has exceeded that prescribed by the rules, the engineers are suspended. Trains are permitted to travel sixty miles an hour but an engineer has a margin of six miles an hour above that speed.

Two Parades On Woman's Day, Wed., Aug. 18

There will be two parades at Robison park on Woman's Day, August 18th. Wearing Newport scarfs, souvenirs of the 1915 Old Ladies' Congress, the venerable women will slowly march, two abreast, from the pavilion to the band stand in the grove where the exercises will be held. The Hard Times Parade will line up at 4:00 p. m. in front of the pavilion. The line will move through the park to the band stand where the prizes will be distributed. Imported German sewing baskets, also many useful and ornamental baskets, as well as imported French china plates that have been on exhibition in the pavilion will be awarded this year to those appearing in the Hard Times Parade. It is but fit and proper that those who so largely aid in the day's success should receive the souvenirs. There will also be ten grand prizes for the best ten costumes suggestive of hard times.

DECATUR MYSTERY PROVES BAFFLER

Fred Heuer Was Playing His Victrola When Brick Came In.

Decatur, Ind., Aug. 16.—Fred Heuer, a man of peace and without a known enemy in the world, was sitting contentedly with his wife in their home spending a quiet and inoffensive evening, making his victrola play his favorite airs, when there was a crash of glass and a big brick came hurtling into the room. The brick was thrown from an alley, down which a neighbor, residing next door, heard the sound of hurried, but lumbering footsteps as of a heavy man running. The police were notified and that the fall misadventure might not go unwhim of justice, bloodhounds were hurried here from Celina, Ohio, to trail the perpetrator of the outrage. The dogs struck a scent and twice followed it to the brick and tile mill south of the city, but no one could be found. So the mystery remains and the police are trying to unravel it. All suggestions that the victrola music may have provoked a sudden and impromptu outrage in past or repudiated as unworthy, as well as futile.

REDHOT FOR GOOD HIGHWAY.

Kosciusko Road Boosters Demand First-Class Road to Fort Wayne.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 16.—"A better road from Fort Wayne to Warsaw than the Lincoln highway from Fort Wayne to Goshen," this was the sentiment of the large gathering of Lincoln highway boosters, which met in this city. It is not yet known whether the officials will change the established route from Fort Wayne to Goshen since Noble county has refused to improve her roads. Should they refuse to change the route in spite of this it was the general opinion of the boosters that if a fine road is built from this city to Fort Wayne, tourists would come this way and hit the Dixie highway, then strike the Lincoln highway at Goshen. It was suggested that this highway between Fort Wayne and Warsaw should be called the Winona highway. Owing to the fact that the reputation of Winona is known all over the United States, this would be an added inducement for tourists to use the route and spend a short time at this great summer resort. It was decided at the meeting that a body of five commissioners from Whitley county and five commissioners from Kosciusko county should be chosen in the near future to go ahead with the proposition of securing the road.

AGED COUPLE IN DIVORCE SUIT.

Decatur, Ind., Aug. 16.—Something of a sensation has been caused here by the appearance in the circuit court of Emily J. Niblick in a suit for divorce from Samuel T. Niblick, an old citizen and a veteran of the Civil war. The couple have lived together almost a half century and have a family of five grown-up children. Mrs. Niblick charges cruel and inhuman treatment and alleges that for years she has submitted to a persistent course of ill-treatment from her husband, including physical violence, threats to kill her and habitual drunkenness. She also says her husband has been grossly questioning her character for virtue. She asks $3,000 alimony and judgment for $1,400 she says she lent him twelve years ago.

PLYMOUTH DOCTOR STRICKEN.

Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 16.—The city was startled Saturday afternoon by news of the sudden death of Dr. F. M. Barker at his cottage at Pretty Lake, of heart trouble. He was 66 years of age, a native of Ohio, a veteran of the civil war and had been engaged in dental practice here for many years. The doctor's hunting dog had become entangled in the wire fence at the rear of the cottage lot and the doctor bent over the dog and endeavored to extricate the animal and a companion ran to get a pair of nippers to cut the wires. The effort to rescue the dog and the moment's excitement overcame the doctor. He made an effort to rise, then clasped his hand upon his heart, uttered "Oh!" and fell back and expired.

MARKLEY ESTATE APPRAISED.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 16.—The report of the appraisement of the estate of the late Rev. J. J. Markley, for inheritance tax purposes, has been filed by County Assessor H. S. Gaunt. The personal property is appraised at $5,465.70 and the real estate, which comprises 231.71 acres, is appraised at $21,000, a total of $27,073.05. In the division of the estate 90 acres of land, appraised at $9,000, is left to a daughter, Miss Ida Markley; $1,000 is left to a brother, Wilson Markley, and $500 each to W. D. Markley and Lewis P. Mark-ley, brothers of the decedent. The remainder, over $15,000, is divided equally among twenty-one persons, nieces and nephews.

SPEED COP OUT OF JOB.

Kendallville, Ind., Aug. 16.—Kendallville is without a "motorcycle cop," Cy Stout, of Auburn, erstwhile ball player and former fish and game commissioner, who acted in that capacity for one week, having severed his connections with local police circles. It is generally understood that Stout was hired for a period of one week, and inasmuch as there was much dissatisfaction among local business men and others for securing the services of an out of town resident, his job did not last for any longer time than the original contract of one week.

AUTO CAPSIZES; TWO HURT.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 16.—While being driven into this city yesterday afternoon an automobile belonging to John Russell, of Toledo, skidded in loose gravel on the road, dashed into a tree and was capsized. Stanley Russell, 5-year-old son of Luman Russell, a Bourbon merchant, had one ear almost torn off and suffered a terrible gash in the head. John Russell, who was driving the car, was also badly injured by cuts and bruises. Misses Blanche, Wilda and Georgia Russell, all of Bourbon, escaped injury, though suffering much from shock.

SPANKS WIFE; PENAL FARM.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 16.—Because he spanked his wife with a slipper, Charles Shuey will have to serve 435 days at the state penal farm. On returning home Shuey failed to find his wife, but later found her at the home of a neighbor. When she resisted his attempts to take her home, Shuey spanked her and the neighbors called the police.

SONS DEAD; ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Peru, Ind., Aug. 16.—Antonio Cuda, father of two boys who were drowned here, has tried twice since the boys died to kill himself. He tried to throw himself in the river and later tried to jump in front of a fast O. and O. train, but both times was restrained.

WILL INVADE MONTPELIER.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 16.—Hartford City socialists will go to Montpelier tonight to take part in a meeting there. It was also arranged that there should be a big meeting in this city Friday evening at which time an out of town speaker will be secured to address the crowd.

WAR TO COLLECT DOG TAX.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 16.—Charles F. Arnold and George Honley, of this city, were arrested on affidavits filed in the court of Squire J. K. Rinehart, charging them with delinquency in payment of dog taxes. Arnold pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs. Honley took a continuance to Thursday.

TOY BALLOON GOES 100 MILES.

Montpelier, Ind., Aug. 16.—To have an advertisement carried about one hundred miles by a toy balloon is the experience of L. E. Hents of Sheridan,

The balloon, which is of thin rubber, such as sold at the fairs, was found in the yard of R. H. McCormick, residing on Monroe street here. Mr. McCormick wrote to Sheridan concerning the balloon and Mr. Hents answered stating that he had put up a number of the balloons at an old settlers' celebration at Sheridan.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Mark 6:30-43.

30 And the apostles gathered themselves together unto Jesus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 And he said unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while: for there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.

32 And they departed into a desert place by ship privately.

33 And the people saw them departing, and many knew him, and ran afoot thither out of all cities, and out went them, and came together unto him.

34 And Jesus, when he came out, saw much people, and was moved with compassion toward them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and he began to teach them many things.

35 And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, This is a desert place, and now the time is far passed:

36 Send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread: for they have nothing to eat.

37 He answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat?

38 He saith unto them, How many loaves have ye, go and see. And when they knew, they say, Five, and two fishes.

39 And he commanded them to make all sit down by companies upon the green grass.

40 And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And when he had taken the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, and blessed, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all.

42 And they did all eat, and were filled.

43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

The Better Way Not Appreciated

Indianapolis has issued and sold $600,000 of bonds to carry out the flood prevention work planned for that city, and the citizens were not asked to say "yes" or "no" to the proposal. The necessity for flood prevention was recognized and the authorities procured the money for the work in that manner which afforded the greatest expedition and the least trouble.

There has been chosen a fairer and more democratic course in this community. Flood prevention efforts are proceeding under a law that lodges both decision and control in the hands of the property-owners who will be assessed to pay for whatever may be done. There can be no gainsaying that means to prevent a recurrence of the widespread distress and vast damage inflicted upon this city two years ago should be invoked. Simply because the method chosen gives the people the opportunity to oppose the project is no reason why anybody should be hostile.

The public necessity for this great work should appeal to every property owner who has legal right to attach his name to a petition for a flood prevention work. Fort Wayne might quite as readily have acted peremptorily through their authorities and procured the needed money by an issue of bonds as Indianapolis did. And if no other means shall avail to get flood prevention in the way of actual achievement that alternative may at length be forced. It cannot be considered that this rich and prosperous community shall indefinitely expose itself to suffering and havoc by flood, while measures may be taken to ward itself from such a catastrophe. The plan proposed for establishing protection is the best that could have been devised in behalf of such as will have to meet assessments to pay for it.

That ultimately enough signatures will be obtained to the petitions asking the courts to create a flood-prevention district seems certain; but that labor is proving too tedious, too long drawn out. There should be willingness, readiness and expedition in the people to get the first step of the procedure completed and disposed of. Following that, much will remain to be done and altogether a long period will be consumed getting under way the actual work of setting barriers to flood waters. There ought to be no misgiving, hesitancy or delay in respect of this great work.

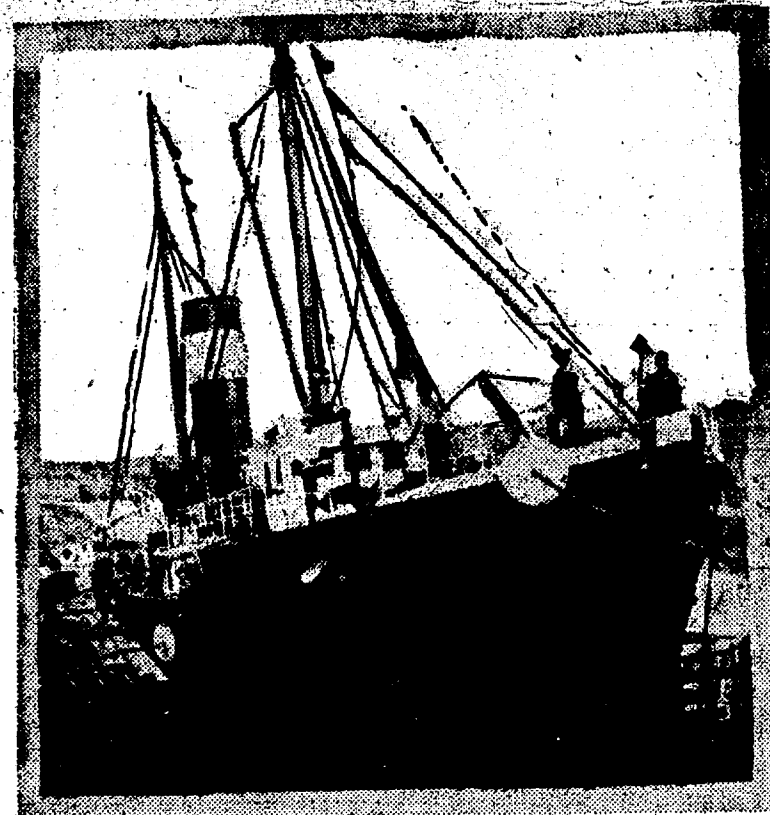

After more than twenty years of municipal dealing with the collection and destruction of garbage, and every succeeding year of the whole score showing cumulatively worse results, to say that the situation is no problem and that conditions that cry for correction may be met in an over-night consideration of plans is the kind of trifling that becomes a wickedness when related to matters that concern public decency and public health. What Fort Wayne wants at this time in respect of the garbage situation is not a remedy that will itself in a short time become an accrued problem, but a solution that will meet present conditions and at the same time be susceptible of expansion to meet new conditions. Somebody who has made the care of city waste a subject of scientific study, who has solved such problems and knows what is what and not somebody who is merely guessing at methods of solution and trusting to luck for results should direct Fort Wayne's efforts to meet a situation that from the first has been bad and has constantly grown worse.

The sturdy hint thrown out in an address made before the city council by President F. M. Price, of the Men's Christian league, that an option election in Fort Wayne is not one of the least probabilities of the near future, is attracting no little attention over the state. That Fort Wayne, once widely and notoriously looked upon as thoroughly and irrevocably wedded to Galbrinus as her idol, should even admit to herself that there is rushing to the dawn a day when divorcement will be sought is rather startling, though calmly considered is not at all surprising, in view of many things.

With the Mexican states sullenly dividing on the question of whether an American armed invasion to enforce peace will be a hostile step, the outlook for yet greater gayeties of the civil strife down here becomes a deal brighter.

Still, we do not see why the remainder of the state should worry over the announcement that Col. Lew Shank will again try for the Indianapolis mayoralty. That is Indianapolis' trouble—not ours.

WORLD GETS NEW SEAPORT AS HOUSTON OPENS CHANNEL TO BIG VESSELS.

FIRST OCEAN GOING STEAMER TO DOCK AT NEW PORT OF HOUSTON.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 16.—Three thousand watermelons, 50 beavers barbecued right on the ground, 20,000 cups of coffee, 200 loaves of bread, oceans of ice water! That is the commissary requirement for a little holiday social the people of Houston are planning for Aug. 19, to celebrate the arrival of the first New York steamship in Houston's brand new harbor. The entire populace of the city is going to foregather that day on the banks of the deep water canal and let the world know that a new seaport has been born.

After years of patient waiting and watching and working, the city's dream of a channel to the sea wide enough and deep enough for the passage of ocean-going vessels, has just been realized. The United States government and the Houston community have shared equally the cost, amounting to about $3,000,000. Now the city of Houston is spending $3,000,000 more for docks and warehouses.

Ocean freights formerly destined for Galveston may be brought 50 miles further at water rates for transportation to inland points by rail. Outgoing, the rail haul is 50 miles less.

A regular line of steamers of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Co. will ply between New York and Houston.

TIPS FOR AUTOISTS.

(South Bend Tribune.)

A southern California auto club is setting an example that should be patterned in every city. The club recognizes the necessity for eliminating much of the noise occasioned by automobiles. Its members know also that more often than not the auto drivers are not indifferent to the feelings of others but just careless. So they have resorted to a tipping scheme.

Warning signs are being placed at places where it is particularly desirable that quiet should obtain. A red cross with the two words, "Hospital—Quiet," is one. Another bears the tip, "School—Careful." The latter is placed about a block from every school house. Experience has proved that the signs have materially lessened the distracting noises in each vicinity. Other signs are placed near fire stations warning the autoist to go slow in order to avoid collision with an outgoing fire company.

It would seem this southern California club has hit upon the right idea. Arresting the offenders may teach some the lesson. It only aggravates others and they do what they can, frequently to injure the city's reputation. Besides to apprehend enough offenders means extra patrolmen and extra expense. There is a time to use the big stick, but trying the other method first might help some.

THE RISING TIDE OF TRADE.

(Kansas City Star.)

The farmers have done their part in maintaining prosperity in this blessed country by producing 760 million bushels more of the three principal grain crops this year than last, and now it looks as if the manufacturers are moving along the same line. This is particularly true of the iron and steel industry. Furnaces are turning out pig iron at the rate of thirty-two million tons a year, which is nearly 50 per cent. more than the average production in 1914, and the United States Steel corporation added in July one-quarter million tons to its unfulfilled orders, though operating at almost full capacity during that month. The corporation has more orders on its books now than at any previous time in eighteen months. It is true that much of this business consists of war orders, but the domestic demand also is increasing. Confidence in business is stronger today than at any previous time in many months, and the spirit that pervades all classes of tradesmen, manufacturers and bankers is to push things along and make a new record of industrial and commercial activity in the coming months.

REALLY FAMILY THEATER.

Anyhow, Butts Family Is Whole Thing in Carbon Movies.

Brazil, Ind., Aug. 16.—Carbon people say that the Pastime theater at that place would have been more appropriately named the Family theater. David Butts, the owner, is the manager and also runs the gasoline engine that generates electricity for the moving picture machine and the lights about the theater. Mrs. Butts sells tickets and is cashier. The son, Orville, runs the player piano when Arthur Butts, the pianist, is not present. Ira Butts plays the drum, which completes the orchestra. Think It Over

Everything that is sold cannot be a "bargain," else the commercial world would soon be bankrupt. In order to continue in business merchants must at some time make a profit. "Bargain sales" must at some time mark goods at an excessive profit, thus making some of their customers help carry their losses. Exaggeration flows easily and smoothly from many retail sources, but claims are ineffectual unless backed by facts. We prefer to credit the people with intelligence and powers of discrimination. There are circumstances that warrant reduced prices, but regular goods must have their important place on regular stock goods we always hold the prices to the lowest point consistent with our standard high quality.

A logical result, it would seem from the invasions of high-class thespians into the movie ranks.

In the New York supreme court Justice Hoff has just refused to grant an injunction against the appearance of beautiful Valdesa Surratt with the Fox Film corporation. The Lady company brought suit against the clever vaudeville for breach of contract.

Then there is Eddie Foy and the seven Foy-lets, who are the bone of contention between the World Film corporation and the New York Motion Picture company. The World people say that Foy and his illustrious family were to pose for them, but instead side-tracked the engagement and have signed a contract with the New York people. This case, as yet, has not been decided.

Wouldn't This Experience Have Tickled Tom Sawyer?

Two Youngsters Marooned on Storm-Swept Island Five Miles from Anywhere.

(By Kenneth W. Payne.)
Jamaica, L. I., Aug. 16.—Here follow the horrendous adventures of the babes on the beach.

Narrated by the adventurer-in-chief himself, Robinson Crusoe Albert Mainland, fifteen, and interrupted chronically by his brave little sister, Girl Friday Louise, who is ten.

No, the pair didn't doze off, buried under the drifting sands into the sleep from which there is no waking, as did their sylvan precursors under the drifting leaves of the wood. Not on your life!

But they did live marooned for three weeks on a barren sandpit pounded on all sides by the tides of the Atlantic two miles from mainland and five from a habitation!

"You see," Albert said, when father died two years ago we were left without a great deal of money, and mother has had to work hard to keep us in school. She tried running a lunch counter and then keeping boarders, but that wasn't successful. Then she found she could make money as a speaker for suffrage. And I think she is very brave to do as she has. We had a great old time camping out on the beach all alone like people in a book. It was better than being here, don't you think?"

"Here" indicated the two rooms in an old house in Jamaica where Mrs. Mainland makes her home.

"Out there," enthused the boy, "we just lived in our bathing suits and swam and fished and lazed and read lots of books and had clambakes."

"And Albert cooked—he's a good one," broke in Girl Friday Louise. "And I made the beds and took care of the tents and wasn't ever afraid, not even in the storm."

"Our only real adventure, before the storm," said Albert, was when we were out in my rowboat one day, and in a rough tide we ran onto the mooring stake and were tipped over. But Louise can swim like a fish, and I didn't even have to help her. I just swam around rescuing my shoes and boat.

"That night of the big storm," Albert concluded, "when the wind began to rip away our tent we just bundled up our things and ran through the rain to the living tent. We weren't a bit scared!"

"But Teddy was scared," said Louise, pointing to the little brown spaniel, who kept them company on their desert island. "He growled and whined all night."

"If the policemen hadn't 'rescued' us when we didn't need to be rescued," added the boy, "we'd be having our happy vacation still out on the beach."

AVERAGE MAN IS AN UNSUSPECTED HERO

That Fact Plainly Shown in Present War, Says Miss O'Reilly.

(By Mary Boyle O'Reilly.)
London, Aug. 16.—Every story from the firing front of the great war reiterates this cardinal truth: Millions of average men are unsuspected heroes. Having discovered their capacity for heroism, they are bound to return to danger.

The authorities are holding in London a small scallywag, George Harris, aged thirteen, who played hooky to get to the front. He wanted to join the army, but is, of course, too young. So he scraped together enough money to reach Folkestone, stowed away on the Flushing boat and tramped to Antwerp.

German brigades were entering the city. George was captured, taken before a German lieutenant, and by order deported to Holland as a refugee.

Boy Goes Recruiting.
The British consul at Amsterdam sent him home. But London judges failed to commit the lad for truancy. By court order he goes to school two days in the week and on the other four days goes recruiting.

His speeches from the steps of St. Paul's are amusing and convincing. "You fellows can take it from me," says the youngest recruiting speaker in England, "the minute I get the chance, I'm going back. Sure thing."

Wounded Hate to Quit.
From the danger zone of the Dardanelles comes a story of the Manchester Territorials—militia from the shops and the mills.

"I saw a transport full of wounded men cast off," writes one not yet injured. "We cheered them and those who could, cheered back."

It gave me a lump in my throat to hear them. Wounded and broken, they kind of apologized for going out of action—crying, "Trust us, mates, we'll soon be back. We'll soon be back."

"You lose nearly all grip on civilization here," says a private of the Sixth Durhams. "To tell the truth, I spent a fortnight in a proper hell, and yet, once you get the reek of the fight, you are bound to go back."

ALLIES' WAR LOANS FAR INTO BILLIONS

Average Public Debt of Nations Doubled in First Year of War.

(By Gilson Gardner.)

Washington, Aug. 16.—War loans of the allies, leaving out Italy, amount up to date to $15,500,000,000. The average public debt of the warring nations has been approximately doubled as a result of the first year's operations. The daily expenditure by Great Britain amounts to $15,000,000, and by Germany, $10,000,000.

American capitalists are buying up the interests held hitherto by foreigners in American railroads. In the past it has not been possible to buy these foreign-held securities. The war has compelled their holders to let them go and one steamship recently brought railroad securities which were insured to the amount of $10,000,000.

Gladstone believed wars should be paid for by taxes levied at the time the wars are in progress. He opposed the theory of loading their cost on unborn generations.

"The system," said he, "of raising funds necessary for wars practices wholesale, systematic and continual deception upon the people. The people do not really know what they are doing. The consequences are adjourned into the far future."

At another time, he said: "I have not the least doubt that it is for the interests of labor as opposed to capital that a large share of war expenditure should be defrayed from taxes. When war breaks out the wages of labor on the whole have a tendency to rise and the labor of the country is well able to afford some augmentation of taxes. When war ends a great mass of persons are dismissed from public employment, and flooding the labor market, reduce the rate of wages."

Business in Canada is very slack. Bank clearings for the fiscal year ending 1915, were 20 per cent. less than those for the fiscal year 1914.

The business situation is conservatively summed up by the (N. Y.) National City bank's monthly bulletin, thus: "The industrial revival has now reached the stage where with the additional impetus that may be expected from the marketing of a good crop, it should include nearly all lines and insure a satisfactory state of general trade this fall. In some lines of production, particularly in branches of the steel industry, the point has been touched where more capacity is wanted, and the stimulus of orders for additional plant equipment is felt."

Now comes the news that one of the country's leading silversmiths has gone into the business of making shells for the allies, while varnish factories and baking powder plants are making powder and dynamite.

The Panama canal is raising hob with railroad rates. Within a few days Joseph Folk, chief counsel for the interstate commerce commission, is to be in California to attend to the cases filed by Stockton, Sacramento, and other inland cities which want the same combination railway and steamship rates as San Diego and San Francisco get. Since the canal readjustment was made, 180 inland towns which formerly had coast rates have been deprived of this advantage.

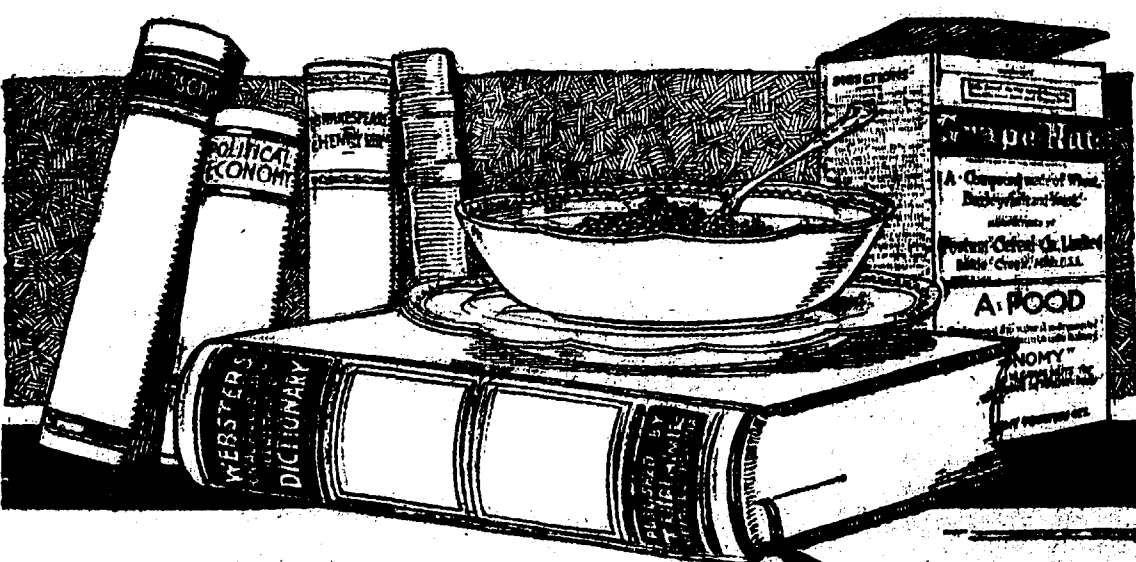

FINDS MONKEY-FACED OWL.

Queer Bird Is Captured by Farmer Near Connersville.

Connersville, Ind., Aug. 16.—A monkey-faced owl, the first seen in this vicinity for many years, was captured in a thicket southeast of town by Oscar Henry, and is on exhibition in a cage in a hardware store. The feathers of the bird are red, yellow and gray. Its face is much like the face of a monkey. Its mate and a nest of owlets were also found in the thicket. After a short exhibitional captivity the bird will be turned loose.

FORMER EVANSVILLE GIRL.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 16.—A beautiful statue in the court of palms at the Panama Pacific exposition at San Francisco, is modeled after an Evansville girl. The original is Miss Bessie Simpson, who, with her parents, left here a few years ago and moved to San Francisco. The young woman's mother, Mrs. Dollie Simpson, has been in Evansville on a visit with her nephew, Chester Cox.

British Royal Flying corps out on a scouting expedition encountered the machine of an enemy aviator, to which he gave battle.

The Germans, seeing that the Britisher was having the best of the duel, sent out twelve aeroplanes to deal with him.

Despite their numbers, however, they were unable to bring him down. Finally the Britisher, circling high above them, sent two Germans crashing to the ground with shots from his machine gun. Taking advantage of his superior altitude, he flew back and reached Dunkirk. There he collapsed and had to be taken to a hospital.

For three days he lay delirious as a result of the terrible strain. But when Red Cross nurses declared him convalescent, he rose and flew back to the front.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Few medicines have met with more favor or accomplished more good than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries. Everywhere it has received unstinted praise. We confidently believe that it has relieved more pain and suffering and saved the lives of more people than any other preparation in use. One or two doses of it is enough to relieve an ordinary attack of colic and diarrhoea. It has been used in many epidemics of dysentery with perfect success. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children. Every family should keep it at hand as attacks of cholera morbus often result fatally before medicine can be procured or a physician summoned. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

NOW MOUNTING AN INDIANA MASTODON

Huge Bones Were Recently Dug Up in a Swamp Near Winamac.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The preparatory and side in the section of vertebrate paleontology of the United States National museum are busy putting together the bones and fragments of a huge skeleton of a mastodon recently found near Winamac, Ind., by the assistant curator of fossil mammals, James W. Gidley.

The laboratory where the skeleton is being assembled, with its corps of workers, reminds one of a lot of children working on a cut-up picture puzzle. Only the problem before the scientist and his assistants is a more difficult one; it is a three dimension puzzle with some of the pieces missing, and others broken into many small fragments. Nevertheless they are forced to resort to a system similar to that employed on a picture puzzle in many ways, for a small piece is first examined carefully, then tried here and there, until presently—ureka!—it fits exactly, or so nearly so that its position is definitely determined and then the assembler takes up another fragment with renewed interest.

Nearly a year ago a mastodon skull and several other bones were dug up by a steam shovel in constructing a drainage ditch in a swampy deposit on the farm of H. M. and W. D. Pattison, seven miles northwest of Winamac. These bones were given to the United States National museum by the Pattison brothers, with the privilege of making further search if desired, and it was soon decided that a further search would yield valuable results. The remains of this monster were found in good condition, although near the surface, having lain without being disturbed for thousands of years in marly deposits of an ancient swamp.

A small appropriation was obtained for further excavation in the locality of this find with the result that Mr. Gidley has just returned with nearly all the other bones of this gigantic mammal. Practically a complete skeleton was found, except two large leg bones, many of the foot bones, and the tusks, for which a further search soon may be made. When mounted the museum will possess one of the most complete specimens of this great beast of the ages just preceding the present.

Fashion no longer is satisfied with half a fox to keep its hands cozy—it demands the whole animal, fluffy tail, nose, ears and all.

It was one of those life-like little Reynard's Miss Pearl Germonde—she who trips so airily in Heisen Polles de Vegue at Chicago—wore when she posed the other day in this stunning set of furs designed by Mayer Miller, Chicago's exclusive furrier. The muff is a cross-fox; notice the cross on his shoulders, and the fox is all there from the tip of his "brush" to his little black nose. AT THE NEW PALACE

FRANCIS BUSHMAN AT PALACE.

Matinee Idol of the Screen in "Second in Command," Tuesday and Wednesday.

Francis X. Bushman, the matinee idol of the screen world, with Miss Marguerite Snow, as his co-star, will be the extraordinary offering at the New Palace Tuesday and Wednesday, when Mr. Bushman will appear in the role of Colonel Anstruther, created in the legitimate by Charles Frohman's favorite star, John Drew. "The Second in Command" is a story peculiarly adapted to the screen drama, as its plot and counter plot, its thrilling battle scenes and its striking love theme, all lend themselves admirably to the silent form of dramatic expression. There probably is no screen actor today with a larger following than has Mr. Bushman, while Miss Snow is another artist of remarkable distinction.

On Thursday the New Palace will project a story of sensational interest, "The Naked Truth," a drama of real life drawn from the Latin quarter of Paris. On Friday, Mrs. Leslie Carter will appear in her original version of "Du Barry."

HER GREATEST TRIUMPH.

Blanche Sweet's Greater Honors in "The Secret Orchard," at Jefferson.

Blanche Sweet is one of the rare personalities among photo-drama players who refuses to be satisfied with her work of the moment or to recognize any limitations of her talent. The fact has been brought home again and again to the directors in the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play company, at Hollywood, Cal., where Miss Sweet is appearing exclusively for a term of years in Lasky productions. The rise to fame of this beautiful star is a tribute to youthful ambition. She is said to have attained her highest mark as an actress in her newest role, Diane, in "The Secret Orchard," from the play by Channing Castle, founded on the novel of the same name by Agnes and Egerton Castle. As the heroine, Miss Sweet interprets a role of intricate psychology. It is her fifth starring venture in a Lasky production.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Keep the canary in a moderately small cage if you desire it to sing.

To remove mould from walls apply with a large wide brush this solution: One pound of chloride of lime dissolved in one gallon of water.

Clean paint brushes by washing them in hot soda water and soft soap.

When a trunk or heavy box has to be moved, put under one end a piece of broom handle a little longer than the article to be moved is wide. Lift the other end of the trunk or box and it will move easily.

Do not put soap directly upon fancy colored gingham. If they are much soiled soak them in salt water for an hour, then wash them in warm suds.

Little City Girl Finds Love, Home and Fortune Awaiting Her in Country

Mary Alice's Dream Comes True, and She Has Taken $10,000 Place at the Pankhurst Farm in Illinois.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Mary Alice Smith is a little city girl.

For four years she's been strumming the keys of a typewriter in a skyscraper in Chicago's "badland," the loop. All day she listened to the boom and bang of the elevated trains that thundered past her office window; all night she heard the toot of the motors, the shriek of the fog horns on Lake Michigan—always she heard the jangling voice of the city.

But sometimes the hum of a drowsy bee would seem to sing with the boom of cars, and sometimes when Mary Alice would close her tired eyes she'd see a bank of fragrant red clover. For Mary Alice had once lived in the country—a beautiful place, where home is a home and not a room in a boarding house.

Then a wonderful thing happened to the tired little city girl. A fairy tale came true. Somebody in the country wanted a young girl—a nice girl, who loved the country and who would promise to love a nice old lady and gentleman, and be an affectionate companion to them. And just like a fairy tale, there was a fortune at the end of it. The nice old couple would give the nice girl $10,000 if she remained with them as long as they lived.

Mary Alice went at once to Mark Crawford of the federal employment office, the man who had put the story in the paper, and told him she wanted to go to the country and be a companion to the old lady and gentleman who wanted someone to love them.

But the employment bureau man had 2,000 other requests from tired city girls who wanted to go to the country. It took Agent Crawford a long time to decide who should be a "daughter" to the civil war veteran, James W. Pankhurst, and his wife, the McHenry county farmers, who started a furor among city girls when they began their search for "some nice girl who will love us and inherit our money when we die."

But when "Uncle Jimmy" and "Aunt Louisa" Pankhurst heard about Mary Alice, her golden hair, her blue eyes, her gentle manner and her sweetness, they decided without ever seeing her at all that she was exactly the daughter they wanted.

Now it's all settled. Mary Alice will pack her trunk, the same trunk she packed four years ago when she left her home in Wisconsin, and started to win her way in the big city. She'll have no one to say good-bye to in Chicago.

PREPARING VEGETABLES

BY EDNA EGAN.

ARRANGING for summer vegetables and fruits after they come in to our kitchens is something very much akin to art.

In the days when the trip from the garden to the kitchen was accomplished in a few moments there was no time to wilt and wither, but now when the history of the journey of our food supplies reads like the itinerary of a tour, we realize that foods, such as vegetables and fruits, arrive in a critical state of health and should be cared for most tenderly.

Just as soon as possible after the arrival of the grocer's boy or the expressman (if they have attained to that degree of wisdom which dictates hamper straight from the farm), the vegetables and fruits should be put away in a cool place, which means the ice-box in all city homes.

Lettuce may be separated, washed, wrapped in oiled paper, and laid close to the ice. This insures a crisp, delicious salad.

Vegetables should never be soaked in salt water for freshening purposes, for the salt acts directly upon the vegetable minerals, drawing them out and leaving a wilted, savorless mass as a result.

"Cucumbers, for example, when fresh and crisp are perfectly digestible; by soaking in salt water they attain the general resistibility of automobile tires, and cannot be called a perfect food for weak stomachs.

The rooty plants, such as beets, turnips and carrots, should be shorn of their leaves until near the time of use. We often see the grocer twist the long leafy stems off and toss them to one side. Don't let him do it. The stem holds the juice, and when they are torn away the mangled vegetable "bleeds" and loses all flavor; and also beet-tops make very good greens.

Green corn spoils very quickly, and should be used as soon as possible after purchasing. Do not prepare the corn by taking off the protective jacket, or husk, hours before cooking.

Corn sours twice as rapidly once the husk is removed, and it cannot be freshened by soaking in cold water, as some people seem to imagine; when corn loses its sweetness it is because a chemical change in the sugar constituent has caused fermentation in the grain, and from that instant corn is a useless vegetable.

Peas likewise should not be shelled and allowed to stand, either in or out of water, hours before cooking. We who cannot experience the joy of going out into our own gardens and picking the early June peas have no realization of the luscious, melting sweetness of the delectable little vegetable. But we may make up in small part for the flavor, which is too fleeting, by putting a couple of spoonfuls of sugar into the water. But do not boil peas furiously, let them simmer.

Tomatoes should be taken from the bag, and laid out separately. The delicate skins are easily bruised by contact, and they rot very quickly when once cracked or broken.

Little onion skins should be wrapped in oiled paper, for they bring anything but the "perfume of Araby" to your sweet-smelling icebox.

Knickknacks for Her Dressing Table

CARE OF PIANO

EVERY woman who has a piano likes to keep it in good condition. Even the cheapest piano costs a great deal of money and a high-priced one is worth a small fortune. Yet the average woman knows little or nothing about the real care of a piano. She is surprised when the tone grows flat and unmusical and if she were told that this was due to her own negligence she would probably wax highly indignant. In most cases the piano owner gives her instrument the best care of which she is capable, but ignorance on the subject is in nine cases out of ten to blame for the piano's ruin.

If you have an upright piano see that a dust cloth of denim or some other dust-proof material is tucked or pasted over the back of the instrument. This is especially important at this time of the year, when the windows are kept open and there is so much dust from the streets. Great harm is done to the fine felt on the hammers of the keys by the entrance of much dust. The dirt clings to the felt and consequently when the hammer strikes the string the tone is muffled and far from brilliant.

When there is much rain or the weather is very damp and moist the piano should be covered with a water-proof cloth. These moistureproof covers to fit the piano can be bought at any store which sells musical instruments. If you are going away for the summer be sure to lock the keyboard and to put the cover on before you go.

DIET TO REDUCE FLESH

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

A WOMAN who wants to reduce must keep careful watch over the pleasures of the palate. Not for her the rich, strongly seasoned made dishes, the delectable pastries, the dainty desserts in which sugar and whipped cream play an important part. Coming down to commoner fare, she must not eat bread, butter, potatoes, cakes and syrup, or any of the products of the pig. She must close the candy box for the summer.

"All the things that I like most I am not allowed to eat," the fat woman is perhaps likely to moan after reading this list of must-nots. But even from the point of view of the gourmand, ought most of the articles mentioned to be featured prominently in summer menus?

Even if she is not trying to reduce, the woman with a really cultivated taste will prefer to live chiefly on green vegetables, fruits and lean meats during the period of warm weather. Such a diet, in its simplicity and the fact that it puts no undue strain upon the digestive organs will cause the person who chooses it to suffer less from high temperature than does the man or woman who eats richer food. Gastronomically speaking, this is the best time in the year to win the fight against flesh.

The question of what the stout woman should eat deserves a paragraph to itself. She should unquestionably avoid all alcoholic liquors, milk, cream, cocoa and chocolate. She is better off without either tea or coffee, although, if she feels she must have it, she may drink one cup of coffee in the morning without cream or sugar. She should drink as little water as possible. One of the best beverages for her is buttermilk, which nourishes without forming fat. Another excellent drink is the juice of a lemon dissolved in a glass of cool water without sugar. Orange juice is also excellent.

If you are really in earnest about it, the first sacrifice to make is your luncheon. Take no food at all between breakfast and dinner. I am assuming that you still stick to three meals a day and have not taken on the abdominal desecration of afternoon tea and after-theater supper, both of which functions should be omitted by the woman who wants to grow thin.

I think you will find as many, many persons have already done, that it is easy to acquire the habit of doing without lunch. Nearly all of us eat more food than we need, especially those of us who live in cities and do not occupy ourselves with severe manual labor outdoors. The woman tiller of the fields can doubtless assimilate her three solid meals daily, but not the woman tender of the gas stove or of the typewriter.

FROM FASHIONDOM

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

THE best dressmakers state emphatically that exaggerated short skirts will not be considered correct when the autumn models are introduced. Just now our young and pretty girls are pushing the craze for short skirts to the utmost limit, but even now these ultra-remarkable models are regarded with suspicion by women of good taste. A little shorter than ankle length—this is the latest dictate.

For dressy gowns the Parisian artists are designing quaint models in plain and striped taffetas, which recall the fashions of those brilliant days when the Empress Eugenie held court at the Tuilleries. These skirts are round, full, but not remarkably short. They are about the length of the fashionable costumes which used to be worn by skirt dancers. A model of this order which pleased me very much was made of raven's wing blue and white striped taffetas mixed with plain silk of dark blue shade. The round skirt was finely gathered at the waist, and the hem was in the striped material. Just above this hem, there was a deep band of dark blue silk arranged in wide tufts which ran around the figure. Then there was a length of striped silk which reached to the waist. The corsage was of the cross-over order with very short sleeves, and there was a blouse of ivory-white organdie, which had a very high Directoire collar caught in at the throat by a band of black velvet ribbon. The dress was finished by a pink, very soft cashmere of Japonica pink crepe de chine; the ends of this sash were embroidered in dark blue floss silks.

Buttons are in great demand. Large shipments from foreign button makers have not been received in this country because of the war, and American button manufacturers have stepped into the emergency and made domestic buttons to suit the most fastidious taste. Dressmakers use them for trimming in a thousand different ways. There are self-covered buttons on suits and coats. There are jet and steel and enamel buttons. There are fancy silk and velvet buttons and many other kinds.

The Paris hats of today are almost exasperatingly simple in detail. Many of the newest and best hats are toques are practically untrimmed. The hats decked out with flowers or ribbons can always be arranged at home at small expense.

Black silk beaver—like that on a man's tall hat—is very much used by one or two leading milliners in Paris. It is successfully combined with white faille and also with Belgian blue satin straw. A novel and expensive toque which was designed in a famous atelier was made of fine satin straw in the Belgian blue shade and the top of the domed crown was covered with black silk beaver. There was a wide band of black watered ribbon round this crown and at the left side, rather low down, a cluster of mixed flowers, heliotrope, blue hyacinths, Banksia roses and maidenhair fern. It was a lovely little affair, quite poetic in its soft, yet rich coloring.

Very gradually the waist line is rising, and we may hope that before long it will go just high enough to be nearly Directoire, and that then we shall have the straight-falling skirt as it is seen in classic statues. Nothing suits a woman's figure quite so well as these slightly full, clinging draperies, and for all the puffs and flounces which are shown us in the new models the dress-makers are nearly always willing to modify them until they become simple and modest, not vanity stricken and garrulous. Navy blue is the predominating color, but light crepons are rapidly coming into favor now that the sunshine is making cloth a burden in the heart of the day. Very delicate blues, a pink that is merely a faint blush on a maiden's cheek, a yellow which can be worn with a good deal of white, and a biscuit color which is almost cream, are being offered to us most temptingly.

FOOTWEAR

ALL the smart boots, pumps and slippers, even the duck and canvas shoes for sport wear, show the long, slender lines now considered distinguished, and short vamp footwear is worn only by women whose structure of foot demands this type of shoe and who cannot be comfortable in the long slender boot or pump, and so patriotic and elegant does it make the foot appear that its length is really a feature in its favor.

Notwithstanding the vast array of fanciful new pumps and slippers displayed everywhere, the buttoned boot remains the last word in correctness for formal occasions when street attire is worn. The new buttoned boots for summer and autumn are daily and alluring with their light, flexible soles, high heels and tops of contrasting kid or cloth in trim fitting gaiter effect.

ODDS ENDS

THE necessary silver for a bride is: Four sets of spoons, which includes soup, dessert, tea, and after dinner coffee; butter knives; four sets of forks, including oyster forks, and two sizes of steel knives with silver handles. If the carving is to be done on the table, two sets of carvers will be needed. The newest and prettiest chest to hold these comes without drawers now, and the silver is arranged in piles, with the two sets of carvers in the cover of the box—the whole lined with soft ooze leather.

SHOES should be kept well oiled in damp weather, and if wet should be dried slowly, lest they warp or shrink. The method of occasionally rubbing over kid shoes with castor oil is adopted by some people. One of the best methods of rendering new boots impervious to damp is that of varnishing the soles. Three or four coatings should be applied in succession, while the whole surface of the leather composing the uppers should be rubbed over with a cut lemon. The latter precaution insures a good polish at the outset, always somewhat of a difficulty where new footwear is concerned.

PUT more into your guestroom than the furniture, ornaments and plainest necessities. If a note is to be hastily written before the arrival of the truck with its stock of stationery, what could more pleasantly greet the eye of your guest than a neat desk, furnished thoughtfully with whatever is needed—pens, paper, ink and envelopes, sealing wax and stamps? A work basket is always apropos in every well-cared-for room for one's guests, as many who would come to tarry with you for a day or two would not provide themselves with any sewing outfit. The dropping off of a button or tape, a rip or tear—these are accidents of a day. Kind acts and thoughts as manifested in these small attentions are as great a welcome as words.

IN making shoe trees from old stockings filled with bran, as is the habit of the economical, there should be enough of the toe of the stocking left on to allow the bran to be pushed up as the form is being put in. Otherwise, especially if the shoe is at all damp, it will be almost impossible to manipulate it.

Keep a tape fastened to the seam of the stocking so it can be tied or untied at a moment's notice. When putting the form into the shoe untie this tape, refastening it after pushing the bran down to hold out the shoe. There is but one objection to this kind of shoe tree; mice like it as well as you do and care should be taken to keep the shoes out of their way.

NO woman should travel without her own toilet equipments. The neatest way to carry them is to make a bag with a border towel, lining it with gum tissue. Stitch to the tissue the numerous little gum tissue pockets for holding washcloth, soap, comb and the like and double-stitch each pocket to the lining. Join the tissue and towel with a binding and roll the towel to make the package smaller and tie with a tape string. It should contain the above-named articles, a small cake of soap, powder, pins, and the like.

EVERY washwoman knows the nuisance of hanging out a large family's handkerchiefs, collars, finger-bowls, dolies and other small articles. To pin them to the line takes time and patience. One old colored woman has hit on a plan of drying that saves her many minutes. She had her mistress make her a long, shallow bag of strong, white mosquito netting, with a drawstring at the top and tapes sewed at the corners and at intervals of three or four inches between. When the smaller articles were ready for hanging on the line they were laid carefully in the bag, the string drawn up so they would not blow out and the bag pinned to the line by the tapes for the sun and air to filter through the open meshes of the net.

IN the country good thick gloves, with stitched backs, long wrists, are the most comfortable to wear. White suede and kindred gloves are best restored to their pristine freshness with a mixture of powdered alum and fuller's earth applied with a dry brush, and well rubbed in till the dirt is removed. Silk gloves can be cleaned with magnesia placed between two layers of paper, and in a few days, when the powder is removed, they will look like new. Gloves should be laid by in brown paper, white paper often discolors them through the materials used in making the paper.

THE KITCHEN

Salmon Pie.

Take one can of salmon steak, free from skin and bone, shred into small pieces with a fork and season with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Butter a shallow baking dish and spread over the bottom a layer of hot mashed potatoes; put the fish on this, moisten with a little milk, and cover with another layer of potatoes. Put little chunks of butter on top. Bake the pie until it is quite hot and the surface browned. Serve in the dish in which it is baked. It is an appetizing and inexpensive dish.

German Sand Tarts.

Ten eggs, two cupfuls of sugar powdered, one-half pound butter, 10 cents worth of sweet almonds, one ounce bitter almonds, one teaspoonful each of orange and lemon flavoring, one pound potato flour, one teaspoonful baking powder. Blanch and grate the almonds, beat the yolks of the eggs and butter to a cream, add sugar and beat for ten minutes; add almonds and potato flour and beat thoroughly. Beat white of eggs to a stiff froth and fold in with one teaspoonful baking powder, then add flavoring. Bake in a fairly hot oven. The above is enough for two good sized cakes.

Maple Sugar Frosting.

Boil one cup of maple sugar and one-third of a cup of water until it boils, then pour very slowly over the beaten white of one egg, stirring the egg constantly; then beat with spoon until hard enough to spread. If it seems too stiff add a little cold water, half cup of buttermilk, or a scant measure added is an improvement to those fond of nuts.

Invalid's Biscuits.

Melt 3/4-pound butter in a pint of new milk, and pour it over 3/4-pound white sugar. When cool put in a dessertspoon of yeast and one of caraway seeds, add flour sufficient to make it into a stiff paste. Roll thin, prick with fork, cut into shapes and bake.

Oriental Tea Cakes.

Break white of one egg in a bowl, add one tablespoonful of sugar, stir a moment, and then add one tablespoonful of flour and one-half cup of milk. Season with salt and pepper, and when it thickens add one and a half cups cold boiled chicken cut in dice.

Dutch Onion Pie.

Slice six onions, fry in butter to delicate brown, add one-half cupful of milk, one-half cupful of cream, one tablespoonful flour, one well beaten egg; salt to taste. Have ready a baked pie crust in the usual pie pan and pour in onion mixture. Return to oven and bake to good brown. White of egg may be added to top.

Cream of Chicken and Celery.

Melt half a pound of butter, add half a cup of finely-chopped celery. Cook well, pour in one and a half cups of milk and thicken with a tablespoon of flour mixed to a smooth paste with cold milk. Season with salt and pepper, and when it thickens add one and a half cups cold boiled chicken cut in dice.

Lemon Rice Pudding.

Boil two-thirds cup rice, add yolks of three eggs, four tablespoons sugar, pinch of salt, small piece of butter, grate rind of one large lemon, milk to make very moist. Bake at 15 minutes. Beat whites of three eggs well and add one cup sugar. Bake with lemon spread over pudding and brown. This is delicious.

Evas.

Pep and enthusiasm were lacking behind Red Hart in the first half of Sunday's double bill with Evansville, and the Cubs dropped it 5 and 1, but there was everything in the world in the crowd when they stacked up behind Red Ainsworth for the second tilt, and the down-staters were trounced 8 and 2.

Reliable Red was there as usual, and his performance yesterday was merely a finishing touch on his demonstration that he is the best flogger in the minors. He has something in his play that makes the boys behind him buckle down to work for him, and is the very best bet in the organization. He never does spectacular work, and never works and slumps in spurts, but is there steady, consistent, unbeatable.

The Cubs looked like a gang of kids just out of the sand lots in the first game, although Beyers and Holderman in the field and Brant, Sheehan and Hartie at the stick showed signs of class.

Hart worked hard and well, but didn't seem to get anywhere, and it must be said that on a number of occasions it was he unassisted who stopped rallies that looked mighty bad.

Big Osborne, playing right field with a hand so badly smashed he won't allow it to be shaken, was the star of the second stanza. He hit three times in three times up, made five beautiful putouts, and actually, believe it or not, stole a base. Two of the eight runs scored were his. The big sunshine fellow made a tremendous hit with the fans and got a hand every time he moved.

With Hartie out in the first inning of the second game, Brant singled and went to third on Sheehan's long hit and Holderman scored two with his single to left. Osborne beat out a bunt in the second, after Brubaker went out, and went to second when Ainsworth singled, Hartie sacrificing and both runners scoring on Brant's single.

Osborne again started things in the fourth with a single, coming home on Ainsworth's sacrifice and Hartie's single. But the fifth was the big inning, Brant singling with a man on third and sending him home, and Beyers slapping out a beauty that scored two more.

May it be said that Evansville is mighty hard to please in the matter of umpires? If Bo Slear worked half way as well there as he did here. He showed class Sunday that it is hard to duplicate in a junior league, and although there was an occasional squawk from the stands, the vast majority of the 2,500 spectators were mighty well pleased with his work.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 16.—Terre Haute pulled down a great little game from Grand Rapids yesterday in celebration of Gilbert's own day, winning 3 and 4. Gilbert became so enthusiastic he was chased to the clubhouse in the midst of a demonstration over him, and Umpire Goehler had to be escorted from the park amidst considerable dignity of the law.

200 MEN, WOMEN, BOYS AND GIRLS SHOW ARCHERY IS NOT DEAD SPORT.

BASEBALL

ARCHERY 1386 FT. 9 IN

ARCHERY IS A SPORT IN WHICH NEITHER AGE NOR SEX IS A HANDICAP. THE PHOTOS SHOW DR. ROBERT ELMER, OF WAYNE, PA., NATIONAL CHAMPION, AND MARY WILLIAMS, 15, OF CHICAGO, ENTRANTS IN THE NATIONAL TOURNAMENT.

Archery is an amateur sport pure and simple, one of the big features being that the lovers of the bow and arrow game pay their own freight. And they travel from Boston, Mass., Central City, Iowa, Topeka, Kan., and even greater distances to take part in tournaments.

The contestants do not shoot for cash prizes that would cover expenses, but for cups, medals and the love of the sport.

An idea of the driving power of some of the boys used in this sport is shown by a comparison of the distance an arrow can be shot, a golf ball or baseball driven.

The longest archery shot ever made in this country in public was 870 feet, but in a tournament at La Touquet, France, last year Ingo Simon, an expert, sent an arrow 1,386 feet 9 inches. He used a Turkish composite bow made of wood, horn and sinew.

Three hundred and fifty yards, or 1,050 feet, is a corking good golf drive and the record for hitting a baseball is 419 1/2 feet, set by Ed Walsh, the big pitcher of the Chicago White Sox.

FORT WAYNE CUBS STILL HOLD RECORD

Locals in Lead in Runs, Hits, Bases and Steals.

Figures issued Monday by President Louis Halbroner give some interesting light on the playing ability of the Fort Wayne team and partially explain the whereof of her present lowly position in the league lists. Second in hitting and sixth in fielding, Fort Wayne could hardly expect to occupy the top rung, but at that she has a few records still.

The Cubs still lead the league in total hits, total runs, total bases and total stolen bases. They are twenty-five hits ahead of Terre Haute, twenty-two runs ahead of Grand Rapids, twenty-two bases ahead of Terre Haute and eight stolen bases ahead of Erie, all of these teams being the nearest contenders for the honors.

Guy Coudert, who stands only three feet six inches, is shortest of all French soldiers. He is, however, higher than when war broke out, having been made a corporal.

Woodland Nymph Wearing Lacy Cap and Happy Smile is Caught at Last

Modern Eve Hides in Bushes While All the Men Quit Their Jobs to Hunt Her.

Sparta, Wis., Aug. 16.—The chase is over!

Sparta's farmers have returned to their fields, Sparta's smiths are busy at their anvils again. Sparta's nymph, Diana of the horseblanks and the lacy breakfast cap is a captive.

Sparta's hunt for the woodland nymph was some exciting hunt—take it from one who has seen some game sport. Prairie chicken was about the biggest game ever bagged around Sparta until the nymph, the sprite that dressed like Eve and acted like the dickens, called forth the huntsmen.

It was a farmer's boy who two weeks ago brought to town the tale of the nymph—the young lady who "had nothing at all on but a lace cap with a ribbon on it." She was always dodging behind the bushes, he said. Then a fisherman saw her; then the young men of Sparta began taking vacation trips to that neck of the woods. Everybody was interested. They'd just like to know if that lad wasn't telling whoppers. Wives spent long evenings alone; business was almost at a standstill; valiant men vowed they would see to it that Sparta was rid of that tarnation nymph running around all alone in the woods.

Sheriff George Boss was summoned, or at least he broke into the chase. He would have called a posse, but he didn't need to, the posse was right there with field glasses—every man willing to lead the charge into the verdant grove where the elusive sprite, garbed only in a lacy cap, worshipped at the shrine of nature.

Humane Agent George Manuel seemed to think he belonged in the posse, too, and joined the sheriff.

It was some chase before the posse caught that nymph. She traveled light; no tube skirts to halt her speed; she climbed trees and swam creeks—a wisp of golden hair would lure the hunters on; the glimpse of a snow white figure fitting through the trees made the chase good, and the hunt worth while. One day didn't end the hunt. Daily for a week Sparta forgot to toil in fields and shops. Monroe county was scoured from end to end before the hiding place of the swift-footed nymph was discovered. And then Sheriff Boss put one over on the posse. He was right there with a horse blanket, brought along for just such an emergency. When Diana's retreat in a sylvan glade was discovered, flop went the blanket. The nymph was brought back to town in a bundle.

Who is she? Nymphs never talk. Until she tells who she is and where she comes from the sheriff's wife will do the best she can to make the Sparta lookup as comfortable for her nymphship as the verdant groves of Monroe county.

The Waning Summer Sun Now Casts Reflections of The Coming Fashions of Fall

TO THOSE who have visited this store during the past few days has been given a delightful glimpse into the incoming fall fashions. They have seen the ephemeral fancies of summer change into the more substantial modes of autumn.

Day by day these new things have been coming in until now, almost before we knew it, Autumn (so far as merchandise is concerned) is upon us.

Every woman who is interested in styles for the coming season is invited to see these new things. You will note the suits are fitted at the waist, "nipped-in" at the waist line and smartly flaring at the lower edge. Sensibility still dwells in skirts and they remain reasonably short though possibly not so flaring as became the lighter fabrics of Summer.

They are being bought, too, right now by women going West, and by young girls getting the clothes equipment for college.

LIVING WAGE IS IMPOSSIBLE

Standard Oil is Played in Report on Strike at Bayonne.

MONOPOLY SAID TO HAVE AGREEMENT

Industrial Board Quiz is Indictment of the Rockefellers.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Direct charges are made in a report by two investigators to the United States commission on industrial relations that John D. Rockefeller and the Standard Oil company not only agree with other employers to keep wages as low as possible—in fact, to a point insufficient to provide families with necessities—but that they provide no means whereby the men may present and have heard their complaints and grievances.

George F. West and C. T. Cheney, the investigators, turned in these findings on the Bayonne, N. J., strike Saturday, just before the commission held its last session.

Employees of the commission will con-

lect the printed reports agreed upon and forward them to the clerk of the house of representatives Aug. 23.

The West-Cheney report, next to that by Mr. West on the Colorado mine war, is regarded as the most direct and sensational declaration contained in the documents which will be sent to congress by the commission.

Allegations in Report.

After declaring that the facts learned are significant because they display the manner in which the largest estate in the world, that of Mr. Rockefeller, controls its industry through its enormous power, Mr. West and Mr. Cheney make these statements as findings of the fact:

1. The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, although conducting an enormously profitable enterprise, pays wages too low to maintain a family on a comfortable, healthful and a decent basis.

2. It fixes wages not with relation to the earnings of the company, but by taking into consideration wages paid by other companies in the same locality and then fixing the wage as low or lower than the prevailing wage in that locality.

3. In its plants at Bayonne the company maintains what General Manager Gifford described as "almost navy-yard discipline." The employees, most of whom are Poles or Lithuanians, are regarded as incapable of enjoying the benefits of a democratic organization of the labor force, and as requiring a very firm control.

4. The company maintains a settled policy of refusing to deal with any labor organization or "professional labor man," and even refuses to permit those employees who cannot speak English intelligibly to engage an attorney as their spokesman or representative. The men are made to understand that they must seek no outside assistance in their dealings with the management, and that any show of independence or any hint of compulsion will be vigorously repressed.

5. As a substitute for permitting its men to organize and to enjoy the benefits of affiliation with a strong labor organization, the company has instituted no machinery by which real or fancied grievances may be adjusted peacefully and promptly. The employees allege they would be discharged before reaching the superintendent's office if they complained.

6. General Manager Gifford is not a believer in child labor legislation and, on the other hand, thinks that children should be allowed to go to work earlier. He and General Superintendent Hennessey apparently have little respect for the foreign-born men whose labor produces the company's earnings.

UNCLE SAM'S NOTE IS FIRM

Flat Denial of Contentment of Austria as to Sale of Munitions.

AMERICAN POSITION IS FULLY UPHELD

Washington Hints That in War This Land Might Buy of Neutrals.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The United States in a note to Austria-Hungary published today firmly but politely declines to accede to the request of the Vienna government that the export of arms to the allies be stopped.

The communication is reply to the recent Austrian protest that the United States in permitting the export of arms to Austria's enemies was violating the "spirit" of neutrality. The American note is a flat denial of that contention and vigorously upholds the right of the United States under international law to export war munitions.

Position of United States.

In justification of its position, the United States recites among other things that international law, the practice of nations, the security of the United States and other nations without large military or naval establishments or neutrality itself are opposed to prohibiting the export of war munitions by a neutral to a belligerent in time of war.

The United States contends that it cannot deny to the others the right which it claims for itself to purchase war munitions from a neutral in event of a foreign attack.

Might Have to Buy.

In this connection the United States hints that it might have to buy from neutrals if attacked. The note recites the fact that Austria-Hungary and Germany supplied munitions of war to Great Britain during the war when England's enemies could not import such supplies and a statistical table of such sales is appended. It suggests that had Austria and Germany refused to sell

New York, Aug. 16.—The Hoboken board of education has gone to the aid of the officers of the German merchant vessels tied up at the Hoboken docks since the beginning of the war and relieved the monotony of life for several thousand idle men aboard four ships.

Classes have been started for the study of the English language, geography and American history and literature. Hoboken teachers have given their services free of charge.

An outlet for the energy of the German sailors and stewards has been furnished also by the establishment of three singing clubs which hold prize contests once a week. The large promenade decks of the Vaterland and of the George Washington have been converted into fencing floors where the men receive instructions in the use of a foil and rapier.

EX-MAYOR SEIDEL SPEAKS AT PICNIC

Declares Capitalist System is a System of Exploitation.

Declaring that socialism is the only light through which better and nobler things can be seen, Emil Seidel, ex-mayor of Milwaukee, delivered a strong address Sunday afternoon at the annual socialist picnic at Swinney park.

Mr. Seidel declared that a workingman cannot become a millionaire, but the business man can. He explained that this condition is brought about by a certain economy development which the socialists propose to correct.

"The capitalist system is a system of exploitation," he continued. "They 'skinned' us with the tariff and when they couldn't 'skin' us any more with that they began to 'skin' us with free trade, which can't use one means they use another."

The speaker attributed the present war in Europe to capitalism. "Not any one Kaiser, king, emperor or czar has caused the war," he said, "but capitalism and a bad economic system. Let us hope that the war may be a blessing in disguise and that some good will result from it despite all the bad results. The people in Europe who can develop the social forces of the nation strongest are going to win the war. There is no getting away from that."

Henry Speaks.

William H. Henry, state secretary and member of the law firm of Blasingham, Henry & Co., of Indianapolis, was the principal speaker Sunday evening. He declared that the socialist party in Indiana was in better condition today than ever before and during the last month he had noted a wonderful gain in membership. Mrs. Mary Kules, of Cleveland, who was scheduled to speak, had to cancel her engagement.

The picnic was pronounced a success with over 3,000 people in attendance. Announcement was made that the Ninth ward branch would hold a picnic at Lawton park Sunday, August 29.

ANNAPOLIS MIDDIES FIRED FOR CRIBBING

Two Dismissed and Twelve Disciplined in the Late Scandal.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Dismissal of twelve midshipmen and the disciplining of twelve others for alleged "cribbing" at the United States naval academy, are revealed today as a result of the findings of the court of inquiry, which investigated irregularities in examinations and recitations at the academy.

The midshipmen dismissed with the approval of President Wilson were Ralph M. Nelson, Jr., of Peekskill, N. Y., and Charles M. Reagle, of Wellsville, Ohio. The court's recommendations that others be disciplined were approved by Secretary Daniels. Drastic changes in the conduct of examinations are recommended by the court in a unanimous report of the inquiry, begun in June.

Abolition of the practice of giving out "dope" or advanced information, unless heads of departments issue it by memoranda, and less rigorous examinations are the principal recommendations.

NEW COMPANY WILL OPEN OFFICES HERE

Edwin M. McKinney, formerly of Huntington, signed a lease Saturday for a year for the second floor of the Hamilton National bank building, the rooms to be used as the general offices of a new traction system with terminals at Marion, Ind., and Akron, O., which Fred A. Dolph, the Chicago financier, is promoting. The company is to be known as the "Indiana and Ohio Traction" and the proposed new system will be 420 miles in length, the longest in the United States. The engineering department is in charge of the J. G. White company, of New York. Mr. McKinney announced that the various roads affected in the consolidation would be made public in a few days. R. G. JONES IS MADE
DIVISION ENGINEER

Succeeds C. L. Barnaby on the Southern Division of the G. R. & I.

R. G. Jones, of Grand Rapids, arrived in the city this morning and immediately resumed the duties of division engineer of the Southern and the Richmond divisions of the Grand Rapids & Indiana road. Mr. Jones succeeds C. L. Barnaby, who was transferred to the Northern division some months ago to succeed F. J. Stinson, who was appointed division superintendent of the Zanesville branch of the Central system. Mr. Jones has been with the G. R. & I. about seven years, the greater portion of that time serving as the assistant to Mr. Stinson. He was formerly employed in the engineering department of the Baltimore and Ohio with headquarters on one of the eastern divisions. Mr. Jones is married and will bring his wife here to reside in a week or two. They have no children.

LONG CONTROVERSY ENDED.

Commerce Commission Settles Important Passenger Rate Issue.

The interstate commerce commission has settled one of the most important passenger rate controversies which it has ever been called upon to review, when it handed down its decision in the Ogden gateway case. In 1914 the Union Pacific system announced its intention to discontinue the interchange with the D. and R. G. at Ogden of passenger business to or from points on the Oregon Short Line, a part of the Union Pacific system. The D. and R. G. contended that as these rates had been in effect about eighteen years they should not be cancelled. The Union Pacific stood upon what it regarded as its legal right to retire from an arrangement which short-hauled its own lines, and contended that it was entitled to the long haul on passenger traffic to and from territory served by the Oregon Short Line, the principal reason assigned being the large expenditures made by the Union Pacific in the construction of branch lines, particularly to Yellowstone park and in Oregon Short Line territory, the testimony indicating that in recent years $100,000,000 was expended in the construction of branches for the purpose of enabling the Union Pacific to serve Idaho and adjacent territory, while the D. and R. G. on the other hand, had not invested a dollar in Oregon Short Line territory. Commissioner Harlan in announcing the majority opinion of the commission, says: "In addition to the shorter mileage, the service of the Union Pacific in point of time is much superior. The fastest train over its route from Omaha reaches Ogden in eighteen hours and fifty-five minutes less time than the best train between the same points over any route in connection with the D. and R. G."

The situation before us is a very practical one. The Denver and Rio Grande route as a benchmark territory, is longer by nearly 400 miles and its nineteen hours longer in point of time. Under such circumstances it is not through route were now open, an order based on the record before us, requiring the Union Pacific system to short-haul itself by establishing the present parity of fares over the Denver and Rio Grande would be illogical and arbitrary in the highest degree. It would be no less so should we undertake to exercise our power under the same provision of law by compelling the Union Pacific to continue a rate adjustment which we could not lawfully require it to establish as an original question."

WOMEN AS TICKET SELLERS.

Are Courteous and Accommodating to the Patrons.

(Railway Age Gazette.) The employment of women as ticket sellers is not a new thing, especially at small stations, but the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company has taken a new departure in employing women in large city ticket offices, one each in four offices. Here they will be required, not merely to hand out a fifteen-cent and ticket now and then to a farmer, but will have to keep themselves posted in all the intricate details of the passenger traffic department. The general passenger agent's announcement says that his purpose in these appointments was to smooth the way for women customers. Possibly also by working with the women, the men clerks will become more proficient in making things pleasant for all customers. Encouraging employees to learn from other employees who are of different temperament is a neglected element in railroad discipline. Men in city ticket offices already stand (or should stand) at the head of the class in courtesy; but the best of us can improve, of course. Copying the best habits of our fellows is a rule which can be applied in all departments. According to the Knoxville Sentinel, President Fairfax Harrison, of the Southern railway, at a big employees' meeting in Knoxville, recently, in urging all employees to aspire to the most honorable records, mentioned by name, as worthy of emulation, a conductor and an engineer who had been among the speakers at the meeting. Why is not this a good idea? An employee who is thus made prominent may have conspicuous faults; most of us have a bunch of them. But the point is that good habits and actions are worthy of imitation, notwithstanding.

COMING TO SEE BOB COWEN.

Man Now Away Up in Railway Work Fired for Him.

Pennsylvania Engineer Robert Cowen expects a visit soon from W. B. Miser, general superintendent of the Jacksonville Railway and Light company, of Jacksonville, Ill. In a letter telling Mr. Cowen of the intended visit, Mr. Miser refers to the twelve months fifteen years ago when he was Engineer Cowen's fireman as the most important epoch of his career. From Mr. Cowen he received information which had a great bearing in forming character and it was helpful in a material way. It started him on the right track, he says. Recalling the service on the Pennsylvania, Mr. Miser in substance says: "I was eighteen years old when I applied to Mr. Colmery, the road foreman of engines, for employment as fireman and was given assignment with you. That year's work did a great deal for me. When I left you, I entered Purdue university and took a course in electrical engineering, and after passing through a number of positions in that work, I landed in my present position two years ago." Speaking of Mr. Miser, Engineer Cowen said this morning: "I was favorably impressed from the start with that young fellow, who was built of the right stuff and, taking a liking to him, I watched his career with interest and I am glad to say that my hopes have been fully realized."

Costa Rica Minister Reaches Washington

Dr. Manuel Castro Quesada, the new representative of Costa Rica, who arrived in Washington recently to take charge of his country's diplomatic affairs, turned here recently on the liner China from a long cruise of the South Pacific which was marked at frequent intervals with thrilling adventures.

D. MacDougall, a brother, asked them to visit him at his plantation in interior Luzon. They traveled six days in native dugouts up the Cagayan river and then rode thirty miles on horses to the village of Caligayan, of the Kalangas tribe, where they were the guests of Chief Bentau.

Being the first white women who had ever reached that country, the natives all but worshipped them.

"Chief Bentau was very hospitable and made us comfortable in the straw hut, which was his place," said Mrs. MacDougall. "Nevertheless, the decorations were most disconcerting. They consisted altogether of skulls and bones of the enemies who had fallen in battle."

"Then we discovered that all the native straw huts were similarly decorated."

"The chief enemy was the tree-dwelling dwarf, the Negritto, who made an attack on Chief Bentau's people while we were there. The Kalangas went out in the brush to give battle. Neither had firearms, but many arrows from the Negritto flew into the village."

A deer hunt to which Chief Bentau invited them was quite as exciting and more pleasant. The Kalangas caught the deer in a net trap, made of rushes. Then they killed the animal with flint head spears.

A Rome-Loving Monarch in Moloch's Grasp

Victor Emmanuel, Italy's King,
Prefers Taking Pictures of His Children and Peaceful Scenes But
Is Forced Into War—Recognized
As One of the Ablest Strategists
of Europe He Now Has His Army
Battering At the Alpine Passes
Which Lead to the Austrian Plains

The fingers of Moloch, stained with the blood of Europe's sons, reached forth across the Adriatic, and, lifting the King of Italy from his throne, set him down among his fellow monarchs in the seething caldron of war. He surveyed the situation critically, and then unsheathed his sword.

Somehow it seems quite natural for us to think of the German kaiser being at the front, or the Czar of Russia, or the King of England. Nicholas of Montenegro and Peter of Serbia do not seem out of place at the head of their troops, away from their families, for rulers have led armies to battle down through the pages of history. But it is hard to reconcile Victor Emmanuel in the role of a soldier, in the role of anything but a peaceful monarch, a loving husband, a proud father.

King Victor Emmanuel is the idol of his people because he believes in democracy. He rules to serve his people, not to command them. Their aspirations and wishes are his—his needs are his needs. Whether in the north, as in Milan, or in the south, as in Rome and Naples, the people speak of him with the same enthusiasm and genuine love.

This is true of his subjects in all walks of life, though he means more to his army. He likes to fraternize with his soldiers and listen to their stories and their experiences. Though a firm believer in peace, he likewise is a firm believer in preparedness—and is recognized as one of the ablest strategists of Europe. The king has assumed supreme command of the army and navy forces of his country, which will necessitate his being away from his family the greater part of the time. And it is of this ideal family life that I wish to tell you.

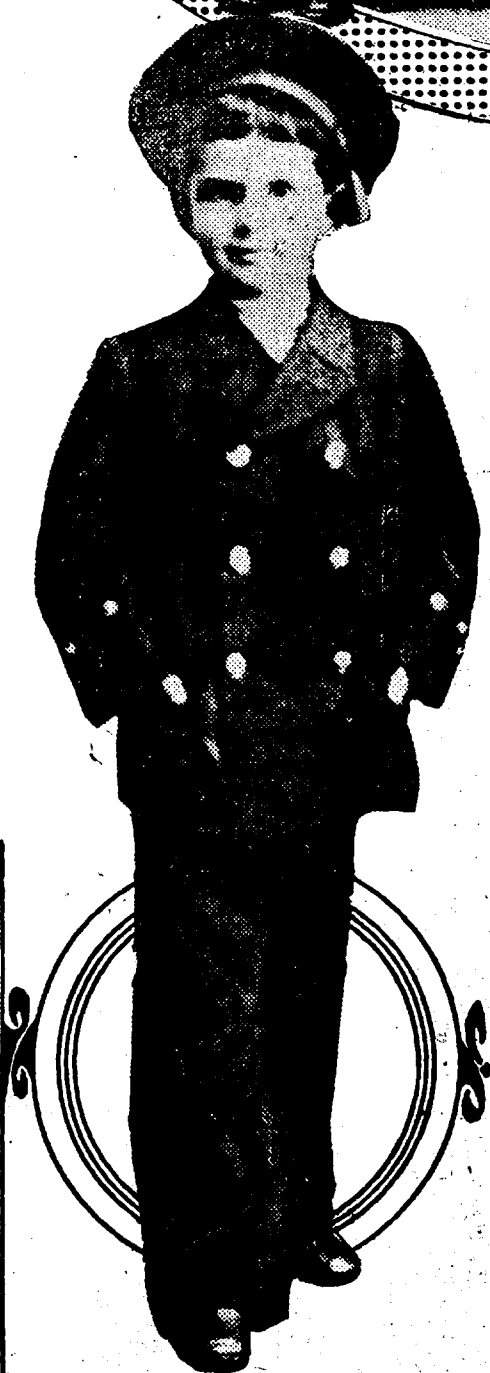

WEDS FAMOUS BEAUTY.

It was in Venice that Victor Emmanuel, then the crown prince of Italy, met his future wife, Elena, a Montenegrin princess. She was there with her mother and her sister, and she dazzled everybody by her rich beauty, accentuated by her brilliant dark eyes and jet black hair. The young prince was charmed by her neat, girlish figure and her vivacious manner.

Victor Emmanuel and the princess were married in Naples. It was with some trepidation that the latter went to Rome to make her debut at the Quirinal. She knew that every one, including the king and queen and suite at court, would be eager to note how a modest Montenegrin girl would conduct herself at the brilliant court of Rome. Crown Prince Elena won them to her immediately by her beauty and unaffected manner. Nature and outdoor life meant more to her than rich palaces and costly jewels.

The Future King of Italy.

So began the married life of Victor Emmanuel and his consort. They are no less sweethearts today than when they first heeded the call of love. Both are devotedly fond of their children.

The king is a camera fiend and in times less strenuous than these may be seen walking in his gardens at Rome or at one of his country estates, carrying a camera in one hand and leading one of his children with the other. He spends a great deal of his time posing them into attractive groups. He especially likes to photograph them when riding their ponies.

One day he was found in wild excitement in the park of the royal palace at Rocconigi. For a moment the queen, who was watching the king and the children from a distance, was at a loss to know what had happened. When she came up she found that the king was merely elated over his success in making an attractive picture of Prince Humbert leading a pony belonging to Baby Jolando.

Another favorite pastime of Italy's ruler is to teach his children to mount and ride. Long before they were able to manage the reins he put them into a wicker basket and strapped them into the seat while he led the pony and the young charges around the park.

FAVORS MILITARY TRAINING.

The king began his military training on reaching his teens. He was educated under Colonel Osio, who taught him the highest form of strategy. After a year's service like other Italians of rank he was given command of a regiment and rose rapidly. Then he went aboard a man-of-war and got the same broad experience.

Victor Emmanuel was a weakling, so to speak, until committed to the charge of such a strict disciplinarian as Colonel Osio, and he is of the opinion that such a change from the nursery will be of benefit to 10-year-old Prince of Piedmont, the crown prince and Italy's future king. A year ago the prince was handed over to the guardianship of a rough and ready seaman, Frigate Captain Donaldi, to be "hardened."

He has his own suite in the Quirinal and his nurses have been dispensed with. Governesses continue to teach him foreign languages. The choice of a naval tutor-guardian is taken to mean that the heir to the throne desires to become a sailor rather than a soldier. He would be the first Italian monarch to adopt the sea.

KING IS FEARLESS REFORMER.

Crown Prince Umberto is uncommonly intelligent, but willful and headstrong. His royal parents do their best to keep their children unspoiled, but Humbert is the pet of the family.

When King Victor Emmanuel took the throne he made many reforms in his government, especially of the military branch. He knew that some regiments were inefficient and lax, and accordingly he placed the blame on the officers. His way of correcting these faults was to visit the regiments unawares, and on finding a laxity in regard to rules disciplining the officers severely.

Like the king, Queen Elena is idolized by her people. She is a mother first and a queen last, and she has always seemed willing to forget her own interests when her subjects' welfare is threatened.

Often has Queen Elena gone out among the sick and suffering of Italy to administer comfort and aid—sometimes at the risk of her own life. The most memorable incident of this character occurred at the time of the Messina earthquake. As soon as she learned that the king was hurrying southward to his people she made ready to accompany him.

King Victor Emmanuel tried in vain to persuade her to remain behind. He argued that the sight might be too terrible for her to witness. "There is nothing in the world too terrible for me to see so far as my people are concerned," was her reply.

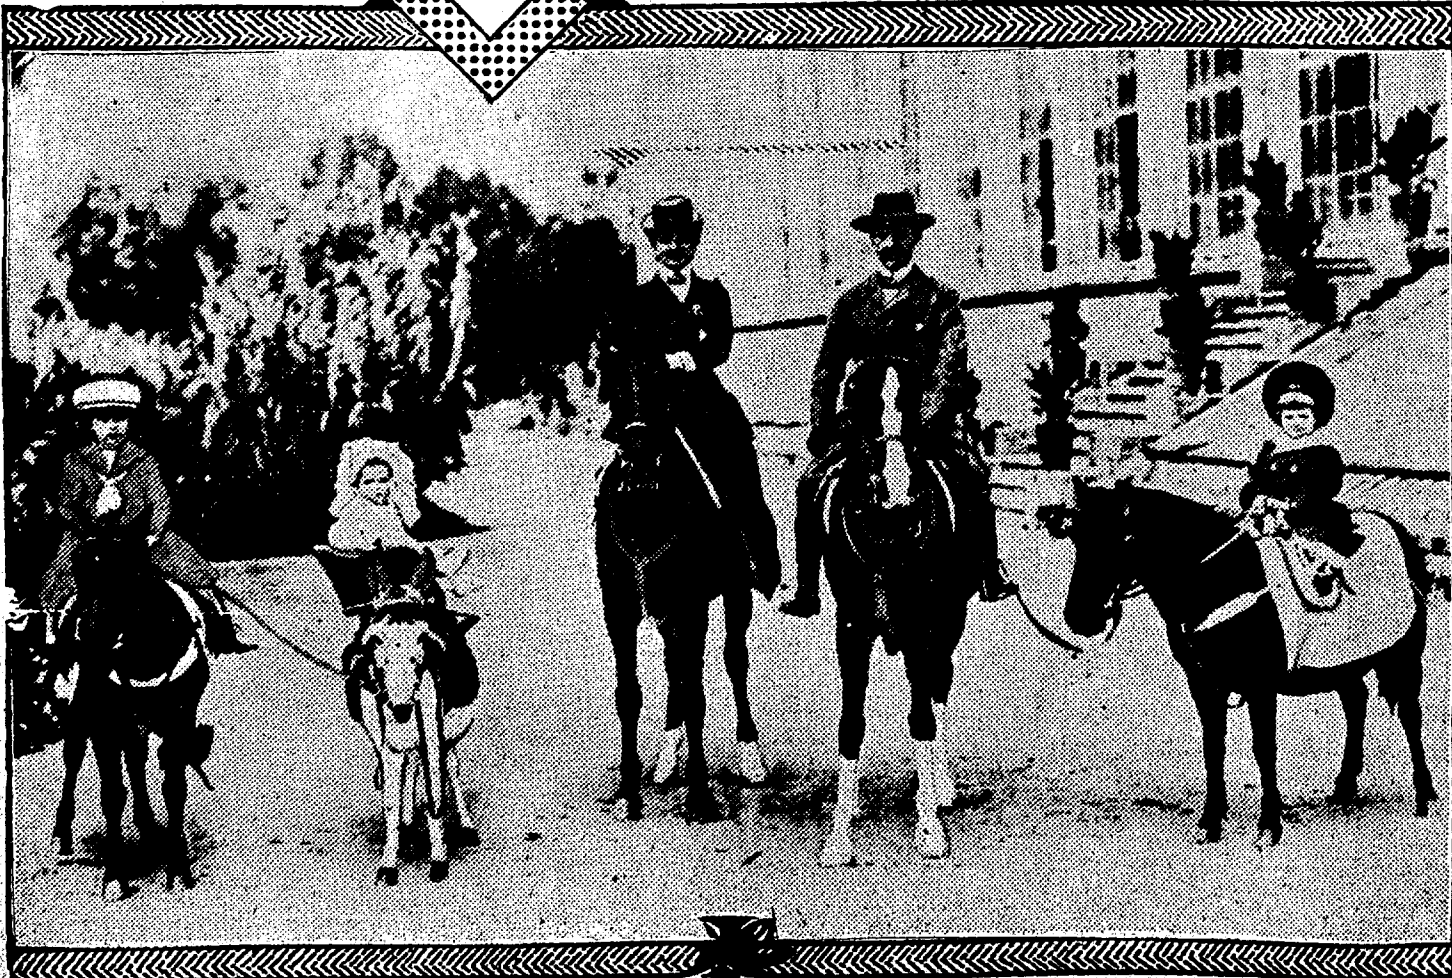

So she went to the stricken district, where she was so impatient to assist that she even gave a hand in clearing away debris. It was while engaged in this difficult and dangerous work that she suffered an injured arm, which has bothered her since. At the time she paid little or no attention to the wound, assisting the Red Cross to care for hundreds of unfortunates, many of them lifeless.

QUEEN GIVEN DECORATION.

It was not with an aim to being commended that Queen Elena undertook this hardship. She was surprised, indeed, when she was given the Legion of Honor by M. Barrere, who represented the Republic of France in Italy. He explained that if any woman had the right to enjoy such a distinction it was Queen Elena.

In times of peace and prosperity Queen Elena has helped the women and children of her country in a great many ways. She has founded creches where working mothers may leave their children while toiling, and where they may be sure of good food and attention. An investigation of the hospitals of Rome and Naples convinced Queen Elena that they were overcrowded and not segregated as they should be. She has spent no small part of her private fortune establishing hospitals for women and children.

She was the first woman to found kindergartens in Italy, and when Dr. Maria Montessori commenced her experiments among the children of the tenement districts in Rome Queen Elena gave her hearty support and co-operation.

Freddy Hall Brought Victoria Cross and Pride to All Canada as He Fell Lifeless

Burton Tells Story That Thrills All Winnipeg—How Freddie Hall Sacrificed His Life for Comrade and Played the Hero on Gory Battlefield.

(By Harry Payne Burton.)
Winnipeg, Manitoba, Aug. 16.—Greater love hath no man than this: That he lay down his life for his friend.

I have just climbed the narrow back stairs that lead darkly to the loft of the old barn that stands at the corner of York and Main streets. Never were stairs dingier, squalid or looser jointed. Yet they are sanctified for all time, for these stairs are the first rung of that shining ladder on which "Freddie" Hall has climbed to an undying fame carrying Winnipeg with him!

It was right here, in the little low room at their top that, six months ago, he wrote the words which sent him "across seas," a member of the "first Canadian contingent to the defense of England."

That was the real beginning of "Freddie" Hall's life—it was all finished today when the staff officer of the Ninetieth regiment, still in his tiny recruiting room at the top of the rickety green stairs, wrote after the name of F. M. Hall, sergeant-major, the two magic letters, V. C. That meant that to Canada, to Winnipeg, has come the

Hard Times Parade on Woman's Day, August 18th.

The Hard Times Parade that afforded so much wholesome fun to the participants and that proved so attractive to thousands of the park's guests last year will be repeated on Woman's Day on Wednesday, Aug. 18th. The line-up will begin at 4 p. m. in front of the pavilion. When ready for the parade, go to the Bijou building in the grove, where Miss Cora Bastus will provide each participant with a numbered tag. The tag should be worn on the left breast in full view of the judges. Prizes will be awarded by numbers. Any other method would be difficult as it is absolutely impossible for the judges to keep in mind so many and so varied costumes as are worn in the Hard Times Parade. There will be ten grand prizes and it will be the judges' difficult task to select the ten grand prize winners. In addition to the above, the souvenirs that have been on exhibition all summer in the pavilion will be awarded the costumes. It is not the object of the Hard Times Parade to wear either new or expensive material. "Stick to the text" and appear in a hard times costume. The dressing rooms at the theater will be open and those who do not wish to dress at home for the parade may use the theater the same as last year.

HALL ROSE TO HIS KNEES IN AN ATTEMPT TO LIFT HIS PALL.

MRS. M. A. HALL

greatest of all British military honors, the award of the Victoria cross!

To the dark eyed woman with the iron gray hair lying between white sheets of an upper room in a cottage at 179 Spence street, the coming of the Victoria cross to Winnipeg—to Canada—does not mean the same as it does in the barracks of the "Little Black Devils" at York and Main streets.

For she is not the glorious recruiter of a hero, but the mother of one. And to be the mother of even a Victoria cross hero cannot make up for everything; and you will understand what I mean when I say that "Freddie" Hall won the insignia of his bravery as he fell dead—shot through the temple by a German bullet.

"I would not have it otherwise," says Mrs. Hall from her bed of illness, "but if only he had not had to die! Not so much for myself, I mean, as for him. I don't think he could have lived to know his own glory."

And she turns her paining head away. This mother of heroes—for all her four sons are in the war—because she does not cry. "Women have called me cruel," she told me, "saying that I should be ashamed to send my boys to fight—and die. But don't you think mine is the harder part—to lie here alone, waiting for some word—and knowing that I must not even cry, since my boys are only doing their duty? You must know how it hurts here inside—how—"

There is a stretch of ground that runs from the sandy marge of the Norman sea to the far, lovely slopes of the Swiss Alps, upon which no man dare tread who holds life dear. It is, in most places, but fifty yards wide, this ribbon of dirt, and it is covered with barbed wire, with pieces of burst shell and here and there a dead body lies mouldering. It is the space between the German trenches and the allies' line; and in Flanders they call it "No Man's Land."

"No Man's Land" is a little bit narrower, a little bit more bullet riddled and rutted near Ypres than anywhere else. Here has been the most concentrated fighting of the whole war—and here it was that the first Canadians distinguished themselves forever when they stood undaunted against a wall of deadly gases and kept the "Teuton hordes" at bay—kept them from Calais!

The Ninetieth regiment, in which served "Freddie" Hall, late an invoice clerk of Winnipeg, were holding the first trenches here—this key to Ypres and the channel. If "the Ninetieth" could but hold this key, the German offensive would come to naught; that was the tremendous situation!

"Everything depended on this one line of earthworks 'way out in front,' writes Britain's official 'Eyewitness' in his final description of this most terrible of battles. 'It would appear that no living thing could abide there. All the deadly machines of war were battering away at it. But the Prussian was forbidden to pass! In the forward slung line, grim men, aged years by hours of fearful strain, faced a foe; they awayed with gas sickness; dead lay like flies in the trench bottoms and the dying nursed their wounds in silence—but they held till the reinforcements—victory—came!'"

It was very near the end of this terrific baptism of fire that "Freddie" Hall, simply and suddenly, became the greatest hero of the greatest fight of the greatest war the world has ever seen. Hundreds of men and practically all the officers of the Ninetieth had been killed or maimed. Hall, but twenty-eight, had jumped to the front, to lead his men—for none other appeared for the task.

He was cool and careless—and divinely brave. Orders to try a charge came. Hall was first out of the trench, with a dozen men at his heels. But a rain of machine gun lead hurled them back. Two men dropped in their tracks and Hall went out into the leaden storm and pulled them both back to safety.

Then there came a cry—"Freddie!" Hall's particular trench partner had failed to get back. He lay wounded far out in the evil stretch. Hands caught at Hall as he leaped the parapet, but he threw them off.

He crawled along the ground for twenty feet and grasped his wounded friend. He dragged him half a dozen feet, and called for help. None came. No one would dare "No Man's Land."

Hall rose to his knees in an attempt to lift his pal. A German bullet whizzed through his head. Machine gun rain whirled his dying friend.

Even in the molten hell of these gas fogged trenches, the white heat of

TO DISCUSS NEED OF LARGER ARMY Veterans of Foreign Wars Are in Encampment at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—Consideration of the alleged necessity for a larger army and reserve corps was expected to occupy much of the attention of the delegates who assembled here today for the sixteenth national encampment of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars of the United States.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is also meeting here at this time.

"The veteran reserve is needed for the safety of the country," declared Lieut. Col. Robert S. Wood, of Pittsburgh, who was one of the early arrivals. "The creation of a reserve force would stop a wasteful leak in our army administration."

"Some people suppose uniforms can be slipped on a million men thereby giving us a fine army of soldiers. The fact is, however, no man is a soldier without training. It takes at least a year to whip him into shape."

This is the second of the municipal parks to be finished in a fortnight, and the work of relaying and regrading, and screening the others will continue. There are now six municipal diamonds under the care of the park department, but the Lawton and Weisser park grounds are the only ones in which the backstops have been erected. The stops are constructed of three-inch iron poles and extend across in the rear of the plate for forty feet and swing over at forty-five degree angles at the sides. They are covered with regulation baseball screen, and the diamonds and fields are laid out in accordance with the rules and regulations governing professional games. The diamonds in use now include two in Swinney park, two in Foster park, one in Lawton and one in Weisser park.

City, saying Gen. Pablo Gonzales, Carranza's commander there, had "promised safe conduct to the messengers who are to carry the appeal to Gen. Zapata and others."

Parker also reported destitution among Americans in the capital and said 120, being aided by American embassy attaches, had asked to be sent to the United States.

A message from Consul Silliman, at Vera Cruz, reported that the bishop of Vera Cruz, who had been imprisoned by Carranza authorities for some time, had been released.

Advices from Monterey said Villa forces under Rosalio Hernandez and Raoul Madero, had advanced within nine leagues of the city.

Consul Silliman has been stricken by the hot weather, but his illness is not serious.

Carranza and Villa Get Appeal.
Word that both Generals Carranza and Villa have received copies of the Pan-American appeal reached the state department today. From several sources it has been learned that Gen. Carranza's suggestion of a truce has been favorably received by some subordinate officers and soldiers of the Carranza armies. There has been practically no fighting in Mexico for several days.

No Replies Received.

No replies to the Pan-American appeal had been received today. State department officials are undecided whether to make them public after they are received before another conference with the Latin-American diplomats is held.

Under the language of the appeal the Mexicans may invite some Latin-American state to arrange the proposed peace conference and ignore the offer of the United States. Officials here say that only those invited will participate in the arrangements.

A state department dispatch from Torreon says the Villa garrison at Durango has revolted and that the city has been taken by Carranza forces.

Carranza Claims Support.

Gen. Carranza's agency here today made public telegrams from several generals pleading their support to Gen. Carranza. The agency announced the telegrams were written at a time when the generals feared a threat of armed intervention by the United States in the internal affairs of Mexico and participation in that movement by South and Central American states.

The American consul at Chihuahua reported today that all foreign shops seized by Gen. Villa have been returned to their owners. It is expected that Villa will do the same for the native shopkeepers. Villa took possession of the shops on the ground that the merchants were practicing extortion upon the famine-ridden inhabitants. His latest action follows his conference with Major General Scott.

MEXICAN BANDITS AGAIN ACTIVE.

Hostiles Trying to Sneak Over the Border in Small Groups.

Brownsville, Texas, Aug. 16.—Reports of renewed attempts by Mexican bandits to reorganize their bands in the lower Rio Grande valley, were brought here today by Captain of Texas Rangers J. J. Sanders. A detachment of United States cavalry patrol was fired on last night from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, near Mercedes, about thirty miles up the Rio Grande from here. The firing occurred at Progreso. The cavalrymen returned the fire and the shooting from the Mexican side stopped. There were no casualties among the American troops.

Captain Sanders said he had received reports that Mexicans are crossing into Texas, one or two at a time, and that they are attempting to gather again in Hidalgo county, west of Brownsville. Sunday, he said, a dozen approached a ranch house near San Benito, sending two to the house. The rancher's wife was at home alone. They asked her where her husband and his horses were. After satisfying themselves that both the man of the house and the horses were away, the Mexicans left. Rangers were searching for them today.

The Twenty-fifth infantry from Texas City went on duty here today. About seventy-five of the Twenty-sixth were left at Kingsville, eleven miles north of Brownsville, and more than two companies went on patrol at Harlingen, between here and Kingsville.

Rangers and police officers are disarming all Mexicans outside of the larger towns throughout the Brownsville section. The finding of firearms in the possession of Mexicans is practically equivalent of a death warrant unless the Mexican is known to Americans as being peaceful. Even with such a record firearms are confiscated and a warning given not to obtain any more. There is a state law against "pistol toting," but Mexicans in the country about here have avoided penalties of this law by carrying rifles.

VILLA ABANDONS HOLD-UP.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 16.—A forced loan of $100,000 levied by Gen. Villa against the James Brittingham soap factory, a Mexican corporation at Gomez Palacio, has been lifted, it became known here today. Abandonment of the plan to collect the loan from the concern followed conferences between the northern leader and Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, who was recently sent to the Mexican border on a mission for the state department. Future movements of Gen. Scott were uncertain today, pending the receipt of further instructions from Washington.

NAVY SALUTES LABOR MEMBER OF CABINET FOR FIRST TIME.

Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson (center), Commander J. M. Reeves, of the battleship Oregon, and Miss Agnes Wilson, daughter of the cabinet member, during the review of warship fleet in San Francisco harbor.

San Francisco, Aug. 12.—Labor, through its cabinet representative, received its first ceremonial salute from the United States navy here recently when Secretary W. B. Wilson was accorded a salvo of nineteen guns from the battleship Oregon.

At the Oregon's masthead the flag of the department of labor snapped to the breeze, while Secretary Wilson reviewed a Pacific squadron on August 3. Secretary Wilson, who had come to San Francisco to preside at the National Conference on Unemployment, was plainly embarrassed as the central figure in this unique demonstration.

Dressed in plain street attire and bearing himself with almost retiring manner, he was in decided contrast to the pomp and gold braid that made of the event a pageant.

When photographers asked him to pose beside one of the Oregon's big guns, he demurred, saying: "No, I don't know much about guns and don't care much for them."

But there was something tremendously impressive about the quiet pose of labor's representative, standing on the gun turret of the Oregon—a man neither awed nor contemptuous at the tribute the United States navy was for the first time paying the nation's toilers whom he peculiarly represents at Washington.

During successful attacks on advanced position at Kovno 17,300 Russians, including seven officers, were taken prisoners. A projected attempt to break through the Russian lines from the Narva to the Bug after a crossing of the Norz river succeeded and our pursuing troops reached the hill at Bransk. More than 3,000 prisoners fell into our hands. At Nowogrodek the defenders were driven back still farther from their groups of fortifications.

"Army groups of Prince Leopold: During the night, the left wing fought its way across the Bug river east of Drosiezyn. After the center and right wings had captured Lysyca and Medzyrzec yesterday afternoon our opponents offered resistance only in the section of Toczowa and Klukowka between Mierzeja and Beulla, but this resistance was broken down east of Lysyca at daybreak by an attack of the Silesian Landwehr. The enemy is being pursued.

"Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: The pursuit of the enemy continues. Cisle and Silesia have been occupied. East of Mlodowa our troops are advancing on the eastern bank of the Bug."

OPERATIONS DEVELOP SLOWLY. Both Russ and Tenthon Forces Show Effects of Intense Struggle.

London, Aug. 16.—Military operations in the Eastern field are developing slowly. Both sides show the effects of the intensity of the Warsaw struggle. The German advance now centers on the efforts of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to force troops across the Dnieper and eastward in the general direction of Petrograd and the near approach of the army of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, to the new Brest-Litovsk defense. Notwithstanding the steady pressure of the Germans, the Russians have succeeded thus far in holding them west of the Dnieper.

Balkan Crisis Near Climax. The Balkan crisis is drawing near a climax. The national assemblies of Serbia and Greece meet today with the probability of a decision as regards Bulgaria's territorial demands, upon which hinge the question of united action of the Balkan states with the allies.

In the best posted quarters here the outlook is regarded with a degree of pessimism. It is expected Serbia will seek a compromise and Greece will reject the Bulgarian contentions. Reports from Athens indicate that King Constantine is insisting the new cabinet must maintain strict neutrality, the effect of which would be to withhold Greece from participating in a plan of united Balkan co-operation with the allies.

Germany to Take a Hand. In the meantime there are many evidences of Austro-German preparation to deal with the Balkan situation. According to information from Bucharest, German army corps have been concentrated near the junction of Hungary, Rumania and Serbia. This, with the bombardment of Belgrade and the activity of Austrian artillery at many points along the Danube, lends support to reports of a great Austro-German offensive in the Balkans.

The outcome of the crisis is awaited most anxiously as determining whether the allies will receive new support from the Balkans and whether Germany's supplies of ammunition for Turkey will continue to be shut off by the Balkan barrier.

Bulgarian officials do not expect an agreement will be reached, but the Serb group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, who is in command of the Russian army, is in a serious condition.

Vitch, told the Associated Press he believed a middle ground would be found on which it will be impossible to unite the Balkan states.

LANGOHR MUST STAY IN COUNTY BASTILE

Judge Carl Yaple Denies Him Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Finding that the well established course of procedure in the city court in dealing with wife desertion and child neglect cases was within the law, Judge Carl Yaple, Monday, in the superior court, denied the application of William Langohr for a writ of habeas corpus for his release from the county jail.

In the city court Monday morning Langohr was bound over to the circuit court on the charge of child neglect under bond of $800, which he has failed to furnish.

In his petition for a writ of habeas corpus directed against Sheriff A. C. Gadioux, Langohr alleged that he was being held illegally and without right inasmuch as the procedure against him in the city court was illegal.

Langohr started all the trouble for himself when some days ago he filed habeas corpus proceedings in the superior court for the custody of his children, who are under the care and jurisdiction of Bessie Griebel, sister of his deceased wife. When he appeared in court he was arrested on a charge of child desertion and taken to jail. Saturday morning Judge Yaple denied him habeas corpus, holding that Miss Griebel was in a better position to care for the children than their father.

After the hearing in the superior court Monday, Langohr was taken back to the county jail, where, if he is unable to give bond, he will be required to stay until his case is called for trial.

Mrs. Hovetter is asking for alimony in the sum of $1,500.

For Foreclosure of Mortgage. Suit for the foreclosure of a $1,200 mortgage and for the appointment of a receiver was filed in the circuit court Monday afternoon, by Henry G. Zimmer against Guy W. Pinkham. Zimmer until recently, conducted a carpet cleaning establishment, selling the outfit some weeks ago to E. L. Hall, who in turn sold it to the defendant, who agreed to assume all of Hall's notes and pay the same, which, it is alleged, he has failed to do. Zimmer is represented by Attorney J. H. Aiken.

The case brought by James F. Johnson against the Big Four Fruit company for the appointment of a receiver will probably be heard Tuesday in the superior court.

Suit has been filed in the circuit court by the National Surety company against Henry Hilgemann for $475 alleged to be due as premium on a bond. Mr. Hilgemann gave when he built the Rudisill school on Spy Run avenue.

ASKS COURT TO GIVE SON TO HIS FATHER

Mother Complains That Lad, Given to Her,
Will Not Obey.

A petition was filed in the superior court, Monday, by Laura B. Strain against her former husband, Peter Deutschman, asking that the custody of her son Carol, who is now 14½ years old, be given to the father.

Mrs. Strain sets forth in her petition that she was divorced from Deutschman in 1911 and at that time she was given the custody of her three children. The eldest boy is now over 17 years of age and able to care for himself and the youngest, a girl, is not subject to her father's influence. She can do nothing with Carol, she says.

She alleges that Deutschman persists in keeping Carol with him and in keeping him away from his home during practically all of each day and far into the night. She says that the child is only home long enough to eat his meals and to sleep from midnight on. He refuses to obey her, she alleges, and for that reason she asks that the court give the custody of him to the father. She also asks for $5 a month for the support of the youngest child.

Dublin, Ireland, Aug. 16.—David Johnston was found dead this morning beneath a window of his house in Lurgan, County Armagh, in which for two days he had withstood a siege of the constabulary. A bullet wound below his eye and an empty revolver clutched in his hand indicated he had used his last cartridge to cheat the police of their quarry. Johnston, who is believed to have been mentally irresponsible, precipitated the trouble on Saturday by firing at registry enumerators who went to his house to deliver the official forms in connection with the national registration now under way.

"I am not going to register; that's all I know about it," declared Miss Pankhurst at a meeting, followed by a demonstration of East London suffragettes. "For my part I think it merely a ruse to get more power out of the workers. I am not a man so they can't take me to war, but they won't send me to a munitions factory. They know there will be trouble. They pay two shilling, eight pence (66 cents) a dozen for soldiers' khaki shirts and men will fight for better conditions for women."

THE MARKETS

BLUE MONDAY FOR THE LOCAL MARKET

Receipts Are Light and the Bidding is Very Inactive.

Blue Monday had its effects on the local markets today and a result receipts were very light and bidding inactive. The city scales experienced a very dull day, weighing but eighteen loads of hay and grain, nearly as much as on the day when it rained, making it impossible for the farmer to get to the city. The quietness on the street may, however, be explained by the fact that the farmers took advantage of the good weather. The sunshine of yesterday and today has dried out the fields sufficiently for the farmer to get busy.

Farmers state that had not this wet weather spoiled about 50 per cent. of the oats crop that it would have been the record year for the grain. Never before have they seen the oats heads filled out as nicely as they were this year. However, they will not be able to gather half of it as it has become overripe and is all shelling out and going to waste. One farmer, whose oats crop is nearly all spoiled, wishes it stated that a certain "wideawake" who has blown his bugle and announced in a local newspaper that only a small percentage of the crops had been spoiled on account of the wet weather, must be another Rip Van Winkle who has not yet awakened, and that his little article must have been a bad dream.

Three loads of corn appeared on the street Monday morning but the bidding was light and as a result the price which prevailed Saturday took a tumble of 3 cents. New hay was sold for $2.00 to $3.00 a ton. All other market quotations remained unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Big receipts here and favorable weather for threshing and shipping had a bearish effect today on wheat. The arrivals here amounted to the huge total of 1,100 carloads. After opening 3 1/2 to 1 1/2c lower with September at $1.05 to $1.05 1/2, the market underwent a decided further sag.
The close, however, was a steady at 1 1/2c under Saturday night, with September at $1.04 1/2 and December, $1.04 1/2.
Corn showed heaviness in sympathy with wheat, and as a result of the lack of any urgent cash demand. Besides, Illinois reported good progress in earing. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/2 to 3/4c down, were followed by a moderate additional setback.
The close was steady at 3/4c to 5/8c net decline, with September, 73c and December, 63c 3/4c.
General commission house selling weakened oats. About the only support came from resting orders to buy at a decline. Provisions trade was nearly at a standstill, and quotations inclined to be weak. The bearish outlook for the export trade appeared to act as a check on buyers.

Baby Fingers Open Prison Doors for This Modern Georgia Jean Valjean

Bessie's Smile and Plea Win Pardon for "Lifer" Who Once Escaped and Became Police Chief, Only to Be Detected and Returned to Prison Cell.

(By Honor Fanning.)
Milledgeville, Ga., Aug. 16.—Prison doors that three years ago closed for life on Thomas Edgar Stripling have just been flung open by the tiny fingers of a little girl.

The touch of baby fingers put in motion state machinery that neither political pull nor official influence could move; the tears and the smiles of a little girl of six changed an inferno of despair to a heaven of hope, lifted the shadow of fear from a hunted, haunted man, who had lived for fifteen years in terror of the law's vengeance.

Stripling, the "lifer," whose story so closely parallels the story of Hugo's "Jean Valjean," will soon take his place again among free men and he'll owe his freedom to his little daughter, Bessie Lucille, who interceded with Governor Nat E. Harris for her father's liberty.

Bessie Lucille, the convict's daughter, has heard more about prisons than she has about dolls and little girls' playthings since her father was arrested three years ago and sent back to prison for a crime committed many years before Bessie Lucille was born. Like a good little girl she waited—just as daddy told her to—for him to come back and "play bear" or tell her stories. She was very lonesome for her daddy. One day her mother took her to visit him in the state prison. It was the day that Governor Harris was inspecting the penitentiary.

The governor was engaged in talking to a committee of officials in the prison lobby when a sad-eyed woman and a shabby little girl passed by. No one noticed the little girl slip away from her mother and run up to the big, broad-shouldered governor, put her little fingers in his, life a smiling face and eyes filled with tears up to him and whisper: "Please, Mr. Governor, let my daddy come home with me; I want him."

"Who are you, child?" asked the governor.

"I'm just Bessie Stripling, my daddy's in prison, and I want him to come home with me."

A tense moment passed. The war veteran who governs Georgia is kind-hearted—Bessie's eyes pleaded tenderly. The governor thought deeply for a few seconds. Then came the determined answer: "Run along, lassie; I'll send your daddy home soon."

Bessie Lucille Stripling and her dad as he looked when he was chief of police.

without it. Their destitution made him desperate. After a year in prison he escaped. With his family he located at Danville, Va., and under the name of Morris soon became one of the most respected citizens in the community. For several years he was Danville's chief of police. But "murder will out." After fifteen years of liberty and right living "Morris" was recognized as a fugitive and returned to prison to serve out his life sentence.

The savings of fifteen years were spent on lawyers' fees. His family was again destitute. Influential friends sought his release, but the law demanded its "pound of flesh."

Stripling's case had been given up as hopeless when his baby daughter twined her fingers into the fingers of Georgia's governor and asked him to "send daddy home."

There were two children in the Stripling family when "Bill" Cornett was murdered. When he was sent back to prison, three years ago Stripling left twelve children behind. His family is now in dire poverty, his own health is broken, but the spirit of Georgia's Jean Valjean is brave and unflinching.

"Give me another chance," he asks, "and I'll square myself with the world—and I'll be worthy of the devotion of my family and friends."

HOW THE ORDER OF EAGLES WAS BEGUN

Its Original Name Was "Seattle Order of Good Things."

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 16.—Do you know that the Fraternal Order of Eagles was not founded under that name, and that its first name was the "Seattle Order of Good Things," started by six theatrical men and a reporter in Seattle seventeen years ago?

If you don't know these things (and a large number of the 500,000 Eagles in the United States do not), here is the story of the Eagles as told by Chester Edwards, one of the founders, writer of the first ritual and designer of the first badge of the order.

Edwards took an active part in the granderie of the Eagles in Spokane, attended by 12,000 Eagles from 3,000 American lodges.

"In January, 1898," he said, "the show business in Seattle was at low ebb. All the managers, trying to pare expenses, wanted to cut down the orchestras, but one of them did not wish to do it without the other."

"Mose Goldsmith, now a showman in Los Angeles; Harry L. Leavitt, owning attractions on the Zone at the Panama-Pacific exposition; John W. Conditine, theatrical manager, and his brother, Thomas J. Conditine; Arthur G. Williams, now connected with Florenz Ziegfeld's attractions, and John Cort, well known in American theaterdom, were standing in front of a theater in Seattle."

A "TRADE IN FT. WAYNE" PAGE

A crew of men working for The Sentinel is now in process of soliciting and compiling a novel advertising page—a Classified Business Directory of Fort Wayne, or "Trade in Fort Wayne" page. This will be printed in The Sentinel about September 1st. The purpose will be to display the business facilities of the city and the business houses entering will all be grouped in a handy manner, each under its business classification.

A unique feature of the enterprise is that the entire business directory, after including himself. Then they decided to form a club of theatrical men, "The Seattle Order of Good Things." I was instructed to get an emblem bearing the inscription: "The Seattle O. of G. T." "Next Sunday six more theater men were initiated. There was only one officer—Cort was the first, and as soon as dues were paid in, they went over to liquidate the bunch. The name was changed to the Brotherhood of Eagles."

"I was instructed to write a ritual, on which the first 10,000 members were initiated into the lodge."

"That was the beginning. Today the lodges in the United States, Canada, Hawaii and in China number 3,000 and the membership is 500,000."

ENGLISH POUND HITS LOW MARK OF HISTORY

Flood of Bills Against Britain and Her Allies Sends It Down and Causee s Demoralization in Wall Street

New York, Aug. 16.—The value of the English pound sterling went steadily and rapidly downward today until it touched 4.64 in American money, the lowest value ever placed upon it since New York became a financial center. Utter demoralization of the foreign exchange markets resulted.

Francs followed suit, falling to 8.00, or the equivalent of 16 2-3 cents. Normally pound sterling are quoted at 4.87 and francs at approximately 20 cents.

Bills Against Allies the Cause.

On Saturday the English pound established a new low record in the New York money market by falling to 4.60. Today it opened two cents under Saturday's lowest price, within an hour lost another penny and by 1 o'clock had sold down to 4.64. The sharp fall in exchange rates was ascribed to the demand of American manufacturers for pay for the goods sold by them abroad.

Within the last few days the money market had been flooded with bills against England and her allies. It was reported that last Friday between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000 of such bills were presented to one big banking house alone. Today's demands, which sent the exchange rates to unheard of low levels, were believed to be far in excess of this sum.

ACCUSED MAN HANGS SELF

Silas Ebersole Ends His Life in Cell of the South Bend Jail.

LEAVES NO LIGHT ON GIRL'S MURDER

Former Dunkard Preacher Commits Suicide by Strange Means.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 16. Silas N. Ebersole, held for the murder of 15-year-old Hazel Macklin, committed suicide by hanging himself in the county jail this morning.

Ebersole, a former Dunkard minister, aged 55, was strangled by a two foot piece of small lead pipe which he had broken off from a disinfectant apparatus in the hall way near his cell. His body was found at 7:30 o'clock this morning by Turnkey Barkley and indications were that he had been dead for several hours. He left nothing in the way of a confession, according to Coroner T. J. Swantz, but a letter to his wife in regard to matters hearing upon his case.

The body was hanging to the bars in the cell when Turnkey Barkley approached the door at the front. The lead pipe, which was probably a half inch in diameter, was twisted about his neck and about the bars of the cell over his head. He trusted himself with towels and blankets so that in his death struggle he would not be able to release himself from the pipe.

The letter found in the cell was supposed to have been directed to Mrs. Ebersole.

STOLEN FORD FOUND BY CHICAGO POLICE

The five passenger Ford Touring car, which was stolen last Monday afternoon, August 9, from the court house square, was found by the Chicago police Monday morning, according to a telegram received at noon today by Chief of Police Charles Lenz.

The auto belonged to A. C. McCoy, a certified public accountant, who has his office at 301 Shonoff building, and was stolen in broad day light between one and three o'clock in the afternoon. No trace of the thieves could be found here.

The police department is to be complimented on their promptness and the quickness in which the stolen auto was recovered. Mr. McCoy greatly appreciated the fact that it is recovered and states the police department should be scored for its quick recovery. Mr. McCoy will leave for Chicago Monday evening to bring back his Ford.

THREE MACHINES IN CORNER SMASH

Ford, Big Truck and Coupe Damaged and None Hurt.

A Big Four Fruit company truck, a Ford owned and driven by J. R. Matlock, 342 West Taber street, and an electric coupe driven by Miss Irene Malloy, mixed in a triangular muddle at Harrison and Grand streets shortly before 1:30 Monday afternoon, and although all the cars were more or less banged up no one was injured.

The Big Four fruit truck was running at a high speed west on Grand street and Miss Malloy and Matlock were driving on Harrison, both going south. Miss Malloy was on the right side of the street and when she saw the approaching truck realized that she could not avoid being run down, and so turned on full speed and climbed the curb and crossed the sidewalk to a zone of safety. Matlock was less fortunate and couldn't get away, his machine being badly smashed.

LINCOLN HIGHWAY IS COMPLETED

Final Lap of Concrete Road Opened Monday—Bridge Still Closed.

The last link of the Lincoln highway between Fort Wayne and New Haven was completed Monday. The bars were taken down on the final stretch of road to be laid, that portion from the bridge into the village of New Haven.

The bridge will not be open for several weeks, however, and although the road proper is now ready for traffic, the highway will not be open its full length until the new bridge is completed.

Miss Hunter was a junior in the Fort Wayne high and manual training school when she was taken ill two years ago last February of the sickness from which she never recovered. Miss Hunter was well known in the city and her many friends will be grieved to learn of her death.

WEST END YOUNGSTERS ENJOY INDIAN WAR ROMP IN BACK YARDS

An Indian encampment in the rear of a West Berry street home is the scene of daily Indian warfare among the children in the neighborhood, and the camera man happened to catch them in one of their bloodiest battles. The result was that the lion and the lamb lay down together, Indians and whites alike grouping in front of the teepee. Standing, right to left, are: Junior Drayer (who insists that his first name isn't Park, or anything like it, but "Junior") and Sidney Carnahan. Seated, left to right, are: Grace Keenan, Regine Minsky, John Milton Rosenthal, Jr., Helen Doyle, James Kane and Jack White.

CRY OF SICK BOY STARTS FIRE PANIC

Wide Aisles and Cool Heads Avert Catastrophe at the Jefferson.

The cry of a sick boy in the audience, who suddenly was overcome by illness, was interpreted as a call of fire at the Jefferson theater at 10:10 o'clock Sunday night and fully a third of the house broke into a run for the exits. In less than ten seconds everyone in the house was standing, and hundreds had crowded into the aisles and started for the rear doors. Employees opened the side doors, but no one seemed to notice them and the crowd seemed to get out of the rear exits. Cooler heads in the audience yelled "sit down" and in less than a minute the house was quiet.

The orchestra had just left, but the machine operator coolly continued to run off the picture and assisted in a great measure in calming the frightened patrons. The aisles were so wide that there was little danger, although hundreds of people were pressing toward the rear.

People all over the house, who realized the danger of panic, stood in the aisles and warned the frightened not to run. No one was hurt and in less than two minutes the house was as quiet as it had been before.

The young fellow who was taken sick was suffering from a high fever and in a moment of delirium he screamed out that he was "going to die." The word "die" was misunderstood and was taken to be a call of "fire."

Big Gathering Will Be Held at Palace Theater Mon- day Evening.

Stringent resolutions will be adopted Monday evening at the big peace and neutrality meeting to be held at the New Palace theater protesting against the exportation of arms and ammunition to the nations now engaged in war in Europe. These resolutions will be forwarded to the president of the United States.

All the arrangements have been completed for the meeting and a tremendous crowd is expected to be in attendance. Chairman Jesse Macbeth will call the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and he will introduce the principal speakers of the evening, Hon. Patrick O'Donnell, of Chicago, and Hon. Henry Vollmer, of Davenport, Ia. Both Messrs. O'Donnell and Vollmer are eloquent orators.

An overflow meeting will be held in the assembly room of the court house with Prof. Louis Dorn, of the Concordia college faculty, and member of the city park board, in charge. Messrs. O'Donnell and Vollmer will speak at both meetings.

COMPANY E RETURNS AFTER WEEK IN CAMP

Local Militia Wins High in Every Line of Duty at Fort Harrison.

Tired and foot sore members of company E returned Sunday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock in a special car over the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company's line, from Fort Benham Harrison, where they have been in camp for the past week.

The Fort Wayne company won high honors in every line of duty, every member putting forth his best effort to make a creditable showing. The members put through much disagreeable duty, all of which was accepted without a murmur. Unfavorable weather prevailed throughout the greater part of the week.

The boys were given a taste of real army life in times of war. Although they were compelled to wade in mud and water ankle deep, there was not a man in the company on the sick roll.

The Fort Wayne company made a great hit with its quartet, composed of Sergeant H. Miller, Corporal J. Miller, Musician Joe Cranston and Private Wado Loring. The company broke camp at 9 o'clock.

RUSSIA HOLDS GERMAN PURSUIT NOW CHECKED

Slav Military Leaders View Situation With Optimism, While Teutonic Re- ports Tell Another Story.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

Advances recorded in the German official statement today represent a further closing in by Teutonic troops on the fortress of Brest-Litovsk, the stronghold of the new Russian line of defenses.

Prince Leopold of Bavaria, who yesterday reported a defeat of the Russians near Losyce, 10 miles east of Siedlice, which the Germans took late last week, today occupied Losyce and Miedzyrzec, the latter place about 25 miles in a southward direction from Siedlice. Afterwards the Russians were beaten in a stand east of Losyce and were pursued, the Berlin statement says. These operations were within 40 miles of Brest-Litovsk.

Still closer to fortress are the armies of Field Marshal von Mackensen which on Saturday were reported within 40 miles of the stronghold. Since then they have advanced northward in pursuit of the Russians, marching toward Brest-Litovsk along both banks of the Bug.

Other successes are reported for the Germans between the Narew and the Bug, together with the capture of an advanced position at the fortress of Kovno and the taking in these sectors of nearly seven thousand Russian prisoners.

Despite German successes, Petrograd military observers do not take a pessimistic view of the situation looking for a determined stand by the Russians as their new line is reached.

Operations on the western front were relatively unimportant. An engagement toward the southern end of the line near Ammerzwiller appears to have been indecisive neither the French nor the Germans claiming any notable advantage.

Parliaments of Serbia and Greece meet today and important developments in the Balkan situation are expected. Capitals of the entente allies hope for a speedy agreement among the Balkan powers by which their concerted aid may be given the allied cause, but prediction of quick action to this end are lacking. Observers of the trend of diplomatic interchanges recognize many difficulties, in view of the reluctance of Serbia and Greece to grant the territorial claims of Bulgaria.

Military activity is increasing along the Austro-Serbian frontier. Exchanges of artillery fire at Belgrade have been followed by Serbian bombardment of defenses before the village of Dobra on the Danube. Heavy concentration of Teutonic forces on the edge of the Balkan region is reported. A German submarine has sunk the Norwegian steamer Albis, a 1318 ton vessel. The crew escaped.

ART SMITH DAY IS TO BE A BIG EVENT

His Visit Home to Be Occa- sion for Celebra- tion.

That Art Smith, the Fort Wayne bird-boy, will be given a royal welcome on his return to this city is now assured. His visit to his home town will be the occasion for a big celebration, at which time Art will be the center of attraction.

Smith is in Mason City, Iowa, this week and a letter has been forwarded to that city asking him to answer as soon as possible when he will be home. As good as this is known those back of the movement for an "Art Smith Day" will make the necessary arrangements.

In the event that such a celebration is held it is probable that Art will give an exhibition flight for his home folks free of charge and perform some of the daring aerial feats which have won for him the reputation of being the most fearless aviator of his day.

From Mason City Art will go to Omaha, Neb., where he will fly for a couple of days, after which he will leave for New York. An effort is being made to have him stop off in Fort Wayne on his way east.

ACTUAL WORK WILL SOON BEGIN ON DAM

There will be a general meeting of the St. Joe River Improvement association this week for the purpose of naming committees to begin actual work on promoting the reconstruction of the old Indisill dam, or to build a dam in that vicinity for the purpose of making a body of water that will provide a public pleasure resort where the people throughout the city can enjoy boating, bathing and fishing during the summer and skating and other sports during the winter.

There are many people today throughout the city that remember the old Indisill dam and the many pleasant days that were spent there. Family picnics, boating, bathing, fishing, skating and many other kinds of sport were greatly enjoyed in those days by the people throughout the city. The plan is now to provide another public pleasure resort for the benefit of the citizens of Fort Wayne.

TWO ARE SENT TO STATE PENAL FARM

Howard Burkholder and W.
Hershberg Go There for
Petit Larceny.

The charge of petit larceny in the city court Monday morning was considered a serious charge and as a result two young men were sent to the Indiana state penal farm. Walter Hershberg, who stole a dozen pair of silk hose from a well known shoe store on East Berry street, where he had been employed for three days, was given a fine of twenty dollars and costs and sentenced to the farm for thirty days, while Howard Burkholder, who stole a revolver, was given six days at the farm in addition to a fine of $10 and costs.

Hershberg, who hails from the windy city of Chicago, came to Fort Wayne a week ago last Saturday to seek employment. He was promised a position at the shoe store for Thursday morning. Saturday evening, after receiving his pay, he was caught trying to carry three pair of silk hose away with him, and for this offense was discharged. He told his landlady that he had received no pay and when she discovered that he had, she notified the police station. Detective Junk searched his room Monday morning and found eleven more pair of silk hose which he had carted away from the shoe store where he was employed. He tried to persuade the court to allow him to go free, because his folks were respectable business people in Chicago and that he had not stolen the goods because he had to do it, but because he had not received enough pay for the work he had done. His story had little influence.

Burkholder was picked up on the street early Sunday morning and could not give a good account of himself. He was placed under arrest and at the police station a big thirty-two revolver was found on his person. Later he confessed that he had stolen the weapon.

Edward Sichel, another representative of Chicago, was charged with stealing a coil from a Ford car which he was driving for a lady who was on her way from Chicago to the coal in place of some wages which he alleged was due him. The case against Lemuel S. Derian for disorderly conduct was continued indefinitely.

The chief of which John Barleycorn is chief executive was well represented in the court Monday morning, eight drunks appearing before Judge Kerr. Clarence Stout, Tom Lewis, Herman Eickmeyer, John Garrison, Mike Serebo and John Jackson were allowed to go on promise of good behavior. Edward Hubbard was fined five dollars and costs on a drunk charge, which consumed his fifteen dollar bail. Frank Rose was fined one dollar and costs on the same charge.

Frank Williams and Forest Peck, charged with loitering on the streets and for train climbing, were separated and given thirty minutes a piece to get out of the city. Both stated they were on their way home, one residing in Providence, N. J. and the other in Detroit.

After a severe reprimand in which Judge Kerr told them what horrible things might happen by riding a bicycle without lights, Henry Stogman and Ernest Brookmeyer, who were arrested Saturday evening for this offense, were allowed to go.

PRIEST SETTLES STRIKE.

St. Louis, Aug. 16.—The strike of 1,500 transfer company strikers and chauffeurs, which began here last Friday, was settled last night. The men were granted a general wage increase of fifty cents a week, a reduction of about one hour in the working day and better working conditions. The settlement was brought about by Father Timothy Dempsey, a Catholic priest. He pleaded with leaders of each side on behalf of the welfare of the community at large and induced them to agree to a meeting.

An overheated bathroom heater ignited the woodwork at the residence of J. W. Bailey, 605 Wildwood avenue, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning, causing a damage amounting to $25. The department answered the call.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES SEEK WORLD'S PEACE

Federation Begins Annual Convention in Toledo
With That Labor.

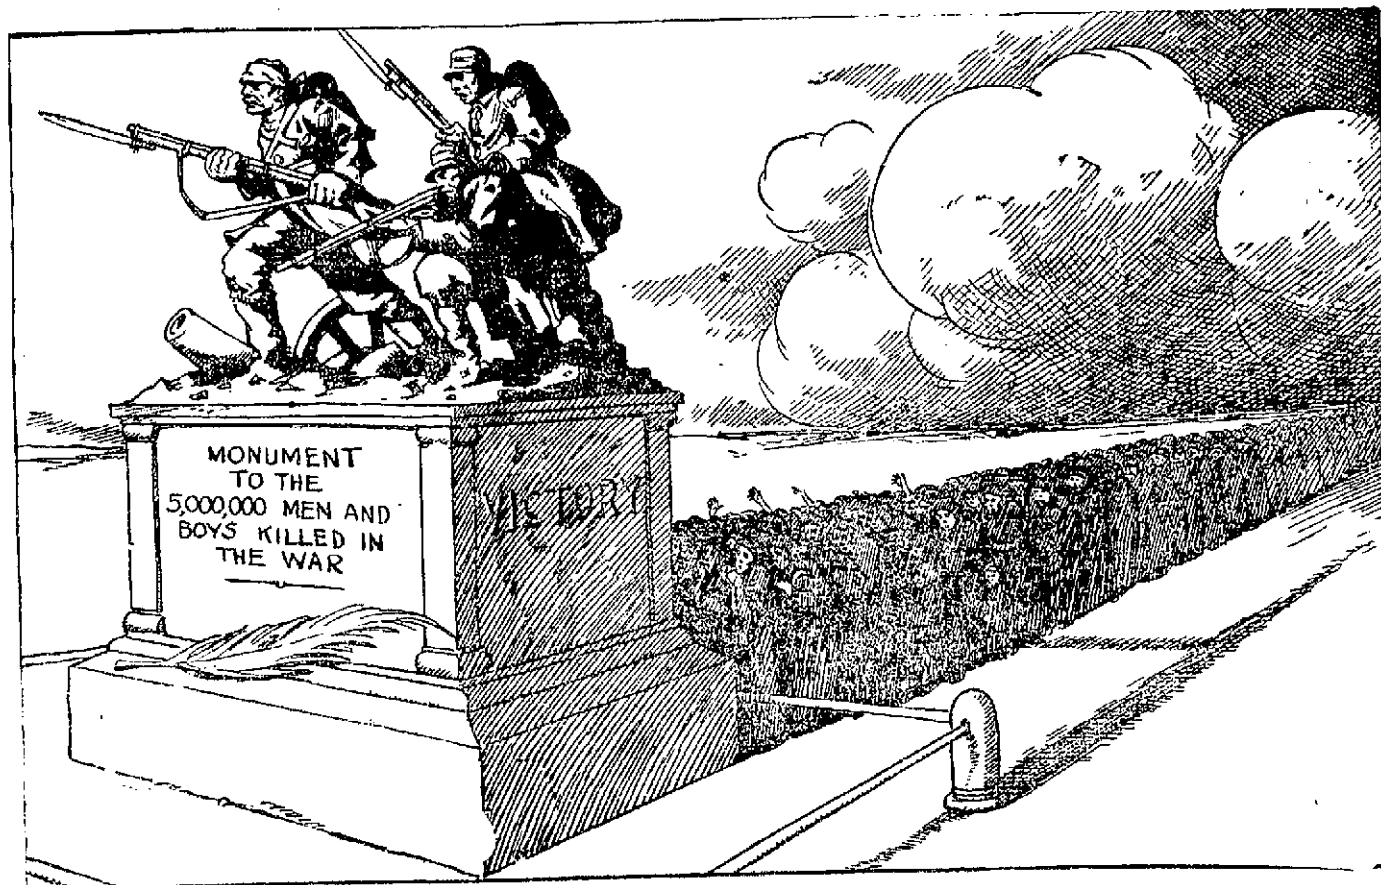

Toledo, O., Aug. 16.—A review of the recent activities of the American Federation of Catholic societies is contained in the report of Anthony Matre, the national secretary, submitted at today's session of the convention of the federation. A recommendation that the federation adopt a resolution urging the restoration of peace in Europe, and that Catholic organizations, the world over, be asked to participate in a universal request for peace was contained in the report which concluded with the announcement that Pope Benedict had granted to all federation members his apostolic benediction. Affiliated with the federation, the report shows, are thirty national organizations and twenty-five Catholic institutions. Many of these organizations are composed of laymen of the laity now at war, both alliances of the belligerents being represented.

The Work for Decency.

A special committee consisting of Rev. Richard Tierney and John Whalen, of New York, and Henry V. Cunningham, the report said, had called upon President Wilson and the secretary of state and submitted to the latter certain documents disclosing many outrages committed in Mexico against the Catholic church, priests and sisters. An extensive review of the federation's crusade against indecent theatrical performances, moving picture shows, pictures and posters, also was contained in the report. In this connection it was reported that the branch federation in St. Louis had suppressed 51,335 indecent and suggestive postcards. A number of blacklisted plays, several of which had been reproduced in moving picture form, had been suppressed throughout the country by the federation's activities, it was said, and the introduction of censorship laws was urged.

The most flourishing branch of the federation in the archdiocese of Boston, under the leadership of Cardinal O'Connor, the federation represents 1,000,000 Catholics. Activities of the federation

Two Parades On Woman's Day, Wed., Aug. 18

There will be two parades at Robison park on Woman's Day, August 18th. Wearing Newport scarfs, souvenirs of the 1915 Old Ladies' Congress, the venerable women will slowly march, two abreast, from the pavilion to the band stand in the grove where the exercises will be held. The Hard Times Parade will line up at 4:00 p. m. in front of the pavilion. The line will move through the park to the band stand where the prizes will be distributed. Imported German sewing baskets, also many useful and ornamental baskets as well as imported French china plates that have been on exhibition in the pavilion will be awarded this year to those appearing in the Hard Times Parade. It is but fit and proper that those who so largely aid in the day's success should receive the souvenirs. There will also be ten grand prizes for the best ten costumes suggestive of hard times.

DECATUR MYSTERY PROVES BAFFLER

Fred Heuer Was Playing His Victrola When Brick Came In.

Decatur, Ind., Aug. 16.—Fred Heuer, a man of peace and without a known enemy in the world, was sitting contentedly with his wife in their home spending a quiet and inoffensive evening, making his victrola play his favorite airs, when there was a crash of glass and a big brick came hurtling into the room. The brick was thrown from an alley, down which a neighbor, hurrying next door, heard the sound of a heavy man running. The police were notified and that the fell miscreant might not go unwhipped of justice, bloodhounds were hurried here from Celina, Ohio, to trail the perpetrator of the outrage. The dogs struck a scent and twice followed it to the brick and tile mill south of the city, but no one could be found. So the mystery remains and the police are trying to unravel it. All suggestions that the victrola music may have provoked a sudden and impromptu outrage in protest are repudiated as unworthy, as well as futile.

REDHOT FOR GOOD HIGHWAY.

Kosciusko Road Boosters Demand First-Class Road to Fort Wayne.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 16.—"A better road from Fort Wayne to Warsaw than the Lincoln highway from Fort Wayne to Goshen," this was the sentiment of the large gathering of Lincoln highway boosters, which met in this city. It is not yet known whether the officials will change the established route from Fort Wayne to Goshen since Noble county has refused to improve her roads. Should they refuse to change the route in spite of this it was the general opinion of the boosters that if a fine road is built from this city to Fort Wayne tourists would come this way and hit the Dixie highway, then strike the Lincoln highway at Goshen. It was suggested that this highway between Fort Wayne and Warsaw should be called the Winona highway. Owing to the fact that the reputation of Winona is known all over the United States, this would be an added inducement for tourists to use the route and spend a short time at this great summer resort. It was decided at the meeting that a body of five commissioners from Whitley county and five commissioners from Kosciusko county should be chosen in the near future to go ahead with the proposition of securing the road.

AGED COUPLE IN DIVORCE SUIT.

Decatur, Ind., Aug. 16.—Something of a sensation has been caused here by the appearance in the circuit court of Emily J. Niblick in a suit for divorce from Samuel T. Niblick, an old citizen from a veteran of the Civil war. The couple have lived together almost a half century and have a family of five grown-up children. Mrs. Niblick charges cruel and inhuman treatment and alleges that for years she has submitted to a persistent course of ill-treatment from her husband, including physical violence, threats to kill her and habitual drunkenness. She also says her husband has groundlessly questioned her character for virtue. She asks $2,000 alimony and judgment for $1,400 she says she lent him twelve years ago.

PLYMOUTH DOCTOR STRICKEN.

Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 16.—The city was startled Saturday afternoon by news of the sudden death of Dr. F. M. Birkett at his cottage at Pretty Lake, a heart trouble. He was 60 years of age, a native of Ohio, a veteran of the civil war and had been engaged in dental practice here for many years. The doctor's hunting dog had become entangled in the wire fence at the rear of the cottage lot and the doctor bent over the dog and endeavored to extricate the animal and a companion ran to get a pair of nippers to cut the wires. The effort to rescue the dog and the doctor's excitement overcame the doctor. He made an effort to rise, then slipped his hand upon his heart, uttered "Oh!" and fell back and expired.

MARKLEY ESTATE APPRAISED.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 16.—The report of the appraisal of the estate of the late Rev. J. J. Markley, for inheritance tax purposes, has been filed by the County Assessor H. S. Gault. The personal property is appraised at $5,467.70 and the real estate, which comprises 231.71 acres, is appraised at $21,000, a total of $26,467.70. In the division of the estate 90 acres of land, appraised at $9,000, is left to a daughter, Miss Ida Markley; $1,000 is left to a brother, Wilson Markley, and $500 each to W. D. Markley and Lewis P. Markley.

Old Ladies' Parade on Wednesday, August 18th.

The lineup of old ladies, two abreast, on Woman's Day, Wednesday, Aug. 18, will take place at 2 p. m. in front of the pavilion. There will be as little delay as possible in preparation for willing hands will quickly adjust the Newport scarfs about their shoulders. That they may recall for a day and live over again the joys of their youth, each old lady will receive an American flag, the precious emblem for which their loved ones suffered and died during four tremendous years of world history. The banner girls will step into line and the Congress will slowly move to the grove bandstand where the exercises will be held. Civilization is measured by the way it treats its very young and its very old. Greece and Rome spent their energies in the erection of temples to gods and goddesses. America expends hers in the building of schools and universities. She erects asylums for the orphan, the dumb and the blind. The younger the infant and the more helpless the aged, the more tender the care.

ly, brothers of the decedent. The remainder, over $15,000, is divided equally among twenty-one persons, nieces and nephews.

SPEED COP OUT OF JOB.

Kendallville, Ind., Aug. 16.—Kendallville is without a "motorcycle cop." Cy Stout, of Auburn, erstwhile ball player and former fish and game commissioner, who acted in that capacity for one week, having severed his connections with local police circles. It is generally understood that Stout was hired for a period of one week, and inasmuch as there was much dissatisfaction among local business men and others for securing the services of an out of town resident, his job did not last for any longer time than the original contract of one week.

AUTO CAPSIZES; TWO HURT.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 16.—While being driven into this city yesterday afternoon an automobile belonging to John Russell, of Toledo, skidded in loose gravel on the road, dashed into a tree and was capsized. Stanley Russell, 5-year-old son of Luman Russell, a Bourbon merchant, had one ear almost torn off and suffered a terrible gash in the head. John Russell, who was driving the car, was also badly injured by cuts and bruises. Misses Blanche, Wilda and Georgia Russell, all of Bourbon, escaped injury, though suffering much from shock.

SPANKS WIFE; PENAL FARM.

Logansport, Ind., Aug. 16.—Because he spanked his wife with a slipper, Charles Shuey will have to serve 45 days at the state penal farm. On returning home Shuey failed to find his wife, but later found her at the home of a neighbor. When she resisted his attempts to take her home, Shuey spanked her and the neighbors called the police.

SONS DEAD; ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Peru, Ind., Aug. 16.—Antonio Cuda, father of two boys who were drowned here, has tried twice since the boys died to kill himself. He tried to throw himself in the river and later tried to jump in front of a fast C. and O. train, but both times was restrained.

WILL INVADE MONTPELIER.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 16.—Hartford City socialists will go to Montpelier tonight to take part in a meeting there. It was also arranged that there should be a big meeting in this city Friday evening at which time an out of town speaker will be secured to address the crowd.

WAR TO COLLECT DOG TAX.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 16.—Charles F. Arnold and George Honley, of this city, were arrested on affidavits filed in the court of Squire J. K. Rinehart, charging them with delinquency in payment of dog taxes. Arnold pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs. Honley took a continuance to Thursday.

TOY BALLOON GOES 100 MILES.

Montpelier, Ind., Aug. 16.—To have an advertisement carried about one hundred miles by a toy balloon is the experience of L. E. Heats, of Sheridan.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Mark 6:30-43.

30 And the apostles gathered themselves together unto Jesus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.
31 And he said unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while: for there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.
32 And they departed into a desert place by ship privately.
33 And the people saw them departing, and many knew him, and ran afoot thither out of all cities, and out went them, and came together unto him.
34 And Jesus, when he came out, saw much people, and was moved with compassion toward them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and he began to teach them many things.
35 And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, This is a desert place, and now the time is far passed:
36 Send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread: for they have nothing to eat.
37 He answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat?
38 He saith unto them, How many loaves have ye, go and see. And when they knew, they say, Five, and two fishes.
39 And he commanded them to make all sit down by companies upon the green grass.
40 And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties.
41 And when he had taken the five loaves and the two fishes, he looked up to heaven, and blessed, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all.
42 And they did all eat, and were filled.
43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

The Better Way Not Appreciated

Indianapolis has issued and sold $600,000 of bonds to carry out the flood prevention work planned for that city, and the citizens were not asked to say "yes" or "no" to the proposal. The necessity for flood prevention was recognized and the authorities procured the money for the work in that manner which afforded the greatest expedition and the least trouble.

There has been chosen a fairer and more democratic course in this community. Flood prevention efforts are proceeding under a law that lodges both decision and control in the hands of the property-owners who will be assessed to pay for whatever may be done. There can be no gainsaying that means to prevent a recurrence of the widespread distress and vast damage inflicted upon this city two years ago should be invoked. Simply because the method chosen gives the people the opportunity to oppose the project is no reason why anybody should be hostile.

The public necessity for this great work should appeal to every property owner who has legal right to attach his name to a petition for a flood prevention work. Fort Wayne might quite as readily have acted preemptorily through her authorities and procured the needed money by an issue of bonds as Indianapolis did. And if no other means shall avail to get flood prevention in the way of actual achievement that alternative may at length be forced. It cannot be considered that this rich and prosperous community shall indefinitely expose itself to suffering and havoc by flood, while measures may be taken to ward itself from such a catastrophe. The plan proposed for establishing protection is the best that could have been devised in behalf of such as will have to meet assessments to pay for it.

That ultimately enough signatures will be obtained to the petitions asking the courts to create a flood-prevention district seems certain; but that labor is proving too tedious, too long drawn out. There should be willingness, readiness and expedition by the people to get the first step of the procedure completed and disposed of. Following that, much will remain to be done and altogether a long period will be consumed getting under way the actual work of setting barriers to flood waters. There ought to be no misgiving, hesitancy or delay in respect of this great work.

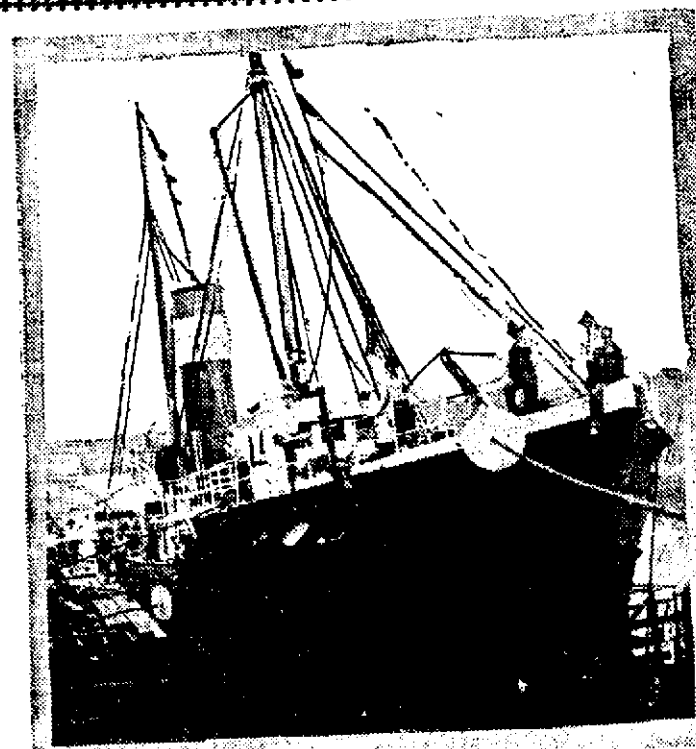

After more than twenty years of municipal dealing with the collection and destruction of garbage, and every succeeding year of the whole score showing cumulatively worse results, to say that the situation is no problem and that conditions that cry for correction may be met in an over-night consideration of plans is the kind of trifling that becomes a wickedness when related to matters that concern public decency and public health. What Fort Wayne wants at this time in respect of the garbage situation is not a remedy that will itself in a short time become an acerbated problem, but a solution that will meet present conditions and at the same time be susceptible of expansion to meet new conditions. Somebody who has made the care of city waste a subject of scientific study, who has solved such problems and knows what is what and not somebody who is merely guessing at methods of solution and trusting to luck for results should direct Fort Wayne's efforts to meet a situation that from the first has been bad and has constantly grown worse.

The sturdy hint thrown out in an address made before the city council by President F. M. Prier, of the Men's Christian league, that an option election in Fort Wayne is not one of the least probabilities of the near future, is attracting no little attention over the state. That Fort Wayne, once widely and notoriously looked upon as thoroughly and irrevocably wedded to Galbrinus as her idol, should even admit to herself that there is rushing to the dawn a day when divorcement will be sought, is rather startling, though calmly considered is not at all surprising, in view of many things.

With the Mexican states sullenly dividing on the question of whether an American armed invasion to enforce peace will be a hostile step, the outlook for yet greater gayeties of the civil strife down there becomes a deal brighter.

Still, we do not see why the remainder of the state should worry over the announcement that Col. Lew Shank will again try for the Indianapolis mayoralty. That is Indianapolis' trouble—not ours.

WORLD GETS NEW SEAPORT AS HOUSTON OPENS CHANNEL TO BIG VESSELS.

FIRST OCEAN GOING STEAMER TO DOCK AT NEW PORT OF HOUSTON.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 16.—Three thousand watermen, 50 beavers barbecued right on the ground, 20,000 cups of coffee, 200 loaves of bread, oceans of ice water! That is the commissary requirement for a little holiday social the people of Houston are planning for Aug. 19, to celebrate the arrival of the first New York steamship in Houston's brand new harbor. The entire populace of the city is going to foregather that day on the banks of the deep water canal and let the world know that a new seaport has been born.
After years of patient waiting and watching and working, the city's dream of a channel to the sea wide enough and deep enough for the passage of ocean-going vessels, has just been realized. The United States government and the Houston community have shared equally the cost, amounting to about $3,000,000. Now the city of Houston is spending $3,000,000 more for docks and warehouses.
Ocean freights formerly destined for Galveston may be brought 50 miles further at water rates for transportation to inland points by rail. Outgoing, the rail haul is 50 miles less.
A regular line of steamers of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Co. will ply between New York and Houston.

TIPS FOR AUTOISTS.

(South Bend Tribune.)
A southern California auto club is setting an example that should be patterned in every city. The club recognizes the necessity for eliminating much of the noise occasioned by automobiles. Its members know also that more often than not the auto drivers are not in indifferent to the feelings of others but just careless. So they have resorted to a tipping scheme.

Warning signs are being placed at places where it is particularly desirable that quiet should obtain. A red cross with the two words, "Hospital Quiet," is one. Another bears the tip, "School Quiet." The latter is placed about a block from every school house. Experience has proved that the signs have materially lessened the distracting noises in each vicinity. Other signs are placed near fire stations warning the autoist to go slow in order to avoid collision with an outgoing fire company.

It would seem this southern California club has hit upon the right idea. Arresting the offenders may teach some the lesson. It only aggravates others and they do what they can, frequently, to injure the city's reputation. Besides to apprehend enough offenders means extra patrolmen and extra expense. There is a time to use the big stick, but trying the other method first might help some.

THE RISING TIDE OF TRADE.

(Kansas City Star.)
The farmers have done their part in maintaining prosperity in this blessed country by producing 700 million bushels more of all the three principal grain crops this year than last, and now it looks as if the manufacturers are moving along the same line. This is particularly true of the iron and steel industry. Furnaces are turning out pig iron at the rate of thirty-two million tons a year, which is nearly 50 per cent more than the average production in 1914, and the United States Steel corporation added in July one-quarter million tons to its unfilled orders, though operating at almost full capacity during that month. The corporation has more orders on its books now than at any previous time in eighteen months. It is true that much of this business consists of war orders, but the domestic demand also is increasing.
Confidence in business is stronger today than at any previous time in many months, and the spirit that pervades all classes of tradesmen, manufacturers and bankers is to push things along and make a new record of industrial and commercial activity in the coming months.

Think It Over

Everything that is sold cannot be a "bargain," else the commercial world would soon be bankrupt. In order to continue in business merchants must at some time make a profit. A business that features so-called "bargain sales" must at some time mark goods at an excessive profit, thus making some of their customers help carry their losses. Exaggeration flows easily and smoothly from many retail sources, but claims are ineffectual unless backed by facts. We prefer to credit the people with intelligence and powers of discrimination. There are circumstances that warrant reduced prices, but regular goods must have their important place—on regular stock goods we always hold the prices to the lowest point consistent with our standard high quality.

Lure of Film Drama Has Resulted in Maze of Legal Complications.

New York, Aug. 16.—Suits and counter-suits involving famous players and

A logical result, it would seem from the invasions of high-class thespians into the movie ranks.

In the New York supreme court Justice Hoff has just refused to grant an injunction against the appearance of beautiful Valeska Surritt with the Fox Film corporation. The Lasky company brought suit against the clever vaudeville for breach of contract.

Then there is Eddie Foy and the seven Foy-lets, who are the bone of contention between the World Film corporation and the New York Motion Picture company. The World people say that Foy and his illustrious family were to pose for them, but instead side-tracked the engagement and have signed a contract with the New York people. This case, as yet, has not been decided.

HERE'S "THE GIRL WITH THE MUFF"—SHE SHOWS YOU STYLES FASHION HAS SET FOR WINTER.

Fashion no longer is satisfied with half a fox to keep its hands cozy; it demands the whole animal, fluffy tail, nose, ears and all.

It was one of those life-like little leopards, Miss Pearl Germonde, she who trips so airily in Hosen Follies de Vogue, posing for The Sentinel in football muff and scarf designed by Mayer Miller; and at right, Miss Germonde posing in cross-fox muff and "heads and tails" neck piece.

is the football muff, and "pigskin" was never rounder than the striped fox muff Miss Germonde carried when she posed for the picture shown at the left. The ball of fur is lined with flaming orange satin and it extends in deep frills at either end of the muff. The scarf, a ribbon-pike affair of fox is finished with an exceedingly natural looking head and tail. This, too, is designed by Mayer Miller.

Just as popular as the "animal" muff of a mother's love and the lengths a devoted maternal parent will go to promote the happiness of her offspring and to avenge herself for anything that may rise to prevent the furtherance of that joy.

There will be a native performance of this drama tomorrow and of course the usual evening performances all week.

Little City Girl Finds Love, Home and Fortune Awaiting Her in Country

Mary Alice's Dream Comes True, and She Has Taken $10,000 Place at the Pankhurst Farm in Illinois.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Mary Alice Smith is a little city girl.

For four years she's been strumming the keys of a typewriter in a skyscraper in Chicago's "bedlam," the loop. All day she listened to the boom and bang of the elevated trains that thundered past her office window; all night she heard the toot of the motors, the shriek of the fog horns on Lake Michigan—always she heard the jangling voice of the city.

But sometimes the hum of a drowsy bee would seem to sing with the boom of cars, and sometimes when Mary Alice would close her tired eyes she'd see a bank of fragrant red clover. For Mary Alice had once lived in the country—a beautiful place, where home is a home and not a room in a boarding house.

Then a wonderful thing happened to the tired little city girl. A fairy tale came true. Somebody in the country wanted a young girl—a nice girl, who loved the country, and who would promise to love a nice old lady and gentleman, and be an affectionate companion to them. And just like a fairy tale, there was a fortune at the end of it. The nice old couple would give the nice girl $10,000 if she remained with them as long as they lived.

Mary Alice went at once to Mark Crawford of the federal employment office, the man who had put the story in the paper, and told him she wanted to go to the country and be a companion to the old lady and gentleman who wanted someone to love them.

But the employment bureau man had 2,000 other requests from tired city girls who wanted to go to the country. It took Agent Crawford a long time to decide who should be a "daughter" to the civil war veteran, James W. Pankhurst, and his wife, the McHenry county farmers, who started a furor among city girls when they began their search for "some nice girl who will love us and inherit our money when we die."

But when "Uncle Jimmy" and "Aunt Louisa" Pankhurst heard about Mary Alice her golden hair, her blue eyes, her gentle manner and her sweetness, they decided without ever seeing her at all that she was exactly the daughter they wanted.

Now it's all settled. Mary Alice will pack her trunk, the same trunk she packed four years ago when she left her home in Wisconsin and started to win her way in the big city. She'll have no one to say good-bye to in Chicago, for Mary Alice has no relatives in the city; she has very few friends.

But will Mary Alice, the tired little city girl, love the country after all? That's what the girls in the office are asking her. Will she like to give up the picture shows, the dances, the nice young "city men"—and will she really like to get up early in the morning? Will she like the country folks? Will she like to live in an old-fashioned farm house? Will she like to live all of the time with "Uncle Jimmy" and "Aunt Louisa?"

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Girls From Joyland" at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday.

Billy Gilbert and Bobby Vail, German comedians of the Webber and Fields type, are the principal funmakers with "The Girls From Joyland," which comes to the Majestic theater for a two days' engagement, commencing Wednesday evening, with a special ladies matinee Thursday. It is said that their every move is the signal of hearty laughter.

Joe Lyons, better known as America's best soft shoe dancer, is another valued member. George Thurston, the well known minstrel ballad singer, will render several new ballads in his own inimitable style. A. M. Zinn, the well known Pacific coast producer, wrote the two comedies called "Midnight Follies" and "A Night in a Barnum" used to display the laugh-provoking antics of the principals. Miss Venita Gray staged the dancing numbers, which promises to be something new in dance evolutions. A special feature will be a reproduction of the famous painting of the "Fall of Babylon," in which twenty-four hand-some girls will be seen.

A DRAMA OF PARTS.

Paycon Players Presenting Tense Story at Temple.

In "The Penalty," the Paycon Players this week are presenting a tense drama of parts. It is a story that grips one's interest, through the unusual theme as well as the splendid manner in which the lines are handled by the Fort Wayne's favorite company. The drama escapes being "wordy" or "talky," a fault that so commonly is encountered in plays of its character. The theme is one that will might have given Kipling his excuse for his recent poem, "The Female of the Species," it is a striking presentment of the pow-

Blanche Sweet's Greater Honors in "The Secret Orchard," at Jefferson.

Blanche Sweet is one of the rare personalities among photo-drama players who refuses to be satisfied with her work of the moment or to recognize any limitations of her talent. The fact has been brought home again and again to the directors in the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play company, at Hollywood, Cal., where Miss Sweet is appearing exclusively for a term of years in Lasky productions. The rise to fame of this beautiful star is a tribute to youthful ambition. She is said to have attained her highest mark as an actress in her newest role, Diane, in "The Secret Orchard," from the play by Channing Pollock, founded on the novel of the same name by Agnes and Egerton Castle, as the heroine, Miss Sweet interprets a role of intricate psychology. It is her fifth starring venture in a Lasky production.

Tomorrow and Wednesday Elsie Janis, acknowledged to be one of the greatest mimics and entertainers on the American stage, besides being an operatic singer and a dancer of no mean ability, comes to the Jefferson in "Scurly a Lady," a blithe, merry comedy-romance.

PREPARING VEGETABLES

BY EDNA EGAN.

URING for summer vegetables and fruits after they come into our kitchens is something very much akin to art. In the days when the trip from the garden to the kitchen was accomplished in a few moments there was no time to wilt and wither, but now when the history of the journey of our food supplies reads like the itinerary of a tour, we realize that foods, such as vegetables and fruits, arrive in a critical state of health and should be cared for most tenderly.

Just as soon as possible after the arrival of the grocer's boy or the expressman (if we have attained to that degree of wisdom which dictates hampers straight from the farm), the vegetables and fruits should be put away in a cool place, which means the ice-box in all city homes.

Lettuce may be separated, washed, wrapped in oiled paper, and laid close to the ice. This insures a crisp, delicious salad.

Vegetables should never be soaked in salt water for freshening purposes, for the salt acts directly upon the vegetable minerals, drawing them out and leaving a wilted, savorless mass as a result.

"Cucumbers, for example, when fresh and crisp are perfectly digestible; by soaking in salt water they attain the general resistibility of automobile tires, and cannot be called a perfect food for weak stomachs.

The rooty plants, such as beets, turnips and carrots, should not be skinned until near the time of use. We often see the grocer twist the long leafy stems off and toss them to one side. Don't let him do it. The stem holds the juice, and when they are torn away the mangled vegetable "bleeds" and loses flavor; and also beet-tops make very good greens.

Green corn spoils very quickly, and should be used as soon as possible after purchasing. Do not prepare the corn by taking off the protective jacket, or husk, hours before cooking.

Corn soaks twice as rapidly once the husk is removed, and it cannot be freshened by soaking in cold water, as some people seem to imagine; when corn loses its sweetness it is because a chemical change in the sugar constituent has caused fermentation in the grain, and from that instant corn is a useless vegetable.

Peas likewise should not be shelled and allowed to stand, either in or out of water, hours before cooking. We who can experience the joy of going out into our own gardens and picking the early June peas have no realization of the delicious, melting sweetness of the delectable little vegetable. But we may make up in small part for the flavor, which is too fleeting, by putting a couple of spoonfuls of sugar into the water. But do not boil peas furiously—let them simmer.

Tomatoes should be taken from the bag, and laid out separately. The delicate skins are easily bruised by contact, and they rot very quickly when once cracked or broken.

Little green onions should be wrapped in oiled paper, for they bring anything but the "perfume of Araby" to your sweet-smelling icebox.

EVERY woman who has a piano likes to keep it in good condition. Even the cheapest piano costs a great deal of money and a high-priced one is worth a small fortune. Yet the average woman knows little or nothing about the real care of a piano. She is surprised when the tone grows flat and unmusical and if she were told that this was due to her own negligence she would probably wax highly indignant. In most cases the piano owner gives her instrument the best care of which she is capable, but ignorance on the subject is in nine cases out of ten to blame for the piano's ruin.

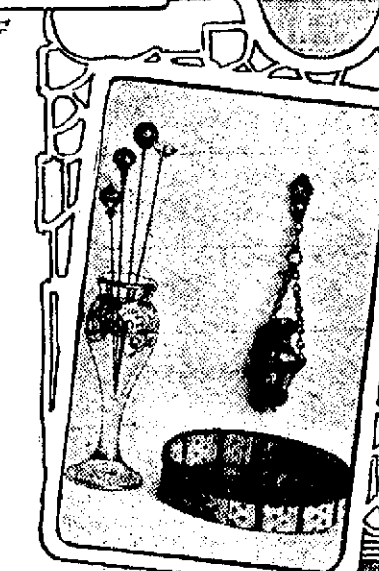

If you have an upright piano see that a dust cloth of denim or some other dust-proof material is tacked or pasted over the back of the instrument. This is especially important at this time of the year, when the windows are kept open and there is so much dust from the streets. Great harm is done to the fine felt on the hammers of the keys by the entrance of much dust. The dirt clings to the felt and consequently when the hammer strikes the string the tone is muffled and far from clear.

When there is much rain or the weather is very damp and moist the piano should be covered with a water-proof cloth. These moisture-proof covers to fit the piano can be bought at any store which sells musical instruments. If you are going away for the summer be sure to lock the keyboard and to put the cover on before you go.

Peas likewise should not be shelled and allowed to stand, either in or out of water, hours before cooking. We who can experience the joy of going out into our own gardens and picking the early June peas have no realization of the delicious, melting sweetness of the delectable little vegetable. But we may make up in small part for the flavor, which is too fleeting, by putting a couple of spoonfuls of sugar into the water. But do not boil peas furiously—let them simmer.

NEW STYLE OF POWDER BOX

DIET TO REDUCE FLESH

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

WOMAN who wants to reduce must keep careful watch over the pleasures of the palate. Not for her the rich, strongly seasoned dishes, the delectable pastries, the dainty desserts in which sugar and whipped cream play an important part. Coming down to common fare, she must not eat bread, butter, potatoes, cakes and syrup, or any of the products of the pig. She must close the candy box for the summer.

"All the things that I like most I am not allowed to eat," the fat woman is perhaps likely to moan after reading this list of must-nots. But even from the point of view of the gourmand, ought most of the articles mentioned to be featured prominently in summer menus?

Even if she is not trying to reduce, the woman with a really cultivated taste will prefer to live chiefly upon green vegetables, fruits and lean meats during the period of warm weather. Such a diet, in its simplicity and in the fact that it puts no undue strain upon the digestive organs will cause the person who chooses it to suffer less from high temperature than does the man or woman who eats richer food. Gastronomically speaking, this is the best time in the year to win the fight against flesh.

The question of what the stout woman should drink deserves a paragraph to itself. She should unquestionably avoid all alcoholic liquors, milk, cream, eggs and chocolate. She is better off without either tea or coffee, although, if she feels she must have it, she may drink one cup of coffee in the morning without cream or sugar. She should drink as little water as possible. One of the best beverages for her is buttermilk, which nourishes without forming fat. Another excellent drink is the juice of a lemon dissolved in a glass of cool water without sugar. Orange juice is also excellent.

If you are really in earnest about it, the first sacrifice to make is your luncheon. Take no food at all between breakfast and dinner. I am assuming that you still stick to three meals a day and have not taken on the fashionable addition of afternoon tea and after-theater supper, both of which functions should be omitted by the woman who wants to grow thin.

I think you will find as many persons have already done, that it is easy to acquire the habit of doing without lunch. Nearly all of us eat more food than we need, especially those of us who live in cities and do not occupy ourselves with severe manual labor outdoors. The woman tiller of the fields can doubtless assimilate her three solid meals daily, but not the woman tender of the gas stove or of the typewriter.

SELECTING A CORSAGE BOUQUET

FROM FASHIONDOM

New and Snappy Ideas Depicted In the Coming Styles.

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

THE best dressmakers state emphatically that exaggerated short skirts will not be considered correct when the autumn models are introduced. Just now our young and pretty girls are pushing the craze for short skirts to the utmost limit, but even now these ultra-remarkable models are regarded with suspicion by women of good taste. A little shorter than ankle length—this is the latest dictate.

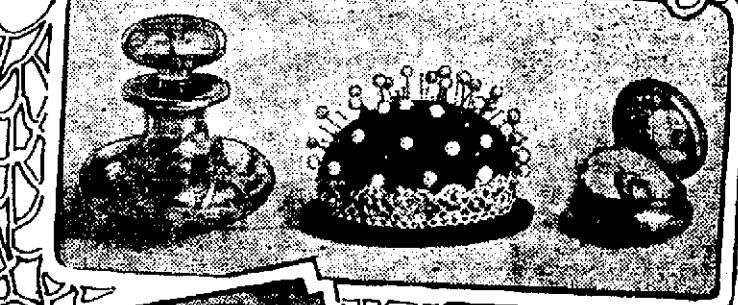

For dressy gowns the Parisian artists are designing quaint models in plain and striped taffetas, which recall the fashions of those brilliant days when the Empress Eugenie held court at the Tuilleries. These skirts are round, full, but not remarkably short. They are about the length of the fascinating costumes which used to be worn by skirt dancers. A model of this order which pleased me very much was made of raven's wing blue and white striped taffetas mixed with plain silk of dark blue shade. The round skirt was finely gathered at the waist, and the hem was in the striped material. Just above this hem, which was almost sixteen inches wide, there was a deep band of dark blue silk arranged in wide tufts which ran around the figure. Then there was a length of striped silk which reached to the waist. The corsage was of the cross-over order with very short sleeves, and there was a blouse of ivory-white organdie, which had a very high Directoire collar caught in at the throat by a band of black velvet ribbon. The dress was finished by a wide, very soft sash made of japonica pink crepe de chine; the ends of this sash were embroidered in dark blue flow silks.

Buttons are in great demand. Large shipments from foreign button makers have not been received in this country because of the war, and American button manufacturers have stepped into the emergency and made domestic buttons to suit the most fastidious taste. Dressmakers use them for trimming in a thousand different ways. There are self-covered buttons on suits and coats. There are jet and steel and enamel buttons. There are fancy silk and velvet buttons and many other kinds.

The Paris hats of today are almost exaggeratedly simple in detail. Many of the newest and best hats and

FOOTWEAR

ALL the smart boots, pumps and slippers, even the duck and canvas shoes for sport wear, show the long, slender lines now considered distinguished, and short vamp footwear is worn only by women whose structure of foot demands this type of shoe and who cannot be comfortable in the long slender boot or pump, and so patrician and elegant does it make the foot appear that its length is really a feature in its favor.

Notwithstanding the vast array of fanciful new pumps and slippers displayed everywhere, the buttoned boot remains the last word in correctness for formal occasions when strict attire is worn. The new buttoned boots for summer and autumn are daily and aluring with their light, flexible soles, high heels and tops of contrasting kid or cloth in trim fitting gaiter effect.

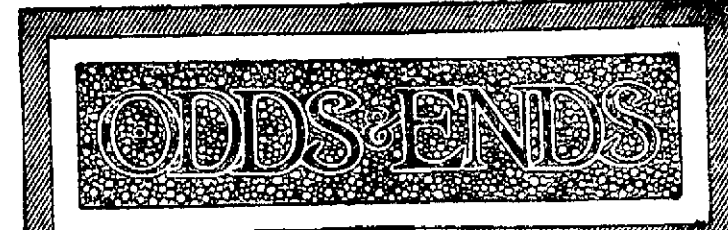

Black silk beaver—like that on a man's tall hat—is very much used by one or two leading milliners in Paris. It is successfully combined with white faille and also with Belgian blue satin straw. A novel and expensive toque which was designed in a famous atelier was made of fine satin straw in the Belgian blue shade and the top of the domed crown was covered with black silk beaver. There was a wide band of black watered ribbon round this crown and at the left side, rather low down, a cluster of mixed flowers, heliotrope, blue, hyacinths, Banksia roses and maidenhair fern. It was a lovely little affair, quite poetic in its soft, yet rich coloring.

Very gradually the waist line is rising, and we may hope that before long it will go just high enough to be nearly Directoire, and that then we shall have the straight-falling skirt as it is seen in classic studies. Nothing suits a woman's figure quite so well as these slightly full, clinging draperies, and for all the puffs and flounces which are shown us in the new models the dressmakers are nearly always willing to modify them until they become simple and modest, not vanity stricken and garrulous. Navy blue is the predominant color, but light crepons are rapidly coming into favor, now that the sunshine is making cloth a burden in the heart of the day. Very delicate blues, a pink that is merely a faint blush on a maiden's cheek, a yellow which can be worn with a good deal of white, and a biscuit color which is almost cream, are being offered to us most temptingly.

The only bizarre note of the day in fashion comes with the shoes. They are lamentable as we see them in the avenues and streets. The heels are so high that the figure of the women who wear them is positively ridiculous and the colored clothes which are used to make them are so striking as completely to extinguish the importance of any other part of the costume. Green, violet, bright yellow, blue, anything vivid, seems to have called on the imagination of the boot-makers and their "clients." Fortunately the best bootmakers look askance at such fantastic things, and they make all things in moderation.

ODDS & ENDS

IF necessary silver for a bride is: Four sets of spoons, which includes soup, dessert, tea, and after dinner coffee; butter knives; four sets of forks, including oyster forks, and two sets of steel knives with silver handles. If the carving is to be done on the table, two sets of carvers will be needed. The newest and prettiest chest to hold these comes without drawers now, and the silver is arranged in piles, with the two sets of knives spread in the cover of the box—the whole lined with soft ooze leather.

SHOES should be kept well oiled in damp weather, and if wet should be dried slowly, lest they warp or shrink. The method of occasionally rubbing over kid shoes with castor oil is adopted by some people. One of the best methods of rendering new boots impervious to damp is that of varnishing the soles. Three or four coatings should be applied in succession, while the whole surface of the leather composing the uppers should be rubbed over with a cut lemon, the latter precaution insuring a good polish at the outset, always somewhat of a difficulty where new footwear is concerned.

PUT more into your guestroom than the furniture, ornaments and plainest necessities. If a note is to be hastily written before the arrival of the truck with its stock of stationery, what could more pleasantly greet the eye of your guest than a neat desk, furnished thoughtfully with whatever is needed—pens, paper, ink and envelopes, sealing wax and stamps? A work basket is always apropos in every well-cared-for room for one's guests, as many who would come to tarry with you for a day or two would not provide themselves with any sewing outfit. The dropping off of a button or tape, a rip or tear—these are accidents of a day. Kind acts and thoughts as manifested in these small attentions are as great a welcome as words.

IN making shoe trees from old stockings filled with bran, as is the habit of the economical, there should be enough of the stocking left on to allow the bran to be pushed up as the form is being put in. Otherwise, especially if the shoe is at all damp, it will be almost impossible to manipulate it.

THE KITCHEN

Salmon Pie.

Take one can of salmon steak, free from skin and bone, shred into small pieces with a fork and season with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Butter a shallow baking dish and spread over the bottom a layer of hot mashed potatoes; put the fish on this, moisten with a little milk, and cover with another layer of potatoes. Put little chunk of butter on top. Bake the pie until it is quite hot and the surface browned. Serve in the dish in which it is baked. It is an appetizing and inexpensive dish.

German Sand Tarts.

Ten eggs, two cupfuls of sugar powdered, one-half pound butter, 10 cents' worth of sweet almonds, one ounce bitter almonds, one teaspoonful each of orange and lemon flavoring, one pound potato flour, one teaspoonful baking powder. Blanch and grate the almonds, beat the yolks of the eggs and butter to a cream, add sugar and beat for ten minutes; add almonds and potato flour and beat thoroughly. Beat white of eggs to a stiff froth and fold in with one teaspoonful baking powder, then add flavoring. Bake in a fairly hot oven. The above is enough for two good sized cakes.

Maple Sugar Frosting.

Boil one cup of maple sugar and one-third of a cup of water until it boils, then pour very slowly over the beaten white of one egg, stirring the egg constantly; then beat with spoon until hard enough to spread. If it seems too stiff add a little cold water, half cup of buttermilk, or walnut meats added is an improvement to those fond of nuts.

Invall's Biscuits.

Melt 3/4-pound butter in a pint of new milk, and pour it over 3/4-pound white sugar. When cool put in a dessertspoon of yeast and one of caraway seeds, add flour sufficient to make it into a stiff paste. Roll thin, prick with fork, cut into shapes and bake.

the thickness of cream. Pour a teaspoonful of butter on the reverse side of a large baking pan, slightly greased, and with back of spoon spread it until it is about four inches in diameter and almost as thin as in diameter. Bake in a moderate oven until brown and white still warm roll around a curling stick.

Tapioea Cream.

Three tablespoons tapioea in water to cover, soak four hours, pour off the water and put in one quart of milk, set over the fire and when it boils stir in the yolks of three eggs, add a little salt, when it begins to thicken, remove from the fire, let it cool, flavor with vanilla. Make a frosting of the whites. Make very stiff, add a little sugar and pile it lightly on the custard.

Dutch Onion Pie.

Slice six onions, fry in butter to delicate brown, add one-half cupful of milk, one-half cupful of cream, one tablespoonful flour, one well beaten egg; salt to taste. Have ready a baked pie crust in the usual pie pan and pour in onion mixture. Return to oven and bake to good brown. White of egg may be added to top.

Cream of Chicken and Celery.

Melt half a pound of butter, add half a cup of finely chopped celery. Cook well, pour in one and a half cups of milk and thicken with a tablespoon of flour mixed to a smooth paste with cold milk. Season with salt and pepper, and when it thickens add one and a half cups cold boiled chicken cut in dice.

Lemon Rice Pudding.

Boil three cups rice, add yolks of three eggs, four tablespoons sugar, pinch of salt, small piece of butter, grated rind of one large lemon, milk to make very moist. Bake 45 minutes. Beat whites of three eggs well and add one cup sugar, flavor with lemon, spread over pudding and brown. This is delicious.

THE SENTINEL'S LIVE SPORTS CRISP RELIABLE

RELIABLE RED AINSWORTH WINS

Hart Given No Support and Drops First Game to Evas.

Pep and enthusiasm were lacking behind Red Hart in the first half of Sunday's double bill with Evansville, and the Cubs dropped it 5 and 1, but there was everything in the world in the crowd when they stacked up behind Red Ainsworth for the second tilt, and the down-staters were routed 8 and 4.

Reliable Red was there as usual, and his performance yesterday was merely a finishing touch on his demonstration that he is the best pitcher in the league. He has something in his play that makes the boys behind him buckle down to work for him, and is the very best in the organization. He never does spectacular work, and never works and slumps in spurts, but is there steadily, consistent, unbeatable.

The Cubs looked like a gang of kids just out of the sand lots in the first game, although Beyer and Holderman in the field and Brant, Sheehan and Hartie at the stick showed signs of class.

Hart worked hard and well, but didn't seem to get anywhere, and it must be said that on a number of occasions it was he who was stopped rather than that looked mighty bad.

Big Osborne, playing right field with a hand so badly smashed he won't allow it to be shaken, was the star of the second stanza. He hit three times in three times up, made five beautiful hits, and actually, believe it or not, stole a base. Two of the eight runs scored were his. The big sunshine fellow made a tremendous hit with the fans and got a hand every time he moved.

With Hartie out in the first inning of the second game, Brant singled and went to third on Sheehan's long hit and Holderman scored two with his single to left. Osborne beat out a hit in the second, after Brant went out, and went to second when Ainsworth singled, Hartie sacrificing and both runners scoring on Brant's single.

Osborne again started things in the fourth with a single, coming home on Ainsworth's sacrifice and Hartie's single. But the fifth was the big inning, Brant singling with a man on third and sending him home, and Beyer's slapping out a beauty that scored two more.

May it be said that Evansville is mighty hard to please in the matter of umpires if Bo Slear worked half way as well there as he did here. He showed class Sunday that it is hard to duplicate in a junior league, and although there was an occasional squabble from the stands, the vast majority of the 2,000 spectators were mighty well pleased with his work. Score first game:

200 MEN, WOMEN, BOYS AND GIRLS SHOW ARCHERY IS NOT DEAD SPORT.

BASEBALL 419 1/2 FEET
GOLF 1050 FEET
ARCHERY 1386 FT. 9 IN

ARCHERY IS A SPORT IN WHICH NEITHER AGE NOR SEX IS A HANDICAP. THE PHOTOS SHOW DR. ROBERT BLUMER, OF WAYNE, PA., NATIONAL CHAMPION, AND MARY WILLIAMS, 15, OF CHICAGO, ENTRANTS IN THE NATIONAL TOURNAMENT.

Archery is an amateur sport pure and simple, one of the big features being that the lovers of the bow and arrow game pay their own freight. And they travel from Boston, Mass., Central City, Iowa, Topeka, Kan., and even greater distances to take part in tournaments.

The contestants do not shoot for cash prizes that would cover expenses, but for cups, medals and the love of the sport.

An idea of the driving power of the bow is shown by a comparison of the distance an arrow can be shot, a golf ball or baseball driven.

The longest archery shot ever made in this country in public was 570 feet, but in a tournament at La Touquet, France, last year Ingo Simon, an expert, sent an arrow 1,356 feet 9 inches. He used a Turkish composite bow made of wood, horn and sinew.

Three hundred and fifty yards, or 1,050 feet, is a cracking good golf drive and the record for hitting a baseball is 419 1/2 feet, set by Ed Walsh, the big pitcher of the Chicago White Sox.

Woodland Nymph Wearing Lacy Cap and Happy Smile is Caught at Last

Modern Eve Hides in Bushes While All the Men Quit Their Jobs to Hunt Her.

Sparta, Wis., Aug. 16.—The chase is over!

Sparta's farmers have returned to their fields. Sparta's smiths are busy at their anvils again. Sparta's nymph-dance of the horseblanket and the lacy breakfast cap is a captive.

Sparta's hunt for the woodland nymph was some exciting hunt—take it from one who has seen some game sport. Prairie chicken was about the biggest game ever bagged around Sparta until the nymph, the sprite that dressed like Eve and acted like the dickens, called forth the huntsmen.

It was a farmer's boy who two weeks ago brought to town the tale of the nymph—the young lady who "had nothing at all on but a lace cap with a ribbon on it." She was always dodging behind the bushes, he said. Then a fisherman saw her; then the young men of Sparta began taking vacation trips to that neck of the woods. Everybody was interested. They'd just like to know if that lad wasn't telling whoppers. Wives spent long evenings alone; business was almost at a standstill; valiant men vowed they would see to it that Sparta was rid of that tarnation nymph running around all alone in the woods.

Sheriff George Boss was summoned, or at least he broke into the chase. He would have called a posse, but he didn't need to, the posse was right there with the charge into the verdant grove where the elusive sprite, garbed only in a lacy cap, worshipped at the shrine of nature.

Humane Agent George Manuel seemed to think he belonged in the posse, too, and joined the sheriff.

It was some chase before the posse caught that nymph. She traveled light; no tube skirts to halt her speed; she climbed trees and swam creeks; a wisp of golden hair would lure the hunters on; the glimpse of a snow white figure flitting through the trees made the chase good, and the hunt worth while. One day didn't end the hunt. Daily for a week Sparta forgot to toil in fields and shops. Monroe county was scoured from end to end before the hiding place of the swift-footed damsel was discovered. And then Sheriff Boss put one over on the posse. He was right there with a horse blanket, brought along for just such an emergency. When Diana's retreat in a sylvan glade was discovered, flop went the blanket. The nymph was brought back to town in a bundle.

Who is she? Nymphs never talk. Until she tells who she is and where she comes from the sheriff's wife will do the best she can to make the Sparta lockup as comfortable for her nymphship as the verdant groves of Monroe county.

LIVING WAGE IS IMPOSSIBLE

Standard Oil is Played in Report on Strike at Bayonne.

MONOPOLY SAID TO HAVE AGREEMENT

Industrial Board Quiz is Indictment of the Rockefellers.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Direct charges are made in a report by two investigators to the United States commission on industrial relations that John D. Rockefeller and the Standard Oil company not only agree with other employers to keep wages as low as possible—in fact, to a point insubstantial—but that they provide no means whereby the men may present and have heard their complaints and grievances.

George P. West and C. T. Chenery, the investigators, turned in these findings on the Bayonne, N. J., strike Saturday, just before the commission held its last session.

Employees of the commission will collect the printed reports agreed upon and forward them to the clerk of the house of representatives Aug. 23.

The West-Chenery report, next to that by Mr. West on the Colorado mine war, is regarded as the most direct and sensational declaration contained in the documents which will be sent to congress by the commission.

Allegations in Report.

After declaring that the facts learned are significant because they display the manner in which the largest estate in the world, that of Mr. Rockefeller, controls its industry through its enormous power, Mr. West and Mr. Chenery make these statements as findings of the fact:

1. The Standard Oil company of New Jersey, although conducting an enormously profitable enterprise, pays wages too low to maintain a family on a comfortable, healthful and a decent basis.

2. It fixes wages not with relation to the earnings of the company, but by taking into consideration wages paid by other companies in the same locality and then fixing the wage as low or lower than the prevailing wage in that locality.

3. In its plants at Bayonne the company maintains what General Manager Gifford described as "almost navy-yard discipline." The employees, most of whom are Poles or Lithuanians, are regarded as incapable of enjoying the benefits of a democratic organization of the labor force, and as requiring a very firm control.

4. The company maintains a settled policy of refusing to deal with any labor organization or "professional labor man," and even refuses to permit those employees who cannot speak English intelligibly to engage an attorney as their spokesman or representative. The men are made to understand that they must seek no outside assistance in their dealings with the management, and that any show of independence or any hint of compulsion will be vigorously resisted.

5. As a substitute for permitting its men to organize and to enjoy the benefits of affiliation with a strong labor organization, the company has instituted no machinery by which real or fancied grievances may be adjusted peaceably and promptly. The employees allege they would be discharged before reaching the superintendent's office if they complained.

6. General Manager Gifford is not a believer in child labor legislation and, on the other hand, thinks that children should be allowed to go to work earlier. He and General Superintendent Hennessy apparently have little respect for the foreign-born men whose labor produces the company's earnings.

UNCLE SAM'S NOTE IS FIRM

Flat Denial of Contentment of Austria as to Sale of Munitions.

AMERICAN POSITION IS FULLY UPHELD

Washington Hints That in War This Land Might Buy of Neutrals.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The United States in a note to Austria-Hungary published today firmly but politely declines to accede to the request of the Vienna government that the export of arms to the allies be stopped.

The communication is in reply to the recent Austrian protest that the United States in permitting the export of arms to Austria's enemies was violating the "spirit" of neutrality. The American note is a flat denial of that contention and vigorously upholds the right of the United States under international law to export war munitions.

Position of United States.

In justification of its position, the United States recites among other things that international law, the practice of nations, the security of the United States and other nations without large military or naval establishments or neutrality itself are opposed to prohibiting the export of war munitions by a neutral to a belligerent in time of war.

The United States contends that it cannot deny to the others the right which it claims for itself to purchase war munitions from a neutral in event of a foreign attack.

Might Have to Buy.

In this connection the United States hints that it might have to buy from neutrals if attacked. The note recites the fact that Austria-Hungary and Germany supplied munitions of war to Great Britain during the war when England's enemies could not import such supplies and a statistical table of such sales is appended. It suggests that had Austria and Germany refused to sell arms to Great Britain at that time "on the ground that to do so would violate the spirit of strict neutrality" those countries might with "greater consistency and greater force urge their present contention."

Hoboken Board of Education Starts School on Ships.

New York, Aug. 16.—The Hoboken board of education has gone to the aid of the officers of the German merchant vessels tied up at the Hoboken docks, since the beginning of the war and relieved the monotony of life for several thousand idle men aboard four ships. Classes have been started for the study of the English language, geography and American history and literature. Hoboken teachers have given their services free of charge.

An outlet for the energy of the German sailors and stewards has been furnished also by the establishment of three singing clubs which hold prize contests once a week. The large promenade decks of the Vaterland and of the George Washington have been converted into fencing floors where the men receive instructions in the use of a foil and rapier.

LOCAL DELEGATES AT STATE ENCAMPMENT

Fort Wayne is well represented at the annual encampment of the Uniform Rank of the Knights and Ladies of the Wood in session at Huntington this week. An interesting program has been arranged. On Tuesday afternoon a grand protectors' review will be held at the fair grounds, and in the evening there will be competitive drills in the city armory. The big parade will be held on Wednesday, followed by a military ball in the evening. Camp will be broken on Thursday.

The Waning Summer Sun Now Casts Reflections of The Coming Fashions of Fall

TO THOSE who have visited this store during the past few days has been given a delightful glimpse into the incoming fall fashions. They have seen the ephemeral fancies of summer change into the more substantial modes of autumn.

Day by day these new things have been coming in until now, almost before we knew it, Autumn (so far as merchandise is concerned) is upon us.

Every woman who is interested in styles for the coming season is invited to see these new things. You will note the suits are fitted at the waist, "nipped-in" at the waist line and smartly flaring at the lower edge. Sensibility still dwells in skirts and they remain reasonably short though possibly not so flaring as became the lighter fabrics of Summer.

They are being bought, too, right now by women going West, and by young girls getting the clothes equipment for college.

EX-MAYOR SEIDEL SPEAKS AT PICNIC

Declares Capitalist System is a System of Exploitation.

Declaring that socialism is the only light through which better and nobler things can be seen, Emil Seidel, ex-mayor of Milwaukee, delivered a strong address Sunday afternoon at the annual socialist picnic at Keweenaw park.

Mr. Seidel declared that a workingman cannot become a millionaire, but the business man can. He explained that this condition is brought about by a certain economic development which the socialists propose to correct.

"The capitalist system is a system of exploitation," he continued. "They 'skinned' us with the tariff and when they couldn't 'skin' us any more with that they began to 'skin' us with free trade; when they can't use one means they use another."

The speaker attributed the present war in Europe to capitalism. "Not any one Kaiser, king, emperor or czar has caused the war," he said, "but capitalism and a bad economic system. Let us hope that the war may be a blessing in disguise and that some good will result from it despite all the bad results. The people in Europe who can develop the social forces of the nation strongest are going to win the war. There is no getting away from that."

Kerry Speaks.

William H. Henry, state secretary and member of the law firm of Blasingham, Henry & Co., of Indianapolis, was the principal speaker Sunday evening. He declared that the socialist party in Indiana was in better condition today than ever before and during the last month he had noted a wonderful gain in membership. Mrs. Mary Kules, of Cleveland, who was scheduled to speak, had to cancel her engagement.

The picnic was pronounced a success with over 3,000 people in attendance. Announcement was made that the Ninth branch would hold a picnic at Lawton park Sunday, August 29.

INVENTS DEVICE TO REPEL SUBMARINES

Paris, Aug. 16.—A device invented by the Italian engineer Quini, which makes it possible to drive torpedoes out of their course and explodes them, has satisfied tests, says a special dispatch from Rome, and arrangements are being made to supply the device to the allied fleets.

ANNAPOLIS MIDDIES FIRED FOR CRIBBING

Two Dismissed and Twelve
Disciplined in the Late Scandal.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Dismissal of two midshipmen and the disciplining of twelve others for alleged "cribbing" at the United States naval academy, are revealed today as a result of the findings of the court of inquiry, which investigated irregularities in examinations and recitations at the academy.

The midshipmen dismissed with the approval of President Wilson were Ralph M. Nelson, jr., of Peekskill, N. Y., and Charles M. Reagle, of Wellsville, Ohio. The court's recommendations that others be disciplined were approved by Secretary Daniels. Drastic changes in the conduct of examinations are recommended by the court in a unanimous report of its inquiry begun in June. Abolition of the practice of giving out "dope" or advanced information, unless heads of departments issue it by memoranda, and less rigorous examinations are the principal recommendations.

NEW COMPANY WILL OPEN OFFICES HERE

Edwin M. McKinney, formerly of Huntington, signed a lease Saturday for a year for the second floor of the Hamilton National bank building, the rooms to be used as the general offices of a new traction system with terminals at Marion, Ind., and Akron, O., which Fred A. Dolph, the Chicago financier, is promoting. The company is to be known as the "Indiana and Ohio Traction" and the proposed new system will be 420 miles in length, the longest in the United States. The engineering department is in charge of the J. G. White company, of New York. Mr. McKinney announced that the various roads affected in the consolidation would be made public in a few days. It is known that the C. & O., from Huntington to Portland, and the Fort Wayne and Springfield, from Fort Wayne to Decatur, are included.

A Rome-Loving Monarch in Moloch's Grasp

Victor Emmanuel, Italy's King,
Prefers Taking Pictures of His Children and Peaceful Scenes But
Is Forced Into War—Recognized
As One of the Ablest Strategists
of Europe He Now Has His Army
Battering At the Alpien Passes
Which Lead to the Austrian Plains

The fingers of Moloch, stained with the blood of Europe's sons, reached forth across the Adriatic, and, lifting the King of Italy from his throne, set him down among his fellow monarchs in the seething caldron of war. He surveyed the situation critically, and then unsheathed his sword.

Somewhat it seems quite natural for us to think of the German kaiser being at the front, or the Czar of Russia, or the King of England. Nicholas of Montenegro and Peter of Serbia do not seem out of place at the head of their troops, away from their families, for rulers have led armies to battle down through the pages of history. But it is hard to reconcile Victor Emmanuel in the role of a soldier, in the role of anything but a peaceful monarch, a loving husband, a proud father.

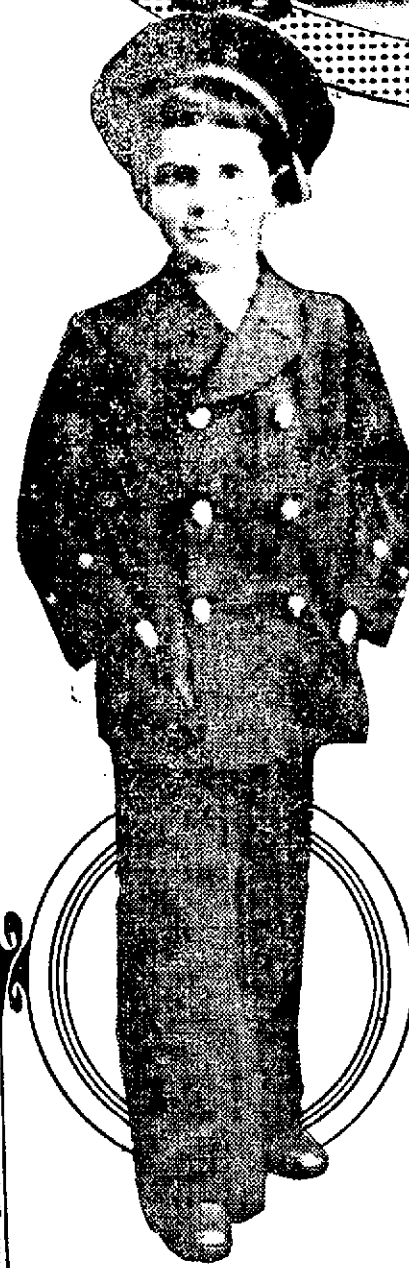

King Victor Emmanuel is the idol of his people because he believes in democracy. He rules to serve his people, not to command them. Their aspirations and wishes are his—their needs are his needs. Whether in the north, as in Milan, or in the south, as in Rome and Naples, the people speak of him with the same enthusiasm and genuine love.

This is true of his subjects in all walks of life, though he means more to his army. He likes to fraternize with his soldiers and listen to their stories and their experiences. Though a firm believer in peace, he likewise is a firm believer in preparedness—and is recognized as one of the ablest strategists of Europe. The king has assumed supreme command of the army and navy forces of his country, which will necessitate his being away from his family the greater part of the time. And it is of this ideal family life that I wish to tell you.

WEDS FAMOUS BEAUTY.

It was in Venice that Victor Emmanuel, then the crown prince of Italy, met his future wife, Elena, a Montenegrin princess. She was there with her mother and her sister, and she dazzled everybody by her rich beauty, accentuated by her brilliant dark eyes and jet black hair. The young prince was charmed by her neat, girlish figure and her vivacious manner.

Victor Emmanuel and the princess were married in Naples. It was with some trepidation that the latter went to Rome to make her debut at the Quirinal. She knew that every one, including the king and queen and suite at court, would be eager to note how a modest Montenegrin girl would conduct herself at the brilliant court of Rome. Crown Princess Elena won them to her immediately by her beauty and unaffected manner. Nature and outdoor life meant more to her than rich palaces and costly jewels.

So began the married life of Victor Emmanuel and his consort. They are no less sweethearts today than when they first heeded the call of love. Both are devotedly fond of their children.

The king is a camera fiend and in times less strenuous than these may be seen walking in his gardens at Rome or at one of his country estates, carrying a camera in one hand and leading one of his children with the other. He spends a great deal of his time posing them into attractive groups. He especially likes to photograph them when riding their ponies.

One day he was found in wild excitement in the park of the royal palace at Rocconigi. For a moment the queen, who was watching the king and the children from a distance, was at a loss to know what had happened. When she came up she found that the king was merely elated over his success in making an attractive picture of Prince Humbert leading a pony belonging to Baby Jolando.

Another favorite pastime of Italy's ruler is to teach his children to mount and ride. Long before they were able to manage the reins he put them into a wicker basket and strapped them into the seat while he led the pony and the young charges around the park.

FAVORS MILITARY TRAINING.

The king began his military training on reaching his teens. He was educated under Colonel Osoio, who taught him the highest form of strategy. After a year's service like other Italians of rank he was given command of a regiment and rose rapidly. Then he went aboard a man-of-war and got the same broad experience.

Victor Emmanuel was a weakling, so to speak, until committed to the charge of such a strict disciplinarian as Colonel Osoio, and he is of the opinion that such a change from the nursery will be of benefit to 10-year-old Prince of Piedmont, the crown prince and Italy's future king. A year ago the prince was handed over to the guardianship of a rough and ready seaman, Frigate Captain Donaldi, to be "hardened."

He has his own suite in the Quirinal and his nurses have been dispensed with. Governesses continue to teach him foreign languages. The choice of a naval tutor-guardian is taken to mean that the heir to the throne desires to become a sailor rather than a soldier. He would be the first Italian monarch to adopt the sea.

Crown Prince Umberto is uncommonly intelligent, but willful and headstrong. His royal parents do their best to keep their children unspoiled, but Humbert is the pet of the family.

When King Victor Emmanuel took the throne he made many reforms in his government, especially of the military branch. He knew that some regiments were inefficient and lax, and accordingly he placed the blame on the officers. His way of correcting these faults was to visit the regiments unawares, and on finding a laxity in regard to rules disciplining the officers severely.

Like the king, Queen Elena is idolized by her people. She is a mother first and a queen last, and she has always seemed willing to forget her own interests when her subjects' welfare is threatened.

Often has Queen Elena gone out among the sick and suffering of Italy to administer comfort and aid—sometimes at the risk of her own life. The most memorable incident of this character occurred at the time of the Messina earthquake. As soon as she learned that the king was hurrying southward to his people she made ready to accompany him.

King Victor Emmanuel tried in vain to persuade her to remain behind. He argued that the sight might be too terrible for her to witness. "There is nothing in the world too terrible for me to see so far as my people are concerned," was her reply.

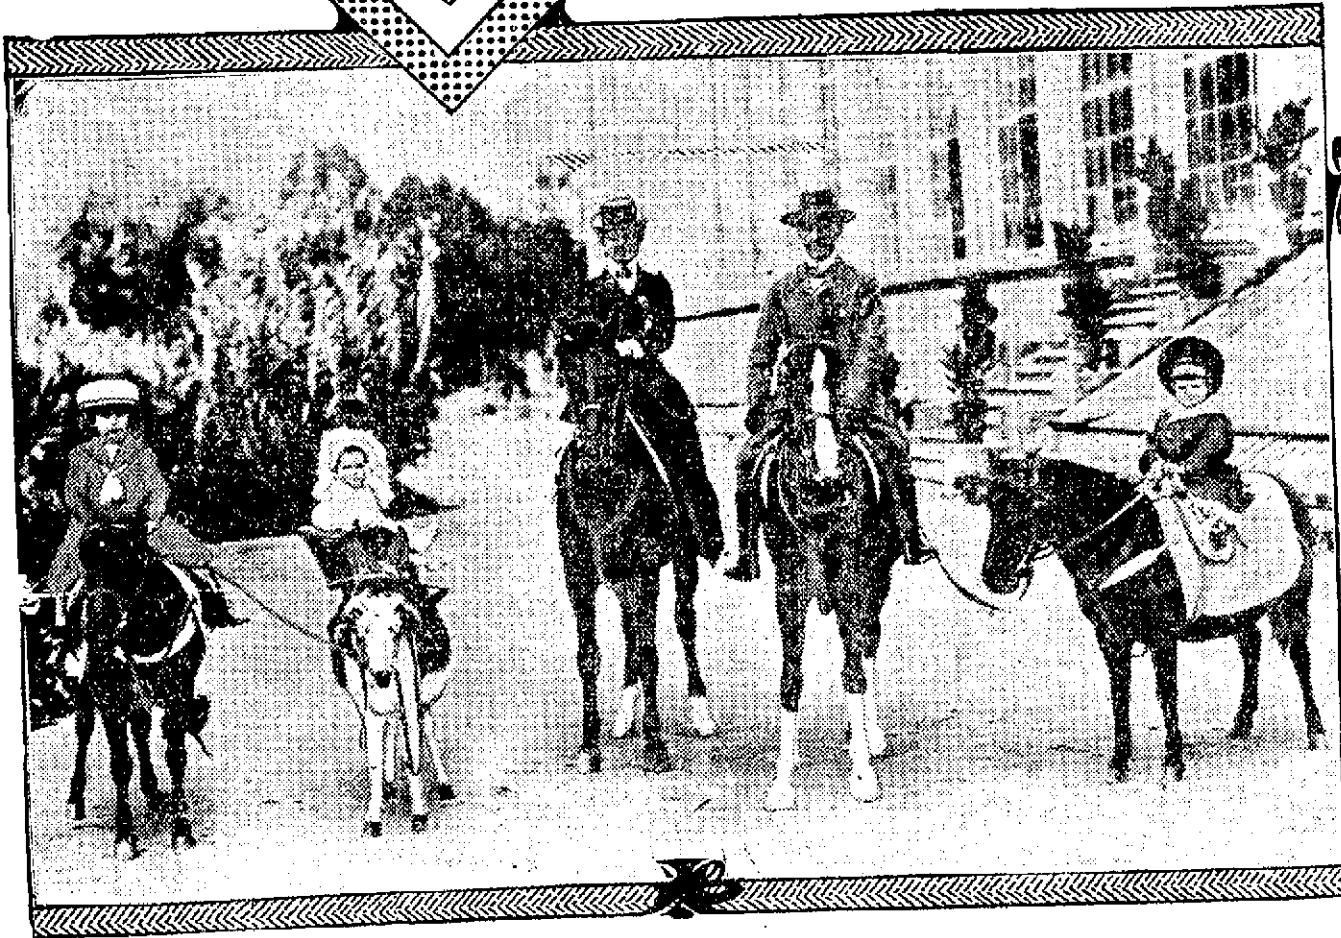

So she went to the stricken district, where she was so impatient to assist that she even gave a hand to clearing away debris. It was while engaged in this difficult and dangerous work that she suffered an injured arm, which has bothered her since. At the time she paid little or no attention to the wound, assisting the Red Cross to care for hundreds of unfortunates, many of them lifeless.

QUEEN GIVEN DECORATION.

It was not with an aim to being commended that Queen Elena undertook this hardship. She was surprised, indeed, when she was given the Legion of Honor by M. Barrere, who represented the Republic of France in Italy. He explained that if any woman had the right to enjoy such a distinction it was Queen Elena.

In times of peace and prosperity Queen Elena has helped the women and children of her country in a great many ways. She has founded creches where working mothers may leave their children while toiling, and where they may be sure of good food and attention. An investigation of the hospitals of Rome and Naples convinced Queen Elena that they were overcrowded and not segregated as they should be. She has spent no small part of her private fortune establishing hospitals for women and children.

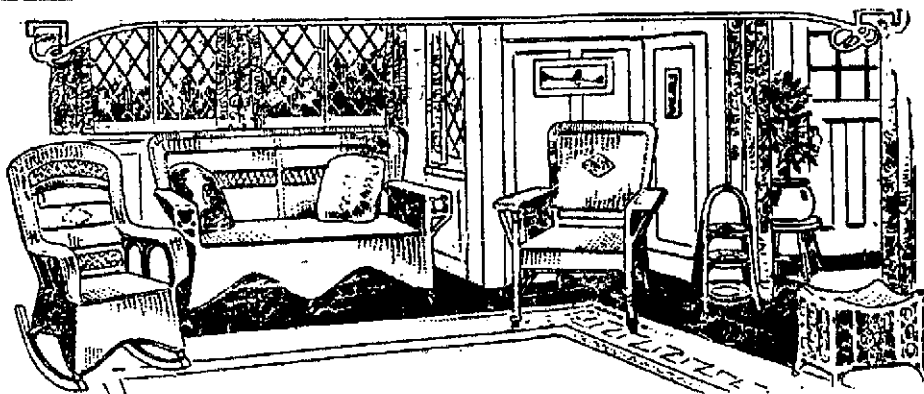

She was the first woman to found kindergartens in Italy, and when Dr. Maria Montessori commenced her experiments among the children of the tenement districts in Rome Queen Elena gave her hearty support and co-operation.

Freddy Hall Brought Victoria Cross and Pride to All Canada as He Fell Lifeless

Burton Tells Story That Thrills All Winnipeg—How Freddie Hall Sacrificed His Life for Comrade and Played the Hero on Gory Battlefield.

(By Harry Payne Burton.)
Winnipeg, Manitoba, Aug. 16.—“Greater love hath no man than this: That he lay down his life for his friend.”

I have just climbed the narrow back stairs that lead darkly to the loft of the old barn that stands at the corner of York and Main streets. Never were stairs dingier, smudgier or looser jointed. Yet they are sanctified for all time, for these stairs are the first rung of that shining ladder on which “Freddie” Hall has climbed to an undying fame carrying Winnipeg with him!

It was right here, in the little, low room at the top of that, six months ago, he wrote the words which sent him “across seas,” a member of the “first Canadian contingent” (to the defense of England).

That was the real beginning of “Freddie” Hall’s life. It was all finished today when the staff officer of the Ninetieth regiment, still in his tiny recruiting room at the top of the rickety green stairs, wrote after the name of F. M. Hall, sergeant-major, the two magic letters, V. C. That meant that to Canada, to Winnipeg, has come the greatest of all British military honors, the award of the Victoria cross!

“FREDDY” HALL

Hard Times Parade on Woman’s Day, August 18th.

The Hard Times Parade that afforded so much wholesome fun to the participants and that proved so attractive to thousands of the park’s guests last year will be repeated on Woman’s Day on Wednesday, Aug. 18th. The line-up will begin at 4 p. m. in front of the pavilion. When ready for the parade, go to the Pison building in the grove, where Miss Cora Basteus will provide each participant with a numbered tag. The tag should be worn on the left breast in full view of the judges. Prizes will be awarded by numbers. Any other method possible for the judges to keep in mind the above, the souvenirs that have been on exhibition all summer in the pavilion will be awarded the costumes. It is not the object of the Hard Times Parade to wear either new or expensive material. “Stick to the text” and appear in a hard times costume. The dressing rooms at the theater will be open and those who do not wish to dress at home for the parade may use the theater the same as last year.

To the dark eyed woman with the iron gray hair lying between white sheets of an upper room in a cottage at 179 Spence street, the coming of the Victoria cross to Winnipeg to Canada does not mean the same as it does in the barracks of the “Little Black Devils” at Yark and Main streets.

For she is not the glorious reciter of a hero, but the mother of one. And to be the mother of even a Victoria cross hero cannot make up for everything; and you will understand what I mean when I say that “Freddie” Hall was the insignia of his bravery as he fell dead shot through the temple by a German bullet.

“I would not have it otherwise,” says Mrs. Hall from her bed of illness, “but it only he had not had to die! Not so much for myself, I mean, as for him, isn’t it hard that he couldn’t have lived to know his own glory?”

And she turns her pining head away. This mother of heroes, for all her four sons are in the war because she does not cry. “Women have called me cruel,” she told me, “saying that I should be ashamed to send my boys to fight and die. But don’t you think mine is the harder part to be here alone, waiting for some word and knowing that I must not even cry, since my boys are only doing their duty? You must know how it hurts here inside how”

There is a stretch of ground that runs from the sandy marge of the Nor-man sea to the far, lovely slopes of the Swiss Alps, upon which no man dare tread who holds life dear. It is, in most places, but fifty yards wide, this ribbon of dirt, and it is covered with barbed wire, with pieces of burst shell and here and there a dead body lies moulding. It is the space between the German trenches and the allies’ line; and in Flanders they call it “No Man’s Land.”

“No Man’s Land” is a little bit narrower, a little bit more bullet riddled and rutted near Ypres than anywhere else. Here has been the most concentrated fighting of the whole war, and here it was that the first Canadians distinguished themselves forever when they stood undaunted against a wall of deadly gases and kept the Teuton hordes at bay, kept them from Calais!

The Ninetieth regiment, in which served “Freddie” Hall, late an invoice clerk of Winnipeg, were holding the first trenches here: this key to Ypres and the channel. If “the Ninetieth” could but hold this key, the German offensive would come to naught; that was the tremendous situation!

“Everything depended on this one line of earthworks ‘way out in front,’” writes Britain’s official “Eye-witness,” in his final description of this most terrible of battles. “It would appear that no living thing could abide there. All the deadly machines of war were battering away at it. But the Prussian was forbidden to pass! In the forward flung line, grim men, aged years by hours of fearful strain, faced a foe; they swayed with gas sickness; dead lay like flies in the trench bottoms and the dying nursed their wounds in silence—but they held till the reinforcements vic-tory-came!”

It was very near the end of this terrible baptism of fire that “Freddie” Hall, simply and suddenly, became the greatest hero of the greatest fight of the greatest war the world has ever seen. Hundreds of men and practically all the officers of the Ninetieth had been killed or maimed. Hall, but twenty-eight, had jumped to the front to lead his men—for none other appeared for the task.

He was cool and careless and divinely brave. Orders to try a charge came. Hall was first out of the trench, with a dozen men at his heels. But a rain of machine gun bullets hurled them back. Two men dropped in their tracks and Hall went out into the leaden storm and pulled them both back to safety.

Then there came a cry “Freddie!” Hall’s particular trench partner had failed to get back. He lay wounded far out in the evil stretch. Hands caught at Hall as he leaped the parapet, but he threw them off.

He crawled along the ground for twenty feet and grasped his wounded friend. He dragged him half a dozen feet, and called for help. None came. No one would dare “No Man’s Land.” Hall rose to his knees in an attempt to lift his pal. A German bullet whizzed through his head. Machine gun rain whited his dying friend.

Even in the mottled hell of these gas fogged trenches, the white heat of

TO DISCUSS NEED OF LARGER ARMY

Veterans of Foreign Wars Are in Encampment at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—Consideration of the alleged necessity for a larger army and reserve corps was expected to occupy much of the attention of the delegates who assembled here today for the sixteenth national encampment of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars of the United States.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is also meeting here at this time.

“The veteran reserve is needed for the safety of the country,” declared Lieut. Col. Robert S. Wood, of Pittsburg, who was one of the early arrivals.

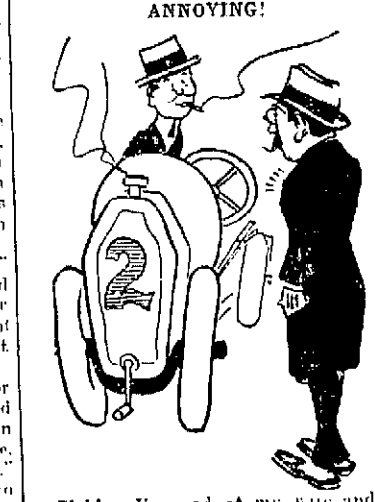

“The creation of a reserve force would stop a wasteful leak in our army administration.”
“Some people suppose uniforms can be shipped on a million men thereby giving us a fine army of soldiers. The fact is, however, no man is a soldier without training. It takes at least a year to whip him into shape.”

The Oldest Woman

The oldest woman present at Robison Park on Woman’s Day will be the park’s special guest of honor. She will ride in a coach in the Old Ladies’ parade at 2 p. m. and will occupy a special throne chair at the band stand during the exercises. H. E. Williams, principal of the Woodward schools of Toledo, who attends all the park’s special days, will crown her with a lavender diadem, even as he crowned the beautiful and modest young queen, Elizabeth Fisher, on Girls’ day. The special gift, a white and lavender knitted coat, will be placed upon her dear old form. K. A. Hawkins will then recite the oldest woman’s history and placing her in a waiting carriage he will take her about the Park grounds for an hour, so that every one may wish her happiness. Do not neglect so simple and so small a courtesy, that she may remember the day as one of the happiest she has ever known.

COMPLETE WORK ON WEISSER DIAMOND

Backstop in Weisser Park Goes Up Monday—Work to Continue.

The park department Monday is finishing the large backstop in the Weisser park baseball diamond, and by evening the work on the ball grounds will be completed. This is the second of the municipal parks to be finished in a fortnight, and the work of relaying and regrading and screening the others will continue. There are now six municipal diamonds under the care of the park department, but the Lawton and Weisser park grounds are the only ones in which the backstops have been erected.

The steps are constructed of three inch iron poles and extend across in the rear of the plate for forty feet and swing over at forty-five degree angles at the sides. They are covered with regulation baseball screen, and the diamonds and fields are laid out in accordance with the rules and regulations governing professional games.

The diamonds in use now include two in Swinney park, two in Foster park, one in Lawton and one in Weisser park.

City, saying Gen. Pablo Gonzalez, Carranza's commander there, had "promised safe conduct to the messengers who are to carry the appeal to Gen. Zapata and others."

Parker also reported destination among Americans in the capital and said 120, being aided by American embassy attaches, had asked to be sent to the United States.

A message from Consul Silliman, at Vera Cruz, reported that the bishop of Vera Cruz, who had been imprisoned by Carranza authorities for some time, had been released.

Advices from Monterey said Villa forces under Rosendo Hernandez and Raon Mulero, had advanced within nine leagues of the city.

Consul Silliman has been stricken by the hot weather, but his illness is not serious.

Carranza and Villa Get Appeal.

Word that both Carranza and Villa have received copies of the Pan-American appeal reached the state department today. From several sources it has been learned that Carranza's suggestion of a time has been favorably received by the Carranza officers and soldiers of the Carranza army.

There has been practically no fighting in Mexico for several days.

No Replies Received.

No replies to the Pan American appeal had been received today. State department officials are undecided whether to make them public after they are received before another conference with the Latin American diplomats is held.

Under the language of the appeal the Mexicans may invite some Latin American state to arrange the proposed peace conference and ignore the offer of the United States. Officials here say that only those invited will participate in the arrangements.

A state department dispatch from Torreon says the Villa garrison at Durango has revolted and that the city has been taken by Carranza forces.

Carranza Claims Support.

Gen. Carranza's agents here today made public telegrams from several groups, pledging their support to Gen. Carranza. The agency announced the telegrams were written at a time when the generals feared a "threat of armed intervention by the United States in the internal affairs of Mexico and participation in that movement by South and Central American states."

The American consul at Chihuahua reported today that all foreign shops owned by Gen. Villa have been returned to their owners. It is expected that Villa will do the same for the native shopkeepers. Villa took possession of the shops on the ground that the merchants were practicing extortion upon the famine-stricken inhabitants. His latest action follows his conference with Major General Scott.

MEXICAN BANDITS AGAIN ACTIVE.

Hostiles Trying to Sneak Over the Border in Small Groups.

Brownsville, Texas, Aug. 16. Reports of renewed attempts by Mexican bandits to reorganize their bands in the lower Rio Grande valley, were brought here today by Captain J. J. Sanders, J. T. Sanders, a detachment of United States cavalry patrol was fired on last night from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, near Mercedes, about thirty miles up the Rio Grande from here. The firing occurred at Progreso. The cavalrymen returned the fire and the shooting from the Mexican side stopped. There were no casualties among the American troops.

Captain Sanders said he had received reports that Mexicans are crossing into Texas, one or two at a time, and that they are attempting to gather again in Hidalgo county, west of Brownsville. Sunday, he said, a dozen approached a ranch house near San Benito, sending two to the house. The rancher's wife where her husband and his horses were. After satisfying themselves that both the man of the house and the horses were away, the Mexicans left. Rangers were searching for them today.

The twenty-fifth infantry from Texas City went on duty here today. About seventy-five of the Twenty-sixth were left at Kingsville, eleven miles north of Brownsville, and more than two companies went on patrol at Harlingen, between here and Kingsville.

Rangers and peace officers are disarming all Mexicans outside of the large towns throughout the Brownsville section. The finding of firearms in the possession of Mexicans is practically equivalent of a death warrant unless the Mexican is known to Americans as being peaceful. Even with such a record firearms are confiscated and a warning given not to obtain any more.

There is a state law against "pistol toting," but Mexicans in the country about here have avoided penalties of this law by carrying rifles.

VILLA ABANDONS HOLD-UP.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 16. A forced loan of $100,000 levied by Gen. Villa against the James Brittingham soap factory, a Mexican corporation at Gomez Palacio, has been lifted, it became known here today. Abandonment of the plan to collect the loan from the concern followed conferences between the northern leader and Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, who was recently sent to the Mexican border on a mission for the state department. Future movements of Gen. Scott were uncertain today, pending the receipt of further instructions from Washington.

NAVY SALUTES LABOR MEMBER OF CABINET FOR FIRST TIME.

Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson (center), Commander J. M. Reeves, of the battleship Oregon, and Miss Agnes Wilson, daughter of the cabinet member, during the review of warship fleet in San Francisco harbor.

San Francisco, Aug. 12. Labor, through its cabinet representative, received its first ceremonial salute from the United States navy here recently when Secretary W. B. Wilson was accorded a salvo of nineteen guns from the battleship Oregon.

At the Oregon's masthead the flag of the department of labor snipped to the breeze, while Secretary Wilson reviewed a Pacific squadron on August 3.

Secretary Wilson, who had come to San Francisco to preside at the National Conference on Unemployment, was plainly embarrassed as the central figure in this unique demonstration.

Dressed in plain street attire and bearing himself with almost reticent manner, he was in decided contrast to the pomp and gold head that made of the event a pageant.

When photographers asked him to pose beside one of the Oregon's big guns, he demurred, saying: "No, I don't know much about guns and don't care much for them."

It was plain that he had more satisfaction in the handshake of the grained hands among whom he worked than in many years of his in the belching shafts of big rifles or the dress formation of immaculate marines.

In a whisper he asked the young ensign who stood beside him on the gun turret about the various duties of naval etiquette, performing them with precision as the review progressed.

Not once did the wanted immobility of his face relax into a smile, and he did not speak a hundred words during the two-hour ceremony.

But there was something tremendously impressive about the quiet pose of labor's representative, standing on the gun turret of the Oregon, a man neither a soldier nor a statesman.

More than 1,000 prisoners fell into our hands. At Naregonesk the defenders were driven back still farther from their groups of fortifications.

"Army groups of Prince Leopold: During the night, the left wing fought its way across the Bug river east of Broeszyzn."

"After the center and right wings had captured Losyce and Miedzyrzec yesterday afternoon our opponents offered resistance only in the section of Toczawa and Kikowka between Miedzyrzec and Beutla, but this resistance was broken down east of Losyce at daybreak by an attack of the Silesian Landwehr. The enemy is being pursued."

"Army group of Field Marshal von Mackensen: The pursuit of the enemy continues. Cide and Shawytzso have been occupied east of Miodowa our troops are advancing on the eastern bank of the Bug."

RUSSIA HOLDS GERMAN PURSUIT CHECKED.

Both Russ and Teuton Forces Show Effects of Intense Struggle.

London, Aug. 16.—Military operations in the Eastern field are developing slowly. Both sides show the effects of the intensity of the Warsaw struggle. The German advance now centers on the efforts of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to force troops across the Dvina and eastward in the general direction of Petrograd and the near approach of the army of Prince Leopold of Serbia, to the new Breslau-Litovsk defense. Nothing is heard of the steady pressure of the Germans, the Russians have succeeded thus far in holding them west of the Dvina.

Balkan Crisis Near Climax.

The Balkan crisis is drawing near a climax. The national assemblies of Serbia and Greece met today with the probability of a definite decision as regards Bulgaria's territorial demands, upon which hinge the question of united action of the Balkan states with the allies.

In the best posted quarters here the outlook is regarded with a degree of pessimism. It is expected Serbia will seek a compromise and Greece will reject the Bulgarian contentions. Reports from Athens indicate that King Constantine is insisting the new cabinet must maintain strict neutrality, the effect of which would be to withhold Greece from participating in a plan of united Balkan co-operation with the allies.

Germany to Take a Hand.

In the meantime there are many evidences of Austro-German preparation to deal with the Balkan situation. According to information from Bucharest, German army corps have been concentrated near the junction of Hungary, Rumania and Serbia. This, with the bombardment of Belgrade and the activity of Austrian artillery at many points along the Danube, lends support to reports of a great Austro-German offensive in the Balkans.

The outcome of the crisis is awaited most anxiously as determining whether the allies will receive new support from the Balkans and whether Germany's supplies of ammunition for Turkey will continue to be shut off by the Balkan barrier.

Balkan officials do not expect an agreement will be reached, but the Serbian minister at London, M. Boshko-vitch, told the Associated Press he believed a middle ground would be found on which it will be impossible to unite the Balkan states.

LANGOHR MUST STAY IN COUNTY BASTILE

Judge Carl Yaple Denies Him Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Finding that the well established course of procedure in the city court in dealing with wife desertion and child neglect cases was within the law, Judge Carl Yaple, Monday, in the superior court, denied the application of William Langohr for a writ of habeas corpus for his release from the county jail.

In the city court Monday morning Langohr was bound over to the circuit court on the charge of child neglect under bond of $300, which he has failed to furnish.

In his petition for a writ of habeas corpus directed against Sheriff A. C. Gaidieux, Langohr alleged that he was being held illegally and without right inasmuch as the procedure against him in the city court was illegal.

Langohr started all the trouble for himself when some days ago he filed habeas corpus proceedings in the superior court for the custody of his children, who are under the care and jurisdiction of Bessie Griebel, sister of his deceased wife. When he appeared in court he was arrested on a charge of child desertion and taken to jail.

Saturday morning Judge Yaple denied his writ of habeas corpus, holding that Miss Griebel was in a better position to care for the children than their father.

After the hearing in the superior court Monday, Langohr was taken back to the county jail, where, if he is unable to give bond, he will be required to stay until his case is called for trial.

ASKS COURT TO GIVE SON TO HIS FATHER

Mother Complains That Lad, Given to Her, Will Not Obey.

A petition was filed in the superior court, Monday, by Laura B. Strain against her former husband, Peter Deutschman, asking that the custody of her son Carrol, who is now 14½ years old, be given to the father.

Mrs. Strain sets forth in her petition that she was divorced from Deutschman in 1911 and at that time she was given the custody of her three children. The elder boy is now over 17 years of age and able to care for himself and the younger, a girl, is not subject to her father's influence. She can do nothing with Carrol, she says.

She alleges that Deutschman persists in keeping Carrol with him and in keeping him away from his home during practically all of each day and far into the night. She says that the child is only home long enough to eat his meals and to sleep from midnight on. He refuses to obey her, she alleges, and for that reason she asks that the court give the custody of him to the father. She also asks for $5 a month for the support of the youngest child.

USES LAST BULLET TO CHEAT THE LAW

Dublin, Ireland, Aug. 16.—David Johnston was found dead this morning beneath a window of his house in Lurgan, County Armagh, in which for two days he had withstood a siege of the constabulary. A bullet wound below his eye and an empty revolver clutched in his hand indicated he had used his last cartridge to cheat the police of their quarry. Johnston, who is believed to have been mentally irresponsible, precipitated the trouble on Saturday by firing at registry enumerators who went to his house to deliver the official forms in connection with the national registration now under way.

"For my part I think it merely a ruse to get more power out of the workers. I am not a man so they can't take me to war, but they won't send me to a munitions factory. They know there will be trouble. They pay two shilling, eight pence (56 cents) a dozen for soldiers' khaki shirts and men must fight for better conditions for women."

THE MARKETS

BLUE MONDAY FOR THE LOCAL MARKET

Receipts Are Light and the Bidding is Very Inactive.

Blue Monday had its effects on the local markets today and a result receipts were very light and bidding inactive. The city scales experienced a very dull day, weighing but eighteen loads of hay and grain, nearly as slack as on the days when it rained, making it impossible for the farmer to get to the city. The quietness on the street may, however, be explained by the fact that the farmers took advantage of the good weather. The sunshine of yesterday and today has dried out the fields sufficiently for the farmer to get busy.

Farmers state that had not this wet weather spoiled about 50 per cent. of the oats crop that it would have been the record year for the grain. Never before have they seen the oats heads filled out as nicely as they were this year. However, they will not be able to gather half of it as it has become overripe and is all shelling out and going to waste. One farmer, whose oats crop is nearly all spoiled, wishes it stated that a certain "wideawake" who has blown his bugle and announced in a local newspaper that only 50 per cent. of the crops had been spoiled on account of the wet weather, must be another Rip Van Winkle who has not yet awakened, and that his little article must have been a bad dream.

Three loads of corn appeared on the street Monday morning but the bidding was light and as a result the price which prevailed Saturday took a tumble of 3 cents. All other market quotations remained unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Big receipts here and favorable weather for threshing and shipping had a bullish effect today on wheat. The arrivals here amounted to the huge total of 1,100 carloads. After opening 3 1/2c to 3 3/4c lower with September at $1.05 to $1.06 1/2, the market underwent a decided further rise.
The close, however, was a steady at 1 1/2c under Saturday night, with September at $1.04 1/2 and December, $1.04 1/2.
Corn showed heaviness in sympathy with wheat, and as a result of the lack of any urgent cash demand. Besides, Illinois reported good progress in earing. Opening prices, which ranged from 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c down, were followed by a moderate additional setback.
The close was steady at 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c net decline, with September, 73c and December, 69c 3/4c.

General commission house selling weakened out. About the only support came from retail orders to buy at a decline. Provisions trade was nearly at a standstill, and quotations inclined to be weak. The bullish outlook for the export trade appeared to act as a check on buyers.

of its best, while Crucible Steel, Westinghouse, Willys-Overland, Maxwell Motors and some less prominent stocks rose one to six points. Later the more season rises began to move forward, U. S. Steel rising over a point. Railways were mainly heavy as a result of their weakness in London.

The speculative character of the market was indicated from the fact that American Can, which advanced almost five points to a new high record, together with Studebaker, Goodrich and Tennessee Copper made up a very large part of the early trading. U. S. Steel was the actual leader, however, large blocks being exchanged at as high as 75 1/2, a gain of 2 1/2 from Saturday's close. Bonds were irregular.

Stocks and specialties were in further demand in the later dealings and railroads also showed a better tendency. The closing was about.

Apart from further activity in war shares at higher prices, today's market was characterized by considerable irregularity. A rally in exchange hardened prices at the end.

Baby Fingers Open Prison Doors for This Modern Georgia Jean Valjean

Bessie's Smile and Plea Win Pardon for "Lifer" Who Once Escaped and Became Police Chief, Only to Be Detected and Returned to Prison Cell.

By Honor Fleming.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 16. Prison doors that three years ago closed for life on Thomas Edgar Stripling have just been flung open by the tiny fingers of a little girl.

The touch of baby fingers put in motion state machinery that neither political pull nor official influence could power the turn, and the smiles of a little girl of six changed an inmate of despair to a man of hope, lifted the shadow of fear from a hunted, haunted man, who had lived for fifteen years in terror of the law's vengeance.

Stripling, the "lifer," whose story so closely parallels the story of Hugo's "Jean Valjean," will soon take his place again among free men and he'll owe his freedom to his little daughter, Bessie Lucille, who interceded with Governor Nathan Harris for her father's liberty.

Bessie Lucille, the convict's daughter, has learned more about prisons than she has about dolls and little girls' playthings since her father was arrested three years ago and sent back to prison for a crime committed many years before Bessie Lucille was born. Like a good little girl she waited just as daddy told her to for him to come back and "play home" or tell her stories. She was very homesome for her daddy. One day her mother took her to visit him in the state prison. It was the day that Georgia's new governor was inspecting the penitentiary.

The governor was engaged in talking to a committee of officials in the prison lobby when a sad-eyed woman and a shabby little girl passed by. No one noticed the little girl slip away from her mother and run up to the big, broad-shouldered governor, put her little fingers in his lift a smiling face and eyes filled with tears up to him and say: "Please, Mr. Governor, let my daddy come home with me; I want him."

"Who are you, child?" asked the governor.

"I'm just Bessie Stripling, my daddy's in prison, and I want him to come home with me."

A tense moment passed. The war veteran who governs Georgia is kind-hearted Bessie's eyes pleaded tenderly. The governor thought deeply for a few seconds. Then came the determining answer: "Run along, lassie; I'll send your daddy home soon."

Stripling's pardon will be officially conferred in about two weeks.

The Georgia prisoner, whose case has attracted attention the country over, was sentenced to prison eighteen years ago, charged with the murder of "Bill" Cornett. The crime was committed to satisfy the "unwritten law."

Stripling left a wife and two children behind him to live on charity or die without it. Their destitution made him desperate. After a year in prison he escaped. With his family he located at Danville, Va., and under the name of Morris soon became one of the most respected citizens in the community. For several years he was Danville's chief of police. But "murder will out." After fifteen years of liberty and right living "Morris" was recognized as a fugitive and returned to prison to serve out his life sentence.

Bessie Lucille Stripling and her dad dy as he looked when he was chief of police.

The savings of fifteen years were spent on lawyers' fees. His family was again destitute. Influential friends sought his release, but the law demanded its "pound of flesh."

Stripling's case had been given up as hopeless when his baby daughter twined her fingers into the fingers of Georgia's governor and asked him to "send daddy home."

There were two children in the Stripling family when "Bill" Cornett was murdered. When he was sent back to prison three years ago Stripling left twelve children behind. His family is broken, but the spirit of Georgia's Jean Valjean is brave and unflinching.

"Give me another chance," he asks, "and I'll square myself with the world and I'll be worthy of the devotion of my family and friends."

including himself. Then they decided to form a club of theatrical men. "The Seattle Order of Good Things," I was instructed to get an emblem bearing the inscription: "The Seattle O. of G. T."

Next Sunday six more theater men were initiated. There was only one officer—Cort was the factotum, and as soon as dues were paid in, they went out to liquidate the bunch. The name was changed to the Brotherhood of Eagles.

"I was instructed to write a ritual, on which the first 10,000 members were initiated into the lodge."

"That was the beginning. Today the lodges in the United States, Canada, Hawaii and in China number 3,000 and the membership is 500,000."

A "TRADE IN FT. WAYNE" PAGE

A crew of men working for The Sentinel is now in process of soliciting and compiling a novel advertising page—a Classified Business Directory of Fort Wayne, or "Trade in Fort Wayne." This will be printed in The Sentinel about September 1st. The purpose will be to display the business facilities of the city and the business houses entering will all be grouped in a handy manner, each under its business classification.

A unique feature of the enterprise is that the entire business directory, after appearing one day in The Sentinel, will be made permanent and convenient by its reproduction, identically, on large, stiff, white placards, the same size as the page in the paper and these will be hung up free of charge far and wide, all over the city.

This novel enterprise is causing much comment in business and purchasing circles of the city. Watch for the appearance of The Sentinel's Classified Business Directory on "Trade in Reading" Page—Fort Wayne's Business Blue Book.
